Leading Hybrid Organisations

How to Build Trust, Collaboration and a High-Performance Culture

Michael Drayton

Going beyond the quick-fix solutions that emerged during the COVID-19 pandemic, this book takes a deeper, systems approach to leading a hybrid organisation to help managers understand the real, 'beneath the surface' issues in hybrid working. Established ways of managing everyday problems, such as workflow, communication, and performance management, now seem inadequate when some members of staff are in the office and others work remotely. There are also more complex challenges such as developing a cohesive team and organisational culture and a strong attachment to the organisation. This book gives leaders and managers the tools to address these challenges and more.

Advancing Strategic Sourcing and Healthcare Affordability

Our Discovery of the Lacuna Triangle

Michael Georgulis, Jr., Mark C. West

The book outlines what the authors call the Lacuna Triangle—three lacunas that occur in health systems that prevent them from pursuing effective EVA and strategic sourcing. The authors explore the three effects of those gaps, which keep the Lacuna Triangle walls tightly closed so that the oligopolies, irrational markets, and irrational pricing that those gaps create can continue to thrive. The goal with this book is to pluck the supply chain and health system executive and clinical leadership out of the chaos they are caught in and give them tactics for reengineering the alignment of these processes to serve their enterprises' needs.

If Your Resume Could Talk

Dig in and Prepare Yourself or Others for What's Next Through Career Exploration, Conversations, and Pivots

Evelyn M. Lee

How do we find that perfect match? In years past, one might pivot once, perhaps even twice over the course of their careers. Today, a person may need to pivot multiple times. Can a business adapt to the amount of change their employees may need to make over the course of their lifetime? Will an individual want to or be prepared to change jobs on an ongoing basis throughout their career? Sometimes, there is a need to pivot. Can the pivot be made, smoothly? Finding starting points for these conversations can be challenging. Is it a pivot or is it a career change? Both are acceptable. Pivots, if planned, can be easier to navigate. Career changes require more preparation.

The Gig Economy in India

Pradip Ninan Thomas University of Queensland, Australia

The Gig Economy in India explores the topic of gig work in India's digital political economy, and the relationship between key factors such as start-ups, state government, and platform providers. Thomas then examines critical dimensions of the gig economy in India, from its data infrastructure capabilities, the enabling role of venture capital and FinTech, to government regulation. Given the limited research on India as a case study, this volume fills a crucial gap in the literature.

The Darker Side of Leadership

Pythons Devouring Crocodiles

Manfred F. R. Kets de Vries

Manfred Kets de Vries is one of the most authoritative voices on organizational dynamics, leadership, executive coaching, and psychotherapy today. In all his roles, he has noticed that questions are now, increasingly, coming back to one thing – the wider state of the world. Guided by theoretical concepts, this book provides readers with a better understanding of the underlying forces that drive the darker side of leadership to the surface, and introduces strategies to counteract the emergence of these regressive forces. Using an engaging and highly readable style, Manfred helps us to make sense of the confusing and, some might say, psychotic times in which we now live.

The Age of Decentralization

How Web3 and Related Technologies will change Industries and our Lives

Sam Ghosh , Subhasis Gorai

In this book, the authors take us on a journey through the tech landscape, exploring how decentralized technologies, including Web3, are on the verge of becoming mainstream and offer a practical roadmap for understanding and embracing this shift. Web2 brought us “the great centralization” by centralizing not only data but also business processes, blurring the industry boundaries. So, payment platforms started offering e-commerce services and ride-hailing services started delivering food. Scale became the most effective moat. But, at the same time, these huge platforms became a magnet for security threats and started violating user privacy rights and consumer rights.

Place Marketing and Temporality

Gary Warnaby

Series: Routledge Focus on Business and Management

This book examines the role of temporal dimensions in place marketing and branding. It analyses how the past - both material (i.e. the historic built environment) and intangible (i.e. routines, practices and the 'character' of the populace) - is appropriated, in order to 'sell' the city into the future. It acknowledges the inherent selectivity involved and discusses the factors influencing what is remembered from the past - and equally importantly, what is forgotten. Adopting a range of theoretical approaches to understanding temporality in this context, the book will appeal to advanced students, academic researchers and reflexive place branding practitioners.

The Meaning and Purpose of Work

An Interdisciplinary Framework for Considering What Work is For

Christopher Michaelson, Jennifer Tosti-Kharas

Two seminal crises of the early 21st century – the 9/11 terrorist attacks and COVID-19 pandemic – have led emerging generations of workers to prioritize the meaning and purpose of work. At the same time, other social and environmental crises are threatening, capitalism is evolving, and technology is advancing. In this book, a philosopher and organizational psychologist who together research meaningful work consider what these forces mean for whether work might give meaning and purpose to our lives or take it away. Readers emerge with an understanding of the meaning of meaning as well as a practical appreciation for the role of meaning in their own work.

Rural Arts Management

Elise Lael Kieffer, Jerome Socolof

Series: Discovering the Creative Industries

The arts and arts management exist in every corner of the world, from the largest city to the smallest town. However, just as a metropolis and a hamlet bear little resemblance to each other despite similar basic needs, arts organizations in the former are unlike to those in the latter, and many foundational arts management texts give little attention to rural settings. This book combines insights from research and practice to fill that knowledge gap and help readers understand arts administration in rural communities. This book provides a valuable resource for scholars, advanced students and reflective practitioners at the intersection of the arts and rural studies.

Strategic Management and Drivers of Success

The Growth, Adaptation, Resilience, and Competition Framework

Surja Datta Oxford Brookes University, UK
Tobias Kutzewski

Series: Routledge Studies in Management, Organizations and Society

Combining practice with theory, the reversal of the conventional 'theory with practice' idea being intentional, one of the standout features of this book is that it articulates business heuristics for each of the drivers of success along with guidelines on how to use them. To illustrate the empirical grounding of the theoretical aims, the authors connect multiple real life business cases to each of the four GARC dimensions. This volume will therefore be of value to researchers, academics, practitioners, and advanced students in the fields of strategy, organizational studies, and management.

Strategy, Finance and Sustainable Value Creation

Edited by Claudio Scardovi

Series: Routledge International Studies in Money and Banking

This book argues that strategy and finance are value twins, both of which need a thorough overhaul, from their tool kits to their end goals. The author contends that we rely on strategic and financial frameworks that were developed decades ago but, in an increasingly complex and risky environment, these need to undergo a profound transformation, one which follows an intertwined approach, enabling companies to achieve the twin goals of value creation and sustainability, consistently and successfully. Readers are given useful insights via the inclusion of case studies from numerous industries, closing the gap between theory and practice.

Accounting for the Holocaust

Enabling the Final Solution

Edited by Warwick Funnell, Michele Bigoni, Erin Twyford

Series: Routledge New Works in Accounting History

This book reveals how the numerical calculations, techniques and reports that constitute accounting practices allowed the attempted annihilation of Jews by the German Nazis and the Italian Fascists to be carried out with machine-like efficiency and devoid of any moral considerations. This largely hidden aspect of the Holocaust will allow a wide range of readers, both academic and across many sectors of the general population, to understand how the systematic murder of more than six million Jews was expedited by accounting practices and the information that these produced by allowing the humanity of those killed to be denied when they became mere numbers in a process.

Karl Popper and Situational Analysis

Theory and Method for Contemporary Economics and Sociology

Alfonso Palacio-Vera

Series: Routledge INEM Advances in Economic Methodology

'Situational Analysis' represents Karl Popper's methodological proposal for the social sciences. Although it has been widely studied and interpreted, this book argues that Situational Analysis remains underestimated and undeveloped and, if properly reformulated, it could yet become a broad methodological framework that encompasses both the 'historical' social sciences and a large section of the 'theoretical' social sciences. This book will be vital reading for academic economists, sociologists, philosophers of science and other social scientists interested in methodology.

Alasdair MacIntyre's Revolutionary Aristotelianism

Matías Petersen

Series: Routledge Advances in Social Economics

This book engages with a radical critique of the modern state and the contemporary economic order: Alasdair MacIntyre's 'revolutionary Aristotelianism' project. Central to this critique is the idea that the moral norms that markets and states tend to reproduce or reinforce are an obstacle to the development of practical judgment. The book outlines MacIntyre's theory of practical reason and discusses some of the institutional arrangements that can be derived from it. This book will be of interest to social scientists working in questions of political economy as well as political and moral philosophers.

Urban Scaling

Allometry in Urban Studies and Spatial Science

Edited by Luca S. D'Acci

Series: Routledge Advances in Regional Economics, Science and Policy

This book addresses a relatively novel but highly debated topic within urban studies and geography, and presents many results, techniques, methods, and reflections on urban scaling and allometry. The sections are organized into different sub-areas e.g. socio-economic, infrastructural or environmental outputs, so that there is a broad organization of the findings into recognizable sub-domains. It is particularly timely as it is becoming increasingly urgent and necessary to understand the pro and cons of different city sizes and therefore to plan policies accordingly. It will benefit researchers in urban science, and scholars entering the field from a variety of disciplines.

Hegel on Ethics, the State and Public Policy

Comparisons with Immanuel Kant and Utilitarianism

Samuel Hollander

Series: Routledge Studies in the History of Economics

Drawing on a wide range of Hegel's writings, this book analyses the Hegelian position on ethical action. This position is systematically compared with that of Immanuel Kant, the comparison emphasizing Hegel's insistence on a morality grounded in an 'ethical' context which essentially refers to the State rather than the agent's private will. This book carries further the researches published in A History of Utilitarian Ethics and Immanuel Kant and Utilitarian Ethics, and will be of interest to readers in the history of political economy, political science, philosophy and ethics.

The Economic Thought of Hilaire Belloc

A Christian Alternative to the Servile State

Alfonso Díaz Vera

Series: Routledge Studies in the History of Economics

Hilaire Belloc's thinking on the economy constitutes a heterodox approach of the greatest interest in addressing the economic problems of his time and those of our own. Belloc's main interest as a writer were on economics and history, and his works were praised by economists such as F. A. Hayek or Wilhelm Röpke and political philosophers such as Robert Nisbet and Russell Kirk, but his contributions have been often overlooked. To address that oversight, this book inserts Belloc's ideas into the academic dialogue on economics. The book will be of interest to scholars and students, as well as general readers, interested in heterodox perspectives on economics.

Social Transformation and the Global Economy

Labour, Latin America, and the Lefts

Ronaldo Munck

Series: Routledge Studies in Labour Economics

The overall context of this book is set by the decline of the globalization paradigm's ability to grasp the complexity and uncertainty of the current era. It takes a new approach based on the frame of 'transformation' viewed as a catalyst to understand the complex interconnected nature of the world around us from a concrete, grounded perspective. Latin America offers a unique laboratory of social transformation, since the 'pink tide' of the 2000s. The book is at once global in its ambition while grounded in labour and Latin American realities. Theoretically based and empirically robust, it will enthruse the reader to pursue their own research on matters covered here.

Artificial Intelligence and the Future of Healthcare

Jon-Arild Johannessen Nord University, Oslo, Norway

Series: Routledge International Studies in Health Economics

This book reveals systemic connections to tackle questions about the potential impact of AI on future challenges in the healthcare sector. Specifically, it develops practical proposals for ways in which AI can be applied to solve these forthcoming issues. It emphasizes the importance of AI in 'human augmentation'. The book's innovative perspective is apparent in the way it challenges conventional wisdom in the context of several pressing questions and it also contains an underlying argument to the effect that the rational approach adopted by economists is perhaps less rational when applied to a healthcare sector that is crying out for more 'first line competence'.

Empirical Law and Economics

Price-Fixing and Bid-Rigging Cases in Japan

Atsushi Maki Tokyo International University, Japan Bank account details updated SF 896961 18.8.16 DB

Maki provides an empirical analysis of law and economics through reevaluating Myrdal's value premises and Weber's separation of analysis and policy. The general equilibrium theory assumes a perfectly competitive market. However, in the real economy, legal transactions do not always take place and this book analyzes price-fixing and bid-rigging cases. Using the real economy as data, this book illustrates issues related to the ideals of economics and the proper application of law. A useful reference for graduate students and researchers in economics and legal research, and an interesting read for those who consider economics to be an empirical science.

Economics as Rhetoric

The Thought of Bernard Maris

Anne Isla

Series: Routledge Frontiers of Political Economy

Bernard Maris was killed in Paris on January 7, 2015, during the terrorist attack against the satirical magazine Charlie Hebdo. He remains one of the most original intellectuals of contemporary France but despite being a uniquely original heterodox thinker, his international reputation has been compromised by the fact that his writings are inaccessible to non-French-speakers. This book remedies that. This book will be of great interest to readers in heterodox economics, economic methodology, epistemology, as well as French literature and culture more broadly.

Income Redistribution, Inequality and Democracy

A Political Economy Approach

Hwan Joo Seo Hanyang University, South Korea
Jin Kang Korea University, Korea

Series: Routledge Frontiers of Political Economy

Through a political economy perspective, Seo and Kang argue that income inequality and income redistribution are shaped by the institutions, policies, and laws generated by the political system, with their formation and nature being determined by the power distribution among socio-political groups. What sets this research apart from existing studies is its intensified focus on income inequality as a product of the complex interplay between the political and economic domains, rather than a standalone examination of income inequality in isolation. A useful resource for researchers, scholars, and policymakers concerned with issues of inequality and income redistribution.

Inequality and Stagnation

A Monetary Interpretation

Santiago Capraro, Carlo Panico, Luis Torres-González

Series: Routledge Frontiers of Political Economy

The book examines how the outgrowth of the financial industry has contributed to the recent tendencies towards inequality and stagnation. It proposes a monetary interpretation of these events using a Classical-Keynesian theoretical approach derived from the work of Keynes and Sraffa. Using the Classical-Keynesian approach, the book shows how the changes in legislation and policies since the abandonment of the Bretton Woods agreements have caused the outgrowth of finance and how these alterations have raised financial instability. This book is essential reading for researchers studying the interactions among financial markets, distribution and growth.

The Ideas That Rule Us

How to Understand, Organise and Fight Against Bad Economics

Chris Grocott University of Leicester, UK

It may seem surprising that the economic choices we make in society are often determined by ideas rather than scientific evidence or financial resources. The consequences of such choices are often stark – such as the austerity policies which eroded our ability to withstand crises like the Covid 19 pandemic. This book explores the ideas that rule how our economy works, how government operates and how workers organise. This accessible book invites readers to question the ideas that rule us and explore the challenges facing society. It invites progressive thought about how we need to urgently organise action for the future.

The Political Economy of Mediterranean Europe

A Growth Models Perspective

Edited by Luis Cárdenas, Javier Arribas

Series: Routledge Frontiers of Political Economy

Applying the demand-led growth models framework, this book examines the recent macroeconomic performance of the key Mediterranean economies - Italy, Spain, Portugal and Greece - including the responses to the economic and financial crisis (2008), the debt crisis (2010) and the Covid-19 crisis (2020). In particular, the book examines whether policy responses and state interventions in recent years have led to a divergence between the economies. This book marks a significant addition to the literature on the economics and politics of Southern Europe and the fields of political economy, comparative economics and macroeconomics more broadly.

The Political Economy of Post-Capitalism

Financialization, Globalization and Neofeudalism

Richard Westra

Series: Routledge Frontiers of Political Economy

Westra explores a nuanced literature on postcapitalism which claims that instead of constituting the end of history or ending in its supplanting by socialism, capitalism has transmuted into something else. Foci of this literature ranges from questions of financial system and technological change through evidence of shifting class contours metastasizing a more predatory constellation. This book, written in a clear and compelling fashion, is a clarion call for social change. It will be of interest to academics and students across fields of economics, political economy, economic history, political science and sociology as well as to progressive policymakers and social activists.

Unequal Development and Capitalism

Catching Up and Falling Behind in the Global Economy

Adalmir Antonio Marquetti, Alessandro Miebach,
Henrique Morrone

Series: Routledge Frontiers of Political Economy

Unequal development is one of the main features of capitalism. Throughout history, countries have exhibited differences in their productivity and growth performances and although some nations may catch up with the productivity levels or well-being of developed economies at times, others fall behind. Trying to explain the factors behind these variations has puzzled economists for many years. This book is a major resource for readers interested in economic growth and development, heterodox macroeconomics, development economics and related areas.
