Academic Freedom in Africa

The Struggle Rages On

Edited by Yamikani Ndasauka University of Malawi, Malawi, Garton Kamchedzera

This book leaves no stone unturned in its comprehensive examination of the complex challenges surrounding academic freedom in Africa. Drawing on diverse perspectives and methodologies, it delves into the historical, philosophical, legal, and socio-political dimensions shaping academic freedom across the continent. The authors grapple with colonial legacies, tensions between Western and African notions of intellectual liberty, government authoritarianism, and institutional constraints that hinder open discourse and the pursuit of knowledge.

African Media and Communication

Foundational Conversations

Edited by viola c. milton University of South Africa, Winston Mano University of Westminster, UK

Series: Routledge Contemporary Africa

This book provides an important set of critical reflections from a selection of foundational scholars of African media and communication studies through biographical method. The book interrogates the center of mainstream academic scholarship by providing the foundational history and origins of an Africanist conceptual model while highlighting its significance globally. The editors use biographical and life story interviews to critically review the respondents' interpretations of their key works and arguments in relation to key moments in the field, the continent and globally. As such, it will be of interest to scholars of media and communications in Africa, and the global south.

An African Feminist Philosophy of Language

Olayinka Oyeleye

Series: Global Africa

This book calls for the institution of an African feminist philosophy of language, challenging existing debates and encouraging a move away from the Western gaze. Challenging the derogatory language found in proverbs which entrench patriarchal oppression, the book advocates for feminist postproverbials: new proverbs which draw on old traditions but reconstruct the space of woman in a new, egalitarian rhetorical tradition. The book will be an important resource for researchers from across the fields of gender and women studies, feminist philosophy, philosophy of language, cultural studies, and African studies.

An Anthology of African Cultural Studies, Volume I

Groundings

Edited by Keyan G. Tomaselli University of Johannesburg, South Africa, Handel Kashope Wright

This volume provides an overview of fundamental or 'grounding' themes in African Cultural Studies, including the articulation of African cultural studies, the issue of Africa's diaspora(s), African identity and identifications, and media studies in Africa and its relationship with cultural studies. The first of two volumes, the book predominantly pulls together a rich reservoir of previously published articles from Critical Arts: South-North Cultural and Media Studies, mapping a long history of the field that draws from a diverse range of origins and locations, especially from within Africa itself.

An Anthology of African Cultural Studies, Volume II

Directions

Edited by Handel Kashope Wright, Keyan G. Tomaselli University of Johannesburg, South Africa

This volume focuses on the directions that African cultural studies has taken over the years and covers the following central themes: contemporary issues in African cultural studies; Gender and the making of identity; the dual discourses of Afropessimism and Afrofuturism; problematizing the African diaspora and methodology and African cultural studies. The second of two volumes, the book predominantly pulls together a rich reservoir of previously published articles from Critical Arts: South-North Cultural and Media Studies.

Capitalism and Economic Crime in Africa

The Neoliberal Period

Edited by Jörg Wiegatz

This book offers a comprehensive analysis of economic crimes and market 'irregularities', including matters of trickery, parallel economy, illicit trade, economies of violence and criminalisation of the poor in neoliberal Africa. It investigates economic crime as a phenomenon of neoliberal reform and transformation, and unpacks crime as a societal—and particularly as a political-economic—phenomenon under capitalism. The book brings together research articles, briefings and updated blog posts that were published over a period of nearly 40 years (1986–2023), in the journal Review of African Political Economy (ROAPE) and on its website roape.net.

Civil Society Organisations and State-Owned Enterprises in South Africa

Promoting Accountability and Corporate Governance

Julieth Gudo

Series: African Governance

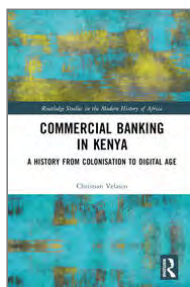

This book examines the important role which civil society organisations in South Africa play in challenging poor corporate governance in state-owned enterprises and demanding better government accountability, transparency, and citizen participation. The book will be useful to policy advisors, public servants and social justice activists, as well as to postgraduate students and researchers who are interested in African governance and accountability.

Commercial Banking in Kenya

A History from Colonisation to Digital Age

Christian Velasco

Series: Routledge Studies in the Modern History of Africa

This book investigates the impact of commercial banks in Kenya right through from their origins, to their role during the colonial period, the process of adaptation following independence, and up to their responses to new challenges and economic policies in the twenty-first century. It argues that commercial banks are fundamental to understanding African colonies, and the foundations over which the financial system of contemporary Africa was constructed. This book will be of interest to researchers of banking, economic history, the colonial period, and African studies.

Contested Heritage in Europe and Africa

Representation, Commemoration, and Memorialization of a Connected Past

Edited by Marco Zoppi

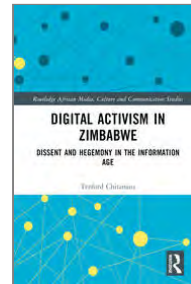

This book investigates Euro-African cultural relations, considering their connected histories through material and immaterial forms of representation, commemoration, and memorialization. Recent waves of protest around the world have called for restitution of looted African art, and toppled statues and vandalized monuments which are connected to white suprematism, colonialism, and imperialism. Providing a timely analysis of the developing cultural relations between Africa and Europe, this book will be an important resource for researchers across the fields of global history, heritage studies, memory studies, and international relations.

Digital Activism in Zimbabwe

Dissent and Hegemony in the Information Age

Tenford Chitanana

Series: Routledge African Media, Culture and Communication Studies

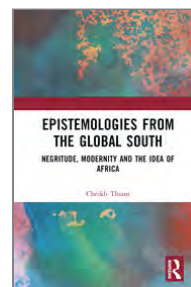

This book investigates the role of the internet and social media in political processes in non-western and non-democratic contexts. From the case of Zimbabwe, the book builds out a broader theoretical analysis of the evolution of 'third world protest' in the digital age, examining the limitations of activists' actions and the ideological deficit in online activism to ferment a virulent counter hegemony.

Epistemologies from the Global South

Negritude, Modernity and the Idea of Africa

Cheikh Thiam

This book argues that the pervasiveness of the modern paradigm and its corollary, the colonial matrix of power, have led scholars of Negritude to think of Leopold Sedar Senghor's work either as an anti-thesis to the anti-Blackness constitutive of European modernity or as another manifestation of the West as subject of history. As opposed to this tradition, the book reads Negritude through the prism of endogenous African world views without the filter of the modern Western paradigm. Ethnic Continuities and a State of Exception

Goodwill Zwelithini, Mangosuthu Buthelezi and Jacob Zuma

Gerhard Maré

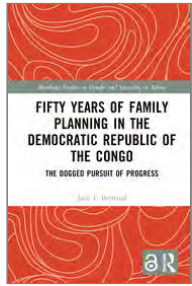

This book alerts readers to the dangers of tradition as a formal, structured politics, which enriches a narrowly elite minority while overriding democratic rights, effecting a 'state of exception' for the governance of millions who are rendered as 'subjects' in South Africa. Gerhard Maré sets his focus on three powerful men – Goodwill Zwelithini, Mangosuthu Buthelezi and Jacob Zuma – to illustrate how, from different social locations, each has relied on claims to Zulu tradition to occupy powerful and financially rewarding positions. Fifty Years of Family Planning in the Democratic Republic of the Congo

The Dogged Pursuit of Progress

Jane T. Bertrand

Series: Routledge Studies on Gender and Sexuality in Africa

This book chronicles five decades of struggle to introduce family planning into one of the largest, most complex countries in sub-Saharan Africa: the Democratic Republic of the Congo (DRC). Interweaving details of major political, social, and economic events into the history of family planning in DRC (formerly Zaire), the book analyses the achievements and setbacks of five decades of programmatic work. The book will be of interest to development and public health researchers and practitioners, as well as to historians of the Democratic Republic of the Congo.

Gender-Inclusive Higher Education in Tanzania

Transforming Academia

Edited by Susan P. Murphy, Perpetua John Urrio

Series: Routledge Studies on Gender and Sexuality in Africa

Whilst there is an extensive body of research exploring the barriers to gender equality and female empowerment in high-income states, there are far fewer systematic analyses within lower-income settings. This book draws on extensive empirical data to analyse gender mainstreaming and gender transformative actions in Tanzanian higher education. By bringing together real-world insights from action-based research, the book demonstrates the impact of real-time social change and gender transformation, with implications both for Tanzania and beyond, this book will be of interest to researchers and policy makers across the fields of gender studies, education, and African studies.

Intellectual Decolonisation

Critical Perspectives

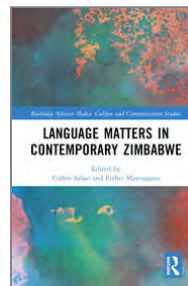

Edited by George Hull University of Cape Town, South Africa

This book puts contemporary calls for decolonisation in context. Featuring an interdisciplinary team of scholars from around the world, the book explores and critically assesses the diverse theoretical visions which inform calls for decolonisation of the mind today. As this book demonstrates, advocates of intellectual decolonisation give very different—indeed, incompatible—answers to these questions. Critically examining conceptualisations of decolonisation spanning a century and four continents, the book explores what is at stake in the choice between these theoretical alternatives. This book was originally published as a special issue of Social Dynamics.

Magical Realism in Africa

Literary and Dramatic Explorations

Edited by Sarali Gintsburg , Kenneth Usongo

Series: Routledge Studies in African Literature

Magical realism has deep roots across many African languages and regions. This book explores African magical realism from a transregional and inclusive approach, drawing on contributions from different literary genres across the continent. The chapters in the book constitute a sustained and insightful reflection on the salient components of this literary genre as well as evaluating its connections to themes of conflict, violence, women's rights, trauma, oppression, culture, governance, and connecting to the African self. This book is a timely contribution to debates within African literature, cultural anthropology, ethnography, and folklore.

Maye! Maye!

The History and Heritage of the Kwa Mai Mai Market

Siphso Sithole

This book presents an analysis of Johannesburg's Kwa Mai Mai market, which was once known to regulars as 'a place of healing' and has experienced numerous changes of significant national transformation over time. It explores how the Kwa Mai Mai community, formerly a working class of migrants, reversed roles and took control of the means of production from the dominant class. This book also chronicles the significance of cultural memory and discusses how it can be used as a weapon to not only resist subjugation but also to invoke entrepreneurial and creative spirit. Routledge Handbook of Critical African Heritage Studies

Edited by Ashton Sinamai Flinders University, Australia, John D. Giblin National Museums Scotland, UK, Shadreck Chirikure University of Oxford, UK, Ishanlosen Odiaua

This handbook is a foundational reference point for critical heritage research about Africa and its diaspora. Foregrounding the diversity of knowledge needed to examine heritage issues in such a diverse continent, the contributors argue for an understanding heritage that is at once both natural and cultural, tangible and intangible, political and dissonant, going beyond the physical and objective to include subjective narratives, performances, rituals, memories and emotions. A crucial contribution to our understanding of African conceptions and practices of heritage, this book is important to scholars of African Studies, history, archaeology, anthropology heritage and museum studies.

The God in Us

How African Spirituality Ignited World Religion and Global Civilisation

Hlumelo Biko

Series: Routledge/UNISA Press Series

This book traces the unitary source of all of the world's major religions. The book underscores the fact that there are many ways in which humanity has sought revelation of God, yet there is a common inspiration behind humanity's God concept. The author's analysis of world religions or faiths adopts a multi-interdisciplinary approach taking the reader through historical, anthropological, archaeological, and theological viewpoints to make juxtapositions. The Quest for Unity

An Appraisal of Regional Integration in Africa

Edited by Sizo Nkala, David Monyae

Regional integration was identified many years ago as being critical to Africa's quest to overcome its colonially induced underdevelopment. To encourage this, several potentially significant programmes or projects have been stillborn or inadequately implemented, including the establishment of RECs and operationalisation of AfCFTA. This book provides a deeper insight into pertinent conceptual and theoretical issues of vital importance to Africa's development. It also presents case studies of several of the RECs, as well as the processes involved in constructing the AfCFTA. Print edition not for sale in Sub Saharan Africa

The Routledge Handbook of the New African Diasporic Literature

Edited by Lokangaka Losambe, Tanure Ojaide
University of North Carolina, Charlotte, USA.

Series: Routledge International Handbooks

The Routledge Handbook of the New African Diasporic Literature introduces world literature readers to the transnational, multivocal writings of immigrant African authors. Covering works produced in Europe, North America, and elsewhere in the world, the book investigates three major aesthetic paradigms in African diasporic literature: the Sankofan wave (late 1960s- early 1990s); the Janusian wave (1990s-2020s); and the Offshoots of the New Arrivants (those born and growing up outside Africa).

The South African Tradition of Racial Capitalism

Edited by Zachary Levenson Florida International University, USA, Marcel Paret

Series: Ethnic and Racial Studies

This book documents the emergence and development of the theory of racial capitalism in apartheid South Africa. It interrogates the specificity of this theory in the South African context and draws lessons for its global applicability. The volume contributes to a burgeoning literature on the concept of "racial capitalism," the origins of which many commentators trace back to apartheid South Africa. It pays particular attention to the crucial role of anti-apartheid activists as theorists, whose important insights remain relevant for scholars and activists around the globe. This book was originally published as a special issue of Ethnic and Racial Studies.

Ubuntu Ethics

Human Dignity, Moral Perfectionism, and Needs

Motsamai Molefe

Series: Routledge Studies in African Philosophy

This book provides a philosophical exposition of Ubuntu ethics, which is grounded in the understanding that 'a person is a person through other persons'. Written by one of the world's leading scholars of African philosophy, the book first argues that this focus on umuntu (or, a person) in Ubuntu ethics as intrinsically valuable, makes ethical humanism and human dignity vitally important. Providing an important guide through Ubuntu ethics as a moral system constructed in terms of moral perfectionism, it will be an important read for researchers of African philosophy, and of the philosophy of virtue ethics and moral perfectionism more generally.

Youth in Post-Apartheid South Africa

A Sociological Perspective

Acheampong Yaw Amoateng, Elizabeth Biney

Series: Routledge Contemporary South Africa

This book investigates the life experiences of youth in South Africa, considering whether contemporary youth have benefitted from the socioeconomic reconstruction of post-apartheid society. Student protests against apartheid drove transformative change in South Africa, and the subsequent new constitution promised vast positive change for the nation's youth.. The book argues that in 1976 South Africa's youth became the conscience of the nation when they brought the apartheid regime to its knees during the Soweto uprising. This book will be of interest to researchers across the social sciences, most especially in the fields of Sociology, Demography, Development Studies, and Psychology.

'Dying' to be White

The Obsession with Fair Skin in India and the Global South

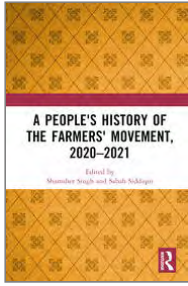

Purnima Mehta Bhatt

This book examines the phenomenon of colourism in India and the Global South and critically analyses the obsession with fair skin and its association with social capital or mobility. How much did Colonialism and European imperialism contribute to the desire to be white? How has globalisation and the spread of consumer culture and western ideals of beauty helped exacerbate these issues? The author discusses these questions while looking at the aspirations for beauty and modernity among these societies and the growing popularity of the use of creams, lotions, and other methods to whiten the skin as a means to assimilate, emulate the West, and gain better prospects and life.

Between Resistance and Conformity

Premchand's Fiction in Colonial North India

Shailendra Kumar Singh

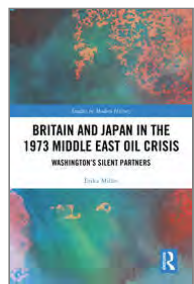

This book examines the questions of conformity and resistance with respect to Premchand's literary corpus. Mapping the various complexities of interwar India, it demonstrates how the passive peasant protagonists of the writer's works present a diametrically opposed definition of dharma as compared to their nationalist counterparts. It also examines the asymmetry between Premchand's representations of women as compliant domestic subjects and those that portray them as rebel patriots of colonial North India. Britain and Japan in the 1973 Middle East Oil Crisis

Washington's Silent Partners

Erika Miller University of Niigata Prefecture, Japan

Series: Routledge Studies in Modern History

Using important primary sources from Japan, Britain, and the United States—including recently declassified Japanese documents that had not previously been examined—this book contends that previous literature failed to address the important role of Britain and Japan and their political impact on the development in the historical events of 1973 and 1974. Miller argued that the support from both countries enabled the United States to take the lead in the peace process as well as in discussions to resolve the energy crisis. An insightful read for scholars interested in the Arab-Israeli conflict and the tensions between Arab oil producing countries and developed consumer countries.

Citizenship, Belonging, and the Partition of India

Edited by Neeti Nair University of Virginia, USA

This book revisits the aftermath of the partition of 1947, and the war of 1971, to examine some of the longer-term consequences of the redrawing of borders across South Asia. From the eastern frontier of Assam to the westernmost reaches of Gujarat and Sindh, the chapters in this volume study the "minority question" and show how it has manifested in different regional contexts. The essays argue that a deep dive into how people have been affected by border-making and remaking in each of these frontier regions is integral to understanding the "big picture" that is South Asia. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Asian Affairs.

Comfort Women of the Japanese Empire

Colonial Rule and the Battle over Memory

Park Yuha

Series: Routledge Studies in the Modern History of Asia

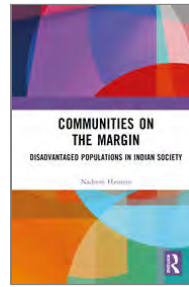

This is an important and controversial book, hitherto available only in Korean, Japanese and Chinese, a book which has been subject to court cases attempting to have some parts of the book deleted. The author reconsiders the issue of the "comfort women", that is the Korean women who were compelled to provide sexual comfort to Japanese troops during the Asia-Pacific War. She explores the human complexity of the experiences of these women, who despite terrible exploitation, she feels, cannot and should not only be considered only as passive victims.

Contemporaneity of the Mahabharata Narrative

Epic of the Moment

Edited by Anirban Bhattacharjee, Dhruvajyoti Sarkar

Notwithstanding its renowned comprehensive narrative encapsulation of the Indic culture, the Mahabharata keeps on posing a challenge to its contemporary readers: how do we relate to something over two millennia old in today's context without freezing it in time? This volume looks at the problem from diverse periods and standpoints and shows us that this challenge is, in fact, a legacy of the Mahabharata and the responses to this challenge is what makes the text ever-contemporary to different readers of different times and positions.

Creationism in a South Korean Culture

Science, Religion, and the Struggle against Evolution

Hyung Wook Park Nanyang Technological University, Singapore

Series: Routledge Contemporary Asia Series

Through an intensive study of antievolutionary movement in South Korea during the twentieth and early twenty-first centuries, Park investigates the unexpected success of early Korean creationists. This book argues that South Korea's creationism stemmed from its past as a developmental state during the Cold War but proliferated further amid subsequent democratization and globalization. Creationism reflected the new identifications of some Korean scientists and engineers with evangelical faith, who actively formed their own domain outside of the state hegemony and authority. A valuable reference for scholars interested in the interaction between science and religion in East Asia.

Cultures of Learning

Mapping the New Spaces of Critical Pedagogy in India

Edited by Suresh Babu G.S Jawaharlal Nehru University, India, Arunima Naithani

This book looks at educational institutions and their role as sites of learning in times of moral and political chaos. It highlights the erosion of critical pedagogical traditions in universities in India and registers the ongoing responses and struggles as educational experiences. This book develops a critical approach by redefining education from the perspective of learning as a political act to experience the complex network of learning activities beyond the confines of educational institutions. It also locates caste, gender and religious hierarchies in schools and universities in India.

Cultures of Modernity and the U.S.-Japan Cold War Alliance

Masami Kimura

Series: Routledge Studies in the Modern History of Asia

Cultures of Modernity and the U.S.-Japan Cold War Alliance reconsiders the origins of postwar U.S.-Japan relations by focusing on "modernization" ideologies that the Americans and the Japanese shared in the 1940s-early 1950s. Mobilizing a wealth of English and Japanese-language sources, the author identifies parallel groups of modernist thinkers in America and Japan and follows how different strands of thought played out within an evolving political environment.

Dalit Counter-publics and the Classroom

A Sharmila Rege Reader

Edited by V Geetha, Uma Chakravarti

This book is an anthology of the collected essays of Sharmila Rege (1964 – 2013), which address themes to do with pedagogy and culture. Rege makes a compelling argument for rethinking the content of sociological knowledge and invokes in this context, Anticaste radical philosophies, associated with Mahatma Phule and Babasaheb Ambedkar as well as the writings of Dalit women. Equally, she seeks to rethink and engender the domain of Cultural Studies.

Development, Transformations and the Human Condition

Essays in Honour of Jayati Ghosh

Edited by Sumangala Damodaran, Smita Gupta, Sona Mitra, Dipa Sinha Independent Researcher, Delhi, India

The world is grappling to come up with alternative imaginations for transformation despite repeated crises, inequalities and immiseration caused by the increasing dominance of the neo-liberal capitalist framework and the collapse of twentieth-century socialist models. This book looks at concepts that form the core of development economics and political economy and brings together perspectives that explore the inextricable relationship between development and human rights, social movements and the call for social transformation.

East Asian Ethical Life and Socio-Economic Transformation in the Twenty-First Century

The Ethical Sources of the Entrepreneurial Renewal of Companies and Communities

Edited by Carsten Herrmann-Pillath, Qian Zhao

Series: Routledge Studies in the Growth Economies of Asia

This book considers ethical culture in East Asia, examines the impact it has had on economic and social transformation, and explores what effect it might have on solving current problems. It views the ethical culture of East Asia, that is the beliefs, values and practices that define East Asian societies' conceptions of ethics in everyday life, as different from what pertains in the West, with more emphasis in East Asia on respect for ancestors, concern about propriety of behaviour, and notions of community.

Encounters with the Invisible

Revisiting Spirit Possession in the Himalayas

Edited by Marie Lecomte-Tilouine, Anne de Sales

This volume considers spirit possession in the Himalayas and the various ways in which invisible powers are made present. It does so by examining material representations of these powers through artefacts, animals, plants and natural substances, while also focusing on narratives of people's encounters with the invisible that may help them to reconfigure reality. Through these two approaches, the contributions examine new phenomena associated with the concepts of "possession" and "shamanism", which otherwise tend to lead research into well-worn furrows.

Engaging with a Nation

Representations of India in the 21st Century

Edited by Siddhartha Biswas

The book looks at the impact that the idea and institution of nationhood have had on the constituents of India in the contemporary postcolonial period. It provides a critical analysis through a variety of perspectives—historical, philosophical, literary, and gendered, and locates the nation and its “discontents”, along with its nationalist agenda firmly within the context of the contemporary perceived modernity. The book also engages with the colonial legacy that the ‘nation’ had to endure for two hundred years.

From Civil War to Soft Authoritarianism

Ethnonationalism and Democratic Regression in Sri Lanka

Neil DeVotta Wake Forest University, USA

Series: Routledge Contemporary South Asia Series

This book shows how Sri Lanka's civil war gradually undermined liberal democracy and caused the country to regress toward the current soft authoritarian dispensation. In doing so, it introduces the concept of 'ethnic supererogation,' a governing system built around the notion that a majority ethnic group and/or the state could go beyond the standard expectations to accommodate minority concerns and institute incentives for ethnic minorities to operate within a united state so as to preclude dissension and secession.

Hindi Cinema and Pakistan

Screening the Idea and the Reality

Meenakshi Bharat University of Delhi, India

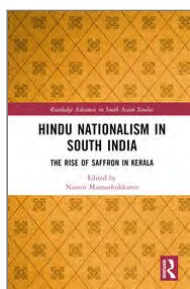

Ever since the 1947 partition of the Indian subcontinent, Mumbai-based Hindi cinema has been returning compulsively to the idea of Pakistan, sometimes as the desirable other, sometimes as the horrifying antagonist. Hindi Cinema and Pakistan traces the genesis and development of this theme in Hindi cinema in the 1950s, showcasing its relevance as a tool that both reflects and shapes how India sees its neighbour, the India–Pakistan relationship, and itself.

Hindutva before Hindutva

Selected Writings and Discourses of Chandranath Basu in Translation

Edited by Amiya P. Sen

This book weaves the past with the present to trace and analyse the distinctive but reiterative evocations of Hindutva ideology in the modern-colonial period. It studies the concept of Hindutva as understood by its first major spokesperson Chandranath Basu, a formidable late 19th-century scholar-critic. The author examines the new rhetoric that has shaped Hindu ideologies in a colonial-modern context by foregrounding debates between Chandranath Basu and radical revisionists such as Rabindranath Tagore. It provides original translations of Basu's works and brings to light a long-neglected professional literary critic.

Home Across Borders

The Ethnography of Sri Lankan Immigrants in Australia

Jagath Bandara Pathirage

This book studies how transnational migrants create a sense of home in their host countries. It draws on case studies of Sri Lankan migrants living in Australia to argue that 'home' is an existential experience rather than a fixed entity. The author looks at how the sense of home arises as a fresh category which is critical in defining one's existentiality in the host society.

Hunter, Peasant, Rebel

Colonialism and the British Assam Frontier

Manjeet Baruah Jawaharlal Nehru University, New Delhi

Series: Empire and Frontiers

British Assam holds an important place in the history of the British Empire in South Asia. This is especially so in the context of colonial frontier-making. It is in this regard that the book examines what it culturally meant to be a hunter, peasant or rebel between the late nineteenth and mid-twentieth century in the British Assam frontier. Using a wide spectrum of archival sources, the hunters' memoirs, the peasants' ballads, and a rebel's worldview are examined as the cultural forms through which one can study these relations that generated the sense of colonial reality in these figures.

India, South Korea and the ASEAN

Middle Power Diplomacy in the Indo-Pacific

Edited by Harsh V Pant Professor, King's College London, UK, Premesha Saha

With the U.S.-China geostrategic competition heating up, the time is opportune for South Korea, ASEAN, and India to draw on their middle power status to bolster regional security and economic cooperation to protect their interests from any potential superpower fallout. This book investigates the diverse possibilities for collaboration within the India-ASEAN-ROK trilateral framework. It explores the various avenues of cooperation that this new trilateral initiative can benefit from, ranging from security, economic, institutional platforms, and technology to sustainable development and climate change.

Indigeneity, Marginality and the State in Bangladesh

Homeless at Home

Nasir Uddin University of Chittagong, Bangladesh

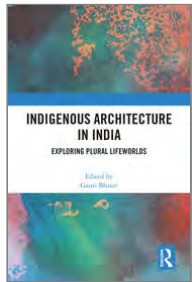

This book explores the critical linkages between indigeneity, marginality, and the state in Bangladesh. Indigeneity is progressively gaining currency in politics and thereby becoming an active force in the larger context of national activism with transnational patronage and international support. Drawing on comprehensive and solid ethnographic accounts, the book offers a broader understanding of the process of marginalisation and the emergence of new leadership among the Khumi, an indigenous group of Bangladesh.

Japan in the 1960s

Ten Years of Turning Points

Edited by Robert D. Eldridge, Jason M. Morgan Reitaku University, Japan

Series: Inside East Asia

This book is the first to see the 1960s as a historical subject in its own right and argues that the specificity and internal complexity rooted in East Asia during this period showed how East Asians were dynamic agents in shaping the decade. From street battles over Japan's security treaty with the United States, to a peace treaty with the former Japanese territory of South Korea, to Japan's hosting the 1964 Summer Olympics, the 1960s in Japan was a decade of turning points. An important volume for historians, political scientists, sociologists, and other scholars interested in cutting-edge history-writing about a transformative ten-year period in East Asia.

Keramat, Sacred Relics and Forbidden Idols in Singapore

William L. Gibson

Series: Routledge Contemporary Southeast Asia Series

Keramat, holy graves and shrines, represent physical markers of Singapore's history as a multi-ethnic maritime trading center. They offered sanctified spaces not only for Muslims but the entire community in which they were found. This book concludes by critically examining the often-tense relationship between keramat and authority, both secular and religious, from colonial to modern times. The dilemmas of grappling with puritanical norms and grassroots elaborations in varying modes of preservation are investigated here. A vital resource for scholars, it contributes to a people's history of Singapore, one that both deepens and problematizes official historical accounts.

Kinship as Fiction

Exploring the Dynamism of Intimate Relationships in India

Edited by Anindita Majumdar, Yoko Taguchi

Bringing together emerging ethnographies on kinship in South Asia, this book explores the idea of kinship as 'fiction' in intimate relationships. This edited volume resurrects the idea of fiction and fictive-ness to understand how intimate relationships may use these particular labels, translate into practices, or create an experiential understanding around relationships. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Contemporary South Asia.

Knowledge, Power and Ignorance

The Indian Context

Edited by Bidhan Kanti Das, Gorky Chakraborty
Associate Professor, Institute of Development Studies
Kolkata, India, Abhijit Guha

This volume seeks to be premised in a framework where ignorance is understood as being a socially produced and maintained phenomenon, where the ways of knowing and not knowing are interdependent. It is a novel attempt for an academic re-orientation of the Knowledge–Ignorance paradigm through a process of re-interpretation of the bounded purview attached with the existing epistemological understandings. This interdisciplinary volume will be of interest to a cross-section of academics and students of sociology, social anthropology, political science, human geography, history, public policy and development studies.

Muslim Enlightened Thought in South Asia

Ayesha Jalal Tufts University, USA

This book is an engaging history of the enlightened liberality of modern Muslim poets, philosophers, educationists, novelists, historians, artists, and public intellectuals, who drew on a long Muslim intellectual tradition beyond the "Western" liberalism of empire. Foregrounding the enlightened conceptions of Ghalib, Sayyid Ahmad Khan, Iqbal and Sadequain on faith, selfhood, history, and time - and bringing other Muslim thinkers out of the shadows, the book offers a nuanced reformulation of the meaning of religion for our challenging times. It will be of interest to a wide readership interested in the history of Islam and South Asia.

Sociology of Rationality

Critiques and Creative Conversations

Edited by Soumyajit Patra, Tattwamasi Paltasingh

This book is a socio-historical analysis of rationalism as a worldview — that guides many of our actions in concrete everyday life — and as a philosophy — that guides our epistemological understanding of the reality around us. It explores the multifaceted manifestations of the idea in the Enlightenment philosophy, modern sociological theorising and in post-structural standpoints. The volume also critiques rationality from feminist, subaltern and post-colonial perspectives. Finally, it delves into the multilayered sociological significances of rationalisation of different domains of life.

South Asian Pornographies

Vernacular Formations of the Permissible and the Obscene

Edited by Darshana Sreedhar Mini University of Wisconsin-Madison, USA, Anirban K. Baishya University of Wisconsin-Madison, USA

South Asian Pornographies is the first consolidated volume that explores the relationships between pornography, obscenity, law and desire in South Asia. Focusing on case studies from India, Sri Lanka and Bangladesh while gesturing towards other countries in South Asia, the authors of this volume come from fields as varied as history, literature, media and communication, and the visual arts. The book proposes that as a geo-political location, South Asia has a unique relationship to pornography, given the multiplicity of cultural and legal-censorial regimes that define the obscene and the permissible. The chapters were originally published in the journal Porn Studies.

Southward Bound

Examining the Regional Policies of Taiwan and South Korea

Edited by Nurliana Kamaruddin Universiti Malaya, Malaysia, Karl Chee Leong Lee Institute of China Studies, University of Malaya, Malaysia, Nur Shahadah Jamil Universiti Malaya, Malaysia

This book looks at the regional policies of two 'middle powers' in the Indo-Pacific region: Taiwan and South Korea and provides critical reflections on the ways both the countries have sought to broaden their options for strategic manoeuvres with their southern neighbours. The chapters in this edited volume carefully examine the 'New Southbound Policy' (NSP-T), introduced by Taiwan (2016-present), and the 'New Southern Policy' (NSP-K), by South Korea (2017-2022). This book will be of great value to students and scholars interested in Asian Studies, foreign policies of Asian countries, politics and international security. The chapters were originally published in Asian Affairs.

Space and Play in Japanese Videogame Arcades

Jérémie Pelletier-Gagnon

Series: Routledge Contemporary Japan Series

This book presents a scholarly investigation of the development and culture of Japanese videogame arcades. Providing an overview of the historical evolution of public amusement spaces from the early rooftop amusement spaces from the early 19th century to the modern multi-floor and interconnected arcade complexes that characterizes the urban fabric of contemporary Japan, the book argues that arcade videogames and their associated practices must be examined in the context in which they are played, situated in the interrelation between the game software, the cabinets as material conditions of play, and the space of the venue that frames the experience.

Territorializing the Chinese Nation-State

Cartography, Geopolitics, and Huang Maocai's Mission to India (1878–1880)

Edited by Kamal Sheel, Ranjana Sheel

This book is the first annotated translation of the travelogues of Huang Maocai. A trained Chinese cartographer in the service of the imperial Qing state, he was officially deputed to ascertain the Tibet-India land route and the geo-political status of British India in the 19th century. His travelogues are the first authoritative modern Chinese texts exploring the physical and ideological connections between China and India. Unpublished for a long time, and so far, unavailable in an English translation, these texts provide meaning to many key issues that enshroud the concepts of civilization and nation.

The Abolition of the Ottoman Caliphate, 1924

Debates and Implications

Edited by Elisa Giunchi, Nicola Melis

Series: Durham Modern Middle East and Islamic World Series

This book explores the decision by the Grand National Assembly of Turkey in 1924 to abolish the caliphate. The Ottoman sultans had long borne the title of caliphs of Islam, with all the prestigious authority throughout the Muslim world which went with it, and even after the demise of the sultanate in 1922 the caliphate retained great symbolic relevance. The book considers the questions that arose with its abolition, including whether or not the caliphate should be revived, reformed or replaced by other forms of political affiliation and organization.

The New BJP

Modi and the Making of the World's Largest Political Party

Nalin Mehta

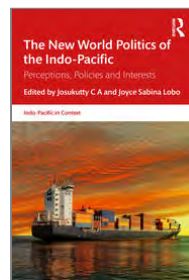

This book examines how the BJP became the world's largest political party. It goes beyond the usual narrative of the party's Hindutva politics to explain how, under Narendra Modi, the party reshaped the Indian polity using its own brand of social engineering. According to the findings of this book, this reconstruction was cleverly powered by new caste coalitions, the claim of a new welfare state that focused on marginalised social groups and the making of a women-voter base. Print edition not for sale in South Asia (Bangladesh, Bhutan, India, Nepal, Pakistan and Sri Lanka).

The New World Politics of the Indo-Pacific

Perceptions, Policies and Interests

Edited by Josukutty C A University of Kerala, India, Joyce Sabina Lobo St Aloysius College (Autonomous), India

Series: Indo-Pacific in Context

The book offers vivid analysis of new geopolitics in the Indo-Pacific in terms of big power rivalry between US-China and country wise perspectives situating largely within the late 2000s and culminates with developments of the COVID 19 period. It captures the mosaic of stakeholders—rivals the US and China along with Russia; other QUAD members Australia, India, and Japan; key ASEAN members, Indonesia, Malaysia, Singapore, and Vietnam; vulnerable states in East Asia viz., Taiwan and South Korea; and groupings including the ASEAN and QUAD— that constitutes the new world politics of the Indo-pacific.

The Order of Destruction

Monoculture in Colonial Caribbean Literature, c. 1640-1800

Heinrich Wilke

Series: Transdisciplinary Souths

This book studies sugarcane monoculture, the dominant form of cultivation in the colonial Caribbean, in the later 1600s and 1700s up to the Haitian Revolution. Researching travel literature, plantation manuals, Georgic poetry, letters, and political proclamations, this book interprets texts by Richard Ligon, Henry Drax, James Grainger, Janet Schaw, and Toussaint Louverture. His study will be of interest to literary critics and historians working in the early Americas, to students and scholars of agriculture, colonialism, and (racial) capitalism, to those working in the environmental humanities, and to Marxist academics.

The Plural Social Sphere

Insights from Contemporary Indian Society

Edited by Sakarama Somayaji The Energy and Resources Institute (TERI), India, Ganesha Somayaji, Joanna P. Coelho

This book reiterates pluralism as the basic feature of the Indian social sphere. It highlights challenges to the continuity of the plural fabric of India's society and culture. Acknowledging that socio-political concerns on women's issues do not always find adequate representation in social science texts, the book explores issues and policies related to gender.

The Political Economy of Hungarian Authoritarian Populism

Capitalists without the Right Kind of Capital

Samuel Rogers

Series: BASEES/Routledge Series on Russian and East European Studies

This book emphasises the importance of state-business relations and external capital for structuring and strengthening authoritarian populism in Hungary. It argues these capitalist relations are crucial to understanding the economic aspects of this ideology, which has developed in the country since 2010. The book investigates both 'internal' and 'external' legs of the Hungarian political economy. First how a politically loyal national capital owning class has subsumed domestic business. Second the government's operationalisation of 'new' inward transnational capital inflows to finance large-scale infrastructure projects, which complement extant investment particularly from Germany.

The Routledge Handbook of Craft and Sustainability in India

Edited by Rebecca Reubens Center for Environmental Planning and Technology, Ahmedabad & Rhizome, Ahmedabad, India, Tanishka Kachru National Institute of Design, Ahmedabad, India

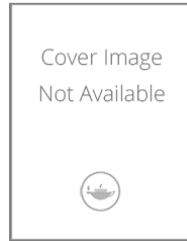

Traditional crafts have been an essential part of Indian history, culture and life. This handbook looks at craft as both a cultural artefact that reflects people's worldviews, indigenous practices and traditions, as well as a source of income generation and development that is inclusive. India's rapid development has meant a breakdown of traditional economies, and including craft production-to-consumption systems.

The Routledge Handbook of Tribe and Religions in India

Contemporary Readings on Spirituality, Belief and Identity

Edited by Maguni Charan Behera Rajiv Gandhi University, Itanagar, India

This handbook explores the diversity of religious practice in tribal cultures in India. It looks at the interactive spaces where the religious practices of tribes and other communities have changed and adapted through the years in contemporary India. Tribe as a social category emerged in India during the colonial period; this handbook departs from the conventional approaches to studying 'tribal religion' and analyses the intersections of spirituality, rituals, gender and identities within tribal religion through a cross-cultural and pan-Indian perspective.

The Russian Revolution of 1917 - Memory and Legacy

Edited by Carol S. Leonard, Daniel Orlovsky, Jurej Petrov

Series: BASEES/Routledge Series on Russian and East European Studies

The way in which the Russian Revolution of October 1917 is regarded and commemorated has changed considerably over time, and is a contentious subject, well demonstrated by the absence of any official commemoration in Russia in 2017, a huge contrast to the very large celebrations which took place in Soviet times. This book, which brings together a range of leading historians of the Russian Revolution – from both Russia and the West, and both younger and older historians – explores the changes in the way in which the October 1917 Revolution is commemorated, and also examines fundamental questions about what the Russian Revolution – indeed what any revolution – was anyway.

The Struggle for Abolition

Power and Legitimacy in Multilateral Nuclear Disarmament Diplomacy

Kjølvi Egeland

This book investigates the pursuit by states, civil society groups, and international organisations of nuclear abolition. Detailing the evolution of the institutional architecture for multilateral nuclear disarmament from the 1960s onwards, The Struggle for Abolition tells a story of high hopes, broken promises, and clashing views of history, security, and the future. The book concludes with a discussion of policy implications and a reflection on successes and failures in the history of multilateral nuclear disarmament. The volume will be of great interest to scholars and researchers of diplomacy, history, and politics and international relations.

The Trial That Shook Britain

How a Court Martial Hastened Acceptance of Indian Independence

Ashis Ray

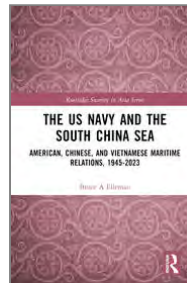

The Indian National Army trials of 1945-46 have generally been given short shrift by historians in their cataloguing of the Indian freedom movement. This book examines to what extent the trials had an impact on the final phase of India's quest for independence. In so doing, it unveils that, while the Indian National Congress' extended odyssey was essentially about a passive push-back, at a critical juncture of its campaign to extinguish British colonialism in India, it applauded and capitalised on the INA's use of force.

Theorizing a Bengali Nation

Abul Hashim and the United Bengal Movement, 1937–1947

Sucharita Sen

This book explores the philosophical and political roots of the United Bengal movement of 1947 that emerged as a final bid to keep the province united against Partition. Through Abul Hashim, one of its architects, it explores the idea of an independent Bengali nation in the years preceding Independence and examines the underlying tensions of the concept of a Muslim-led independent Bangalistan and its repercussions on a sizeable Hindu minority. A major, new intervention, this book will be of great interest to scholars and researchers of modern Indian history, especially the Partition, politics and South Asian studies.

Towards a New Paradigm on Post-truth

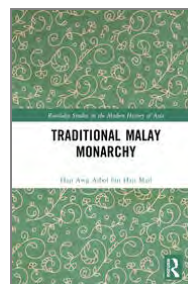

Anam Kuraishi

This book reconceptualises the idea of 'post-truth'. It does not limit the domain of post-truth to the production factories of fake news. Drawing on examples such as Trump, War on Terror, anti-vaccination, climate change denial, denial of scientific facts about smoking and so forth, it analyses the concept through a new theoretical lens which focuses on the specificity of post-truth discourses. It will be essential reading for students, scholars and researchers of media and communication studies, politics and South Asian studies.

Traditional Malay Monarchy

Haji Awg Asbol bin Haji Mail

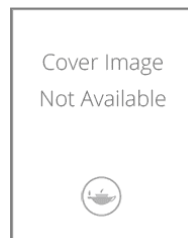

Series: Routledge Studies in the Modern History of Asia

This book brings to an English-speaking audience detailed scholarship originally conceived and written in the Malay language and with a Malay perspective. It examines the nature of monarchy in the Malay world, which includes present-day Malaysia and Indonesia, before and during the onset of Western colonialism when the Malay world was ruled by a large number of separate Muslim sultanates. It highlights that monarchs were the highest authority in the social, political, legal and economic system, rather than the government of a clearly defined territory; the notion of Dewaraja and what a model monarch's attributes should be; and how the monarch's role related to Islamic principles.

Trafficking and Sex Work in Cambodia

Larissa Sandy

Series: Routledge Contemporary Southeast Asia Series

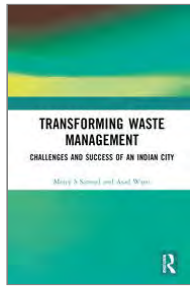

This book shows how policies to combat human trafficking and regulate sex work have shaped both the structure of the modern Cambodian sex industry and sex workers' experiences. It is rich in empirical detail, based on extensive long-term fieldwork and in-depth interviews and highly original, as the author describes the largely undocumented experiences of male and female sex workers to show how sex work remains prevalent in Cambodia and continues to be a dynamic terrain responding to global and local socioeconomic forces and moulded by government control and people's constantly changing social and sexual tastes.

Urbanisation in Bengal

Ideas, Institutions and Policies

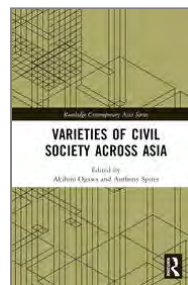

Edited by Pallavi Chakravarty

This volume presents a comprehensive study of the urbanization of Bengal from ancient to postcolonial times. It analyses the notion of urban space, examines the institutions which constitute the 'urban', and explores the crises brought about by the Partition. The book highlights the key features of urbanization in colonial Bengal—the print culture, institutions of Western education and Western medicine, and the census as a 'modern form of knowledge'. It also looks at the refugee movement and discusses the contribution of Partition refugees in urbanizing Bengal.

Visibilities and Invisibilities of Race and Racism

Toward a New Global Dialogue

Edited by Yasuko Takezawa Kansai Gaidai University, Japan, Faye V. Harrison University of Illinois Urbana-Champaign, USA, Akio Tanabe Kyoto University, Japan
Series: Routledge Advances in Sociology

Takezawa, Harrison, Tanabe and their contributors present a multi-sited, transnational, and intercultural perspective on racism, shifting its emphasis away from the conventional North Atlantic interpretive frameworks to better understand its fundamental nature. The strength of this work lies in its exploration of the varied modalities of race and racism, particularly those that deviate from the conventional, visibly identifiable notions of race, thus broadening the understanding of racism beyond traditional paradigms. An important contribution to the re-worlding of the study of racism, for scholars, researchers and students of anthropology, sociology and ethnic studies.

Vulnerable Communities in Neoliberal India

Perspectives from a Feminist Ethnographic Approach

Edited by Deepanshu Mohan Jindal Global University, India, Sakshi Chindaliya Jindal Global University, India, Ashika Thomas London School of Economics and Political Science, UK
Series: Routledge Contemporary South Asia Series

This book offers an ethnographic critique of modern, neoliberal India from the perspective of studying the daily lives-livelihoods of vulnerable communities residing in the urban, peri-urban spaces across the nation. The diverse range of ethnographic case studies further explore the invisibilization of the growing informal sector in India's labor market, studied through the applied concepts of Gayatri Spivak's othering, Doreen Massey's power geometries and Pierre Bourdieu's (fractured) habitus. A useful read for scholars and policymakers interested in understanding intersectional applications of development studies in context of the unsecured workforce in India.

'Dying' to be White

Purnima Mehta Bhatt

This book examines the phenomenon of colourism in India and the Global South and critically analyses the obsession with fair skin and its association with social capital or mobility. How much did Colonialism and European imperialism contribute to the desire to be white? How has globalisation and the spread of consumer culture and western ideals of beauty helped exacerbate these issues? The author discusses these questions while looking at the aspirations for beauty and modernity among these societies and the growing popularity of the use of creams, lotions, and other methods to whiten the skin as a means to assimilate, emulate the West, and gain better prospects and life.

A People's History of the Farmers' Movement, 2020–2021

Edited by Shamsher Singh, Sabah Siddiqui

Instigated by the contentious farm laws of 2020, the Farmers' Movement burgeoned into a year-long saga of protest and perseverance, ending only with the withdrawal of the laws on December 13, 2021. From the initial demand for law repeal to the multifaceted growth of the movement, the book traces the journey of the Farmers' Movement, as each essay dissects the socio-political dynamics, cultural nuances, and mass solidarity that underpinned the protests, including focussed analyses from Delhi, Punjab, Haryana, Uttar Pradesh, Rajasthan, Maharashtra, and the Sikh diaspora in the UK.

Between Resistance and Conformity

Shailendra Kumar Singh

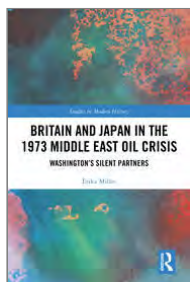

This book examines the questions of conformity and resistance with respect to Premchand's literary corpus. Mapping the various complexities of interwar India, it demonstrates how the passive peasant protagonists of the writer's works present a diametrically opposed definition of dharma as compared to their nationalist counterparts. It also examines the asymmetry between Premchand's representations of women as compliant domestic subjects and those that portray them as rebel patriots of colonial North India. Britain and Japan in the 1973 Middle East Oil Crisis

Washington's Silent Partners

Erika Miller University of Niigata Prefecture, Japan

Series: Routledge Studies in Modern History

Using important primary sources from Japan, Britain, and the United States—including recently declassified Japanese documents that had not previously been examined—this book contends that previous literature failed to address the important role of Britain and Japan and their political impact on the development in the historical events of 1973 and 1974. Miller argued that the support from both countries enabled the United States to take the lead in the peace process as well as in discussions to resolve the energy crisis. An insightful read for scholars interested in the Arab-Israeli conflict and the tensions between Arab oil producing countries and developed consumer countries.

Citizenship, Belonging, and the Partition of India

Edited by Neeti Nair University of Virginia, USA

This book revisits the aftermath of the partition of 1947, and the war of 1971, to examine some of the longer-term consequences of the redrawing of borders across South Asia. From the eastern frontier of Assam to the westernmost reaches of Gujarat and Sindh, the chapters in this volume study the "minority question" and show how it has manifested in different regional contexts. The essays argue that a deep dive into how people have been affected by border-making and remaking in each of these frontier regions is integral to understanding the "big picture" that is South Asia. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Asian Affairs.

Comfort Women of the Japanese Empire

Colonial Rule and the Battle over Memory

Park Yuha

Series: Routledge Studies in the Modern History of Asia

This is an important and controversial book, hitherto available only in Korean, Japanese and Chinese, a book which has been subject to court cases attempting to have some parts of the book deleted. The author reconsiders the issue of the "comfort women", that is the Korean women who were compelled to provide sexual comfort to Japanese troops during the Asia-Pacific War. She explores the human complexity of the experiences of these women, who despite terrible exploitation, she feels, cannot and should not only be considered only as passive victims.

Contemporaneity of the Mahabharata Narrative

Epic of the Moment

Edited by Anirban Bhattacharjee, Dhruvajyoti Sarkar

Notwithstanding its renowned comprehensive narrative encapsulation of the Indic culture, the Mahabharata keeps on posing a challenge to its contemporary readers: how do we relate to something over two millennia old in today's context without freezing it in time? This volume looks at the problem from diverse periods and standpoints and shows us that this challenge is, in fact, a legacy of the Mahabharata and the responses to this challenge is what makes the text ever-contemporary to different readers of different times and positions.

Creationism in a South Korean Culture

Science, Religion, and the Struggle against Evolution

Hyung Wook Park Nanyang Technological University, Singapore

Series: Routledge Contemporary Asia Series

Through an intensive study of antievolutionary movement in South Korea during the twentieth and early twenty-first centuries, Park investigates the unexpected success of early Korean creationists. This book argues that South Korea's creationism stemmed from its past as a developmental state during the Cold War but proliferated further amid subsequent democratization and globalization. Creationism reflected the new identifications of some Korean scientists and engineers with evangelical faith, who actively formed their own domain outside of the state hegemony and authority. A valuable reference for scholars interested in the interaction between science and religion in East Asia.

Cultures of Learning

Mapping the New Spaces of Critical Pedagogy in India

This book looks at educational institutions and their role as sites of learning in times of moral and political chaos. It highlights the erosion of critical pedagogical traditions in universities in India and registers the ongoing responses and struggles as educational experiences. This book develops a critical approach by redefining education from the perspective of learning as a political act to experience the complex network of learning activities beyond the confines of educational institutions. It also locates caste, gender and religious hierarchies in schools and universities in India.

Cultures of Modernity and the U.S.-Japan Cold War Alliance

Masami Kimura

Series: Routledge Studies in the Modern History of Asia

Cultures of Modernity and the U.S.-Japan Cold War Alliance reconsiders the origins of postwar U.S.-Japan relations by focusing on "modernization" ideologies that the Americans and the Japanese shared in the 1940s-early 1950s.

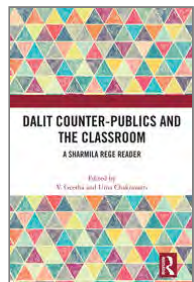

Mobilizing a wealth of English and Japanese-language sources, the author identifies parallel groups of modernist thinkers in America and Japan and follows how different strands of thought played out within an evolving political environment.

Dalit Counter-publics and the Classroom

A Sharmila Rege Reader

Edited by V Geetha, Uma Chakravarti

This book is an anthology of the collected essays of Sharmila Rege (1964 – 2013), which address themes to do with pedagogy and culture. Rege makes a compelling argument for rethinking the content of sociological knowledge and invokes in this context, Anticaste radical philosophies, associated with Mahatma Phule and Babasaheb Ambedkar as well as the writings of Dalit women. Equally, she seeks to rethink and engender the domain of Cultural Studies.

Development, Transformations and the Human Condition

Essays in Honour of Jayati Ghosh

Edited by Sumangala Damodaran, Smita Gupta, Sona Mitra, Dipa Sinha Independent Researcher, Delhi, India

The world is grappling to come up with alternative imaginations for transformation despite repeated crises, inequalities and immiseration caused by the increasing dominance of the neo-liberal capitalist framework and the collapse of twentieth-century socialist models. This book looks at concepts that form the core of development economics and political economy and brings together perspectives that explore the inextricable relationship between development and human rights, social movements and the call for social transformation.

Encounters with the Invisible

Revisiting Spirit Possession in the Himalayas

Edited by Marie Lecomte-Tilouine, Anne de Sales

This volume considers spirit possession in the Himalayas and the various ways in which invisible powers are made present. It does so by examining material representations of these powers through artefacts, animals, plants and natural substances, while also focusing on narratives of people's encounters with the invisible that may help them to reconfigure reality. Through these two approaches, the contributions examine new phenomena associated with the concepts of "possession" and "shamanism", which otherwise tend to lead research into well-worn furrows.

Engaging with a Nation

Representations of India in the 21st Century

Edited by Siddhartha Biswas

The book looks at the impact that the idea and institution of nationhood have had on the constituents of India in the contemporary postcolonial period. It provides a critical analysis through a variety of perspectives—historical, philosophical, literary, and gendered, and locates the nation and its "discontents", along with its nationalist agenda firmly within the context of the contemporary perceived modernity. The book also engages with the colonial legacy that the 'nation' had to endure for two hundred years.

EU–Central Asian Interactions

Perceptions, Interests and Practices

Edited by Rick Fawn University of St Andrews, UK, Karolina Kluczewska Ghent University, Belgium, Oleg Korneev HSE University, Russia

Series: Central Asian Studies

From limited interactions in the early 1990s, the EU and Central Asia now consider each other to be increasingly important. This book includes 12 chapters written by seasoned and policy-engaged researchers from across Eurasia and the wider world that analyse multiple levels of mutual interactions, understandings and misunderstandings across a range of policy areas. It shows why and in what ways exactly the EU and Central Asia matter to each other and why policy-makers and researchers should pay more attention to their interactions. The chapters in this book were published over three issues of Central Asian Survey.

Forests and Fences

Edited by Myer Taub Wits University, South Africa

Series: WildZones

This book examines critical themes in environmental studies through theatre and performance studies. It experiments with forms along with the practice of praxis to provide radical frameworks for resilience in the contemporary age of crisis. Drawing on Ravi Sundaram's concept of 'Wild Zones', it explores the kinetic overflows in informal sites, but also in the intimate spaces that have been realigned or shocked or fenced in, especially in the context of the COVID-19 pandemic. The volume will be of great interest to scholars and researchers of theatre and performance studies, environment and sustainability, and environmental humanities.

From Civil War to Soft Authoritarianism

Ethnonationalism and Democratic Regression in Sri Lanka

Neil DeVotta Wake Forest University, USA

Series: Routledge Contemporary South Asia Series

This book shows how Sri Lanka's civil war gradually undermined liberal democracy and caused the country to regress toward the current soft authoritarian dispensation. In doing so, it introduces the concept of 'ethnic supererogation,' a governing system built around the notion that a majority ethnic group and/or the state could go beyond the standard expectations to accommodate minority concerns and institute incentives for ethnic minorities to operate within a united state so as to preclude dissension and secession.

Hindi Cinema and Pakistan

Screening the Idea and the Reality

Meenakshi Bharat University of Delhi, India

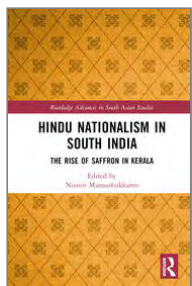

Ever since the 1947 partition of the Indian subcontinent, Mumbai-based Hindi cinema has been returning compulsively to the idea of Pakistan, sometimes as the desirable other, sometimes as the horrifying antagonist. Hindi Cinema and Pakistan traces the genesis and development of this theme in Hindi cinema in the 1950s, showcasing its relevance as a tool that both reflects and shapes how India sees its neighbour, the India-Pakistan relationship, and itself.

Hindutva before Hindutva

Selected Writings and Discourses of Chandranath Basu in Translation

Edited by Amiya P. Sen

This book weaves the past with the present to trace and analyse the distinctive but reiterative evocations of Hindutva ideology in the modern-colonial period. It studies the concept of Hindutva as understood by its first major spokesperson Chandranath Basu, a formidable late 19th-century scholar-critic. The author examines the new rhetoric that has shaped Hindu ideologies in a colonial-modern context by foregrounding debates between Chandranath Basu and radical revisionists such as Rabindranath Tagore. It provides original translations of Basu's works and brings to light a long-neglected professional literary critic.

Home Across Borders

The Ethnography of Sri Lankan Immigrants in Australia

Jagath Bandara Pathirage

This book studies how transnational migrants create a sense of home in their host countries. It draws on case studies of Sri Lankan migrants living in Australia to argue that 'home' is an existential experience rather than a fixed entity. The author looks at how the sense of home arises as a fresh category which is critical in defining one's existentiality in the host society.

Hunter, Peasant, Rebel

Colonialism and the British Assam Frontier

Manjeet Baruah Jawaharlal Nehru University, New Delhi

Series: Empire and Frontiers

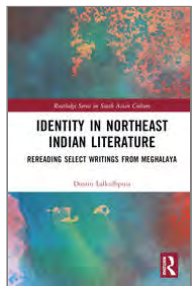

British Assam holds an important place in the history of the British Empire in South Asia. This is especially so in the context of colonial frontier-making. It is in this regard that the book examines what it culturally meant to be a hunter, peasant or rebel between the late nineteenth and mid-twentieth century in the British Assam frontier. Using a wide spectrum of archival sources, the hunters' memoirs, the peasants' ballads, and a rebel's worldview are examined as the cultural forms through which one can study these relations that generated the sense of colonial reality in these figures.

Indigeneity, Marginality and the State in Bangladesh

Nasir Uddin University of Chittagong, Bangladesh

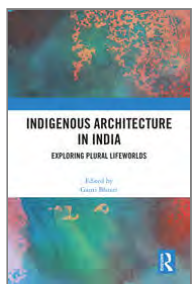

This book explores the critical linkages between indigeneity, marginality, and the state in Bangladesh. Indigeneity is progressively gaining currency in politics and thereby becoming an active force in the larger context of national activism with transnational patronage and international support. Drawing on comprehensive and solid ethnographic accounts, the book offers a broader understanding of the process of marginalisation and the emergence of new leadership among the Khumi, an indigenous group of Bangladesh.

Japan in the 1960s

Ten Years of Turning Points

Series: Inside East Asia

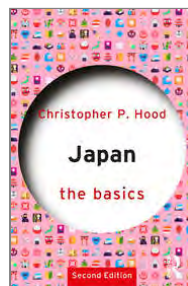

This book is the first to see the 1960s as a historical subject in its own right and argues that the specificity and internal complexity rooted in East Asia during this period showed how East Asians were dynamic agents in shaping the decade. From street battles over Japan's security treaty with the United States, to a peace treaty with the former Japanese territory of South Korea, to Japan's hosting the 1964 Summer Olympics, the 1960s in Japan was a decade of turning points. An important volume for historians, political scientists, sociologists, and other scholars interested in cutting-edge history-writing about a transformative ten-year period in East Asia.

Keramat, Sacred Relics and Forbidden Idols in Singapore

Series: Routledge Contemporary Southeast Asia Series

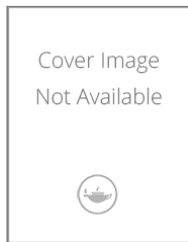

Keramat, holy graves and shrines, represent physical markers of Singapore's history as a multi-ethnic maritime trading center. They offered sanctified spaces not only for Muslims but the entire community in which they were found. This book concludes by critically examining the often-tense relationship between keramat and authority, both secular and religious, from colonial to modern times. The dilemmas of grappling with puritanical norms and grassroots elaborations in varying modes of preservation are investigated here. A vital resource for scholars, it contributes to a people's history of Singapore, one that both deepens and problematizes official historical accounts.

Kinship as Fiction

Exploring the Dynamism of Intimate Relationships in India

Edited by Anindita Majumdar, Yoko Taguchi

Bringing together emerging ethnographies on kinship in South Asia, this book explores the idea of kinship as 'fiction' in intimate relationships. This edited volume resurrects the idea of fiction and fictive-ness to understand how intimate relationships may use these particular labels, translate into practices, or create an experiential understanding around relationships. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Contemporary South Asia.

Knowledge, Power and Ignorance

The Indian Context

Edited by Bidhan Kanti Das, Gorky Chakraborty
Associate Professor, Institute of Development Studies
Kolkata, India, Abhijit Guha

This volume seeks to be premised in a framework where ignorance is understood as being a socially produced and maintained phenomenon, where the ways of knowing and not knowing are interdependent. It is a novel attempt for an academic re-orientation of the Knowledge-Ignorance paradigm through a process of re-interpretation of the bounded purview attached with the existing epistemological understandings. This interdisciplinary volume will be of interest to a cross-section of academics and students of sociology, social anthropology, political science, human geography, history, public policy and development studies.

Muslim Enlightened Thought in South Asia

Ayesha Jalal Tufts University, USA

This book is an engaging history of the enlightened liberality of modern Muslim poets, philosophers, educationists, novelists, historians, artists, and public intellectuals, who drew on a long Muslim intellectual tradition beyond the "Western" liberalism of empire. Foregrounding the enlightened conceptions of Ghalib, Sayyid Ahmad Khan, Iqbal and Sadequain on faith, selfhood, history, and time - and bringing other Muslim thinkers out of the shadows, the book offers a nuanced reformulation of the meaning of religion for our challenging times. It will be of interest to a wide readership interested in the history of Islam and South Asia.

Sociology of Rationality

Critiques and Creative Conversations

Edited by Soumyajit Patra, Tattwamasi Paltasingh

This book is a socio-historical analysis of rationalism as a worldview — that guides many of our actions in concrete everyday life — and as a philosophy — that guides our epistemological understanding of the reality around us. It explores the multifaceted manifestations of the idea in the Enlightenment philosophy, modern sociological theorising and in post-structural standpoints. The volume also critiques rationality from feminist, subaltern and post-colonial perspectives. Finally, it delves into the multilayered sociological significances of rationalisation of different domains of life.

South Asian Pornographies

Vernacular Formations of the Permissible and the Obscene

Edited by Darshana Sreedhar Mini University of Wisconsin-Madison, USA, Anirban K. Baishya University of Wisconsin-Madison, USA

South Asian Pornographies is the first consolidated volume that explores the relationships between pornography, obscenity, law and desire in South Asia. Focusing on case studies from India, Sri Lanka and Bangladesh while gesturing towards other countries in South Asia, the authors of this volume come from fields as varied as history, literature, media and communication, and the visual arts. The book proposes that as a geo-political location, South Asia has a unique relationship to pornography, given the multiplicity of cultural and legal-censorial regimes that define the obscene and the permissible. The chapters were originally published in the journal Porn Studies.

Space and Play in Japanese Videogame Arcades

Series: Routledge Contemporary Japan Series

This book presents a scholarly investigation of the development and culture of Japanese videogame arcades. Providing an overview of the historical evolution of public amusement spaces from the early rooftop amusement spaces from the early 19th century to the modern multi-floor and interconnected arcade complexes that characterizes the urban fabric of contemporary Japan, the book argues that arcade videogames and their associated practices must be examined in the context in which they are played, situated in the interrelation between the game software, the cabinets as material conditions of play, and the space of the venue that frames the experience.

Territorializing the Chinese Nation-State

Cartography, Geopolitics, and Huang Maocai's Mission to India (1878–1880)

Edited by Kamal Sheel, Ranjana Sheel

This book is the first annotated translation of the travelogues of Huang Maocai. A trained Chinese cartographer in the service of the imperial Qing state, he was officially deputed to ascertain the Tibet-India land route and the geo-political status of British India in the 19th century. His travelogues are the first authoritative modern Chinese texts exploring the physical and ideological connections between China and India. Unpublished for a long time, and so far, unavailable in an English translation, these texts provide meaning to many key issues that enshroud the concepts of civilization and nation.

The Abolition of the Ottoman Caliphate, 1924

Debates and Implications

Edited by Elisa Giunchi, Nicola Melis

Series: Durham Modern Middle East and Islamic World Series

This book explores the decision by the Grand National Assembly of Turkey in 1924 to abolish the caliphate. The Ottoman sultans had long borne the title of caliphs of Islam, with all the prestigious authority throughout the Muslim world which went with it, and even after the demise of the sultanate in 1922 the caliphate retained great symbolic relevance. The book considers the questions that arose with its abolition, including whether or not the caliphate should be revived, reformed or replaced by other forms of political affiliation and organization.

The New BJP

Modi and the Making of the World's Largest Political Party

Nalin Mehta

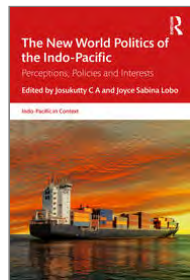

This book examines how the BJP became the world's largest political party. It goes beyond the usual narrative of the party's Hindutva politics to explain how, under Narendra Modi, the party reshaped the Indian polity using its own brand of social engineering. According to the findings of this book, this reconstruction was cleverly powered by new caste coalitions, the claim of a new welfare state that focused on marginalised social groups and the making of a women-voter base. The Political Economy of Hungarian Authoritarian Populism

Capitalists without the Right Kind of Capital

Samuel Rogers

This book emphasises the importance of state-business relations and external capital for structuring and strengthening authoritarian populism in Hungary. It argues these capitalist relations are crucial to understanding the economic aspects of this ideology, which has developed in the country since 2010. The book investigates both 'internal' and 'external' legs of the Hungarian political economy. First how a politically loyal national capital owning class has subsumed domestic business. Second the government's operationalisation of 'new' inward transnational capital inflows to finance large-scale infrastructure projects, which complement extant investment particularly from Germany.

The Routledge Handbook for Global South Studies on Subjectivities

Edited by Sebastian Thies Eberhard-Karls-Universität Tübingen, Germany, Susanne Goumegou, Georgina Cebeby

Series: Transdisciplinary Souths

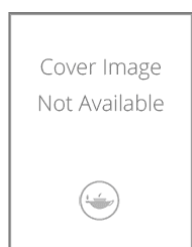

This handbook is to provide a series of exemplary studies conjoining perspectives from Asian, African, and Latin American Studies on subjectivity in the Global South as a category of social and cultural analysis. The contestation of the Northern myth of the autonomous subject — the dispositive that contests subject formation in the South by describing it as fragmented, incomplete, delayed or simply deviant, has been a cornerstone of theory production from the South. This book will be an essential resource for students, scholars, and researchers in literature, media and culture studies, sociology, anthropology, philosophy, law, politics, visual arts and art history.

The Routledge Handbook of Craft and Sustainability in India

Edited by Rebecca Reubens Center for Environmental Planning and Technology, Ahmedabad & Rhizome, Ahmedabad, India, Tanishka Kachru National Institute of Design, Ahmedabad, India

Traditional crafts have been an essential part of Indian history, culture and life. This handbook looks at craft as both a cultural artefact that reflects people's worldviews, indigenous practices and traditions, as well as a source of income generation and development that is inclusive. India's rapid development has meant a breakdown of traditional economies, and including craft production-to-consumption systems.

The Routledge Handbook of Tribe and Religions in India

Contemporary Readings on Spirituality, Belief and Identity

Edited by Maguni Charan Behera Rajiv Gandhi University, Itanagar, India

This handbook explores the diversity of religious practice in tribal cultures in India. It looks at the interactive spaces where the religious practices of tribes and other communities have changed and adapted through the years in contemporary India. Tribe as a social category emerged in India during the colonial period; this handbook departs from the conventional approaches to studying 'tribal religion' and analyses the intersections of spirituality, rituals, gender and identities within tribal religion through a cross-cultural and pan-Indian perspective.

The Russian Revolution of 1917 - Memory and Legacy

Edited by Carol S. Leonard, Daniel Orlovsky, Jurej Petrov

Series: BASEES/Routledge Series on Russian and East European Studies

The way in which the Russian Revolution of October 1917 is regarded and commemorated has changed considerably over time, and is a contentious subject, well demonstrated by the absence of any official commemoration in Russia in 2017, a huge contrast to the very large celebrations which took place in Soviet times. This book, which brings together a range of leading historians of the Russian Revolution – from both Russia and the West, and both younger and older historians – explores the changes in the way in which the October 1917 Revolution is commemorated, and also examines fundamental questions about what the Russian Revolution – indeed what any revolution – was anyway.

The Struggle for Abolition

Kjøløv Egeland

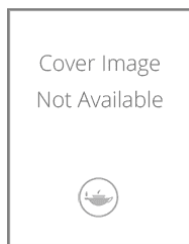

This book investigates the pursuit by states, civil society groups, and international organisations of nuclear abolition. Detailing the evolution of the institutional architecture for multilateral nuclear disarmament from the 1960s onwards, The Struggle for Abolition tells a story of high hopes, broken promises, and clashing views of history, security, and the future. The book concludes with a discussion of policy implications and a reflection on successes and failures in the history of multilateral nuclear disarmament. The volume will be of great interest to scholars and researchers of diplomacy, history, and politics and international relations.

The Trial That Shook Britain

Ashis Ray

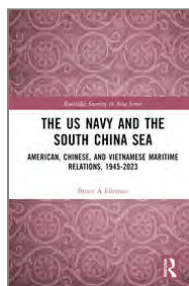

The Indian National Army trials of 1945-46 have generally been given short shrift by historians in their cataloguing of the Indian freedom movement. This book examines to what extent the trials had an impact on the final phase of India's quest for independence. In so doing, it unveils that, while the Indian National Congress' extended odyssey was essentially about a passive push-back, at a critical juncture of its campaign to extinguish British colonialism in India, it applauded and capitalised on the INA's use of force.

Theorizing a Bengali Nation

Abul Hashim and the United Bengal Movement, 1937–1947

Sucharita Sen

This book explores the philosophical and political roots of the United Bengal movement of 1947 that emerged as a final bid to keep the province united against Partition. Through Abul Hashim, one of its architects, it explores the idea of an independent Bengali nation in the years preceding Independence and examines the underlying tensions of the concept of a Muslim-led independent Bangalistan and its repercussions on a sizeable Hindu minority. A major, new intervention, this book will be of great interest to scholars and researchers of modern Indian history, especially the Partition, politics and South Asian studies.

Towards a New Paradigm on Post-truth

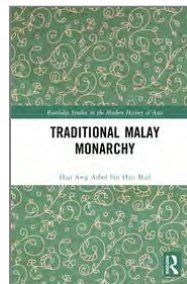

Anam Kuraishi

This book reconceptualises the idea of 'post-truth'. It does not limit the domain of post-truth to the production factories of fake news. Drawing on examples such as Trump, War on Terror, anti-vaccination, climate change denial, denial of scientific facts about smoking and so forth, it analyses the concept through a new theoretical lens which focuses on the specificity of post-truth discourses. It will be essential reading for students, scholars and researchers of media and communication studies, politics and South Asian studies.

Traditional Malay Monarchy

Series: Routledge Studies in the Modern History of Asia

This book brings to an English-speaking audience detailed scholarship originally conceived and written in the Malay language and with a Malay perspective. It examines the nature of monarchy in the Malay world, which includes present-day Malaysia and Indonesia, before and during the onset of Western colonialism when the Malay world was ruled by a large number of separate Muslim sultanates. It highlights that monarchs were the highest authority in the social, political, legal and economic system, rather than the government of a clearly defined territory; the notion of Dewaraja and what a model monarch's attributes should be; and how the monarch's role related to Islamic principles.

Trafficking and Sex Work in Cambodia

Larissa Sandy

Series: Routledge Contemporary Southeast Asia Series

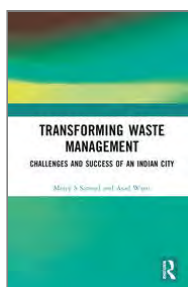

This book shows how policies to combat human trafficking and regulate sex work have shaped both the structure of the modern Cambodian sex industry and sex workers' experiences. It is rich in empirical detail, based on extensive long-term fieldwork and in-depth interviews and highly original, as the author describes the largely undocumented experiences of male and female sex workers to show how sex work remains prevalent in Cambodia and continues to be a dynamic terrain responding to global and local socioeconomic forces and moulded by government control and people's constantly changing social and sexual tastes.

Urbanisation in Bengal

Ideas, Institutions and Policies

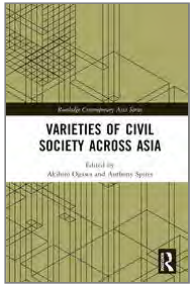

Edited by Pallavi Chakravarty

This volume presents a comprehensive study of the urbanization of Bengal from ancient to postcolonial times. It analyses the notion of urban space, examines the institutions which constitute the 'urban', and explores the crises brought about by the Partition. The book highlights the key features of urbanization in colonial Bengal—the print culture, institutions of Western education and Western medicine, and the census as a 'modern form of knowledge'. It also looks at the refugee movement and discusses the contribution of Partition refugees in urbanizing Bengal.

Vulnerable Communities in Neoliberal India

Perspectives from a Feminist Ethnographic Approach

Edited by Deepanshu Mohan Jindal Global University, India, Sakshi Chindaliya Jindal Global University, India, Ashika Thomas London School of Economics and Political Science, UK

Series: Routledge Contemporary South Asia Series

This book offers an ethnographic critique of modern, neoliberal India from the perspective of studying the daily lives-livelihoods of vulnerable communities residing in the urban, peri-urban spaces across the nation. The diverse range of ethnographic case studies further explore the invisibilization of the growing informal sector in India's labor market, studied through the applied concepts of Gayatri Spivak's othering, Doreen Massey's power geometries and Pierre Bourdieu's (fractured) habitus. A useful read for scholars and policymakers interested in understanding intersectional applications of development studies in context of the unsecured workforce in India.

Visibilities and Invisibilities of Race and Racism

Toward a New Global Dialogue

Edited by Yasuko Takezawa Kansai Gaidai University, Japan, Faye V. Harrison University of Illinois Urbana-Champaign, USA, Akio Tanabe Kyoto University, Japan

Series: Routledge Advances in Sociology

Takezawa, Harrison, Tanabe and their contributors present a multi-sited, transnational, and intercultural perspective on racism, shifting its emphasis away from the conventional North Atlantic interpretive frameworks to better understand its fundamental nature. The strength of this work lies in its exploration of the varied modalities of race and racism, particularly those that deviate from the conventional, visibly identifiable notions of race, thus broadening the understanding of racism beyond traditional paradigms. An important contribution to the re-worlding of the study of racism, for scholars, researchers and students of anthropology, sociology and ethnic studies.
