Communicating Development with Communities

Linje Manyozo

Series: Rethinking Development

Communicating Development with Communities builds on the work of Robert Chambers and Arturo Escobar, the book is an empirically grounded critical reflection on how the development industry defines, imagines and constructs development at the implementation level. This is a valuable resource for students, scholars and practitioners in participatory development, to prepare them for the complexities and challenges that await them when it comes to working with marginalised people in both the north and the south.

Communication in International Development

Doing Good or Looking Good?

Edited by Florencia Enghel, Jessica Noske-Turner

Series: Rethinking Development

International development stakeholders harness communication with two broad purposes: to do good, via communication for development and media assistance, and to communicate do-gooding, via public relations. This book aims to unpack the ways in which different efforts to do good via communication are combined with attempts to look good, be it to donor constituencies, policy-makers or journalists. This book is perfect for students and scholars in the areas of development communication and international development, and will also appeal to practitioners and officers working in international aid who are directly affected by the challenge to communicate for and about development.

ICT and Rural Development in the Global South

Willem van Eekelen

Series: Rethinking Development

This book dives into the achievements, opportunities, risks and dangers of ICT in the rural Global South, and takes a look at the likely future. Drawing on years of experience across 45 countries, as well as extensive original academic research, Willem van Eekelen situates the evolving role of ICT in wider development patterns in the Global South. This engaging and authoritative account of ICT and rural development will help students, academics, governmental policymakers, donors and investors wishing to support socio-economic development in the Global South.

Information and Communication Technology for Development (ICT4D)

Richard Heeks

Series: Routledge Perspectives on Development

This is the first dedicated textbook to examine and explain these emerging phenomena of Information and Communication Technology for Development. It will help students, practitioners and researchers understand the place of ICTs within development; the ICT-enabled changes already underway; and the key issues and interventions that engage ICT4D practice and strategy. The book uses extensive in-text diagrams, tables and boxed examples with chapter-end discussion and assignment questions and further reading. Supported by online activities, video links and session outlines and slides, this textbook provides the basis for undergraduate, postgraduate and online learning modules on ICT4D.

Media and Development

Richard Vokes

Series: Routledge Perspectives on Development

The text provides advanced undergraduate, and postgraduate, students with an introduction to the key theoretical perspectives in both media theory and development studies. It also brings these two bodies of theory into dialogue with each other, by examining the ways in which both media and development produce social changes (both intended and unintended), and by looking at how media has been, and could be, 'harnessed' by development agencies, developing world governments, NGOs, and peoples in the developing world as part of their wider attempts to achieve positive social change.

Mobile Technology and Social Transformations

Access to Knowledge in Global Contexts

Edited by Stefanie Felsberger, Ramesh Subramanian

Series: Rethinking Development

This book investigates the ways in which the mobile telephone has transformed societies around the world, bringing both opportunities and challenges. At a time when knowledge and truth are increasingly contested, the book asks how mobile technology has changed the ways in which people create, disseminate, and access knowledge. With case studies from Hong Kong, South Korea, India, Syria, Egypt, Botswana, Brazil, and the US, this book provides an important account of the changing nature of our access to knowledge, and is key reading for students, researchers, activists and policy makers with an interest in technology and access to knowledge.

2ND EDITION

Conflict and Development

Andrew J. Williams, Roger Macginty

Series: Routledge Perspectives on Development

In the five years since the first edition of Conflict and Development was published the awareness of the relationship between conflicts and development has grown exponentially. Developmental factors can act as a trigger for violence, as well as for ending violence and for triggering post-conflict reconstruction. The book explores the complexity of the links between violent conflict (usually civil wars) and development, under-development and uneven development. The second edition incorporates significant changes in the field including the G7+ initiative, the New Deal on Fragile States, World Trade talks, major policy documents from the UNDP and World Bank and updates on the Afghanistan and Iraq wars.

3RD EDITION

Conflict, Security and Development

An Introduction

Paul Jackson, Danielle Beswick

Drawing on academic theory, field research and policy developments, Conflict, Security and Development provides an overview of the connections between security and development, before, during and after conflict. The third edition has been revised and updated to take account of changes that have occurred in both the policy and academic arenas, and contains one new chapter.

Human Security in Disease and Disaster

Natasha Lindstaedt

This timely new textbook lays bare the ways in which disease and disaster can turn politicians into global leaders or national liabilities. It explains the impact of crises on development and human security and explores how states and societies can respond more effectively. Written primarily for the student of politics, but also drawing from public health, public policy and environmental studies, the book investigates the threats posed by disease and disasters, and demonstrates how states can shape the ways in which these crises unfold. The book delves deep into how state response to these challenges can impact political and economic stability.

Peacebuilding in Contemporary Africa

In Search of Alternative Strategies

Edited by Kenneth Omeje

Series: Routledge Studies in African Development

Peacebuilding in Contemporary Africa explores the challenges faced by societies transitioning from armed conflicts to peace in contemporary Africa. It evaluates the effectiveness and outcomes of existing peacebuilding initiatives, and proposes new strategies to facilitate the transition. In particular, the book aims to investigate micro-level conflicts, as they are often disregarded in peacebuilding literature, which tends to focus on macro-level, neo-liberal state reconstruction and peacebuilding efforts. The book provides a much needed perspective from African scholars, and will interest students, researchers, policy makers and practitioners with an interest in promoting peace in Africa.

Spoiler Groups and UN Peacekeeping

Peter Nadin, Patrick Cammaert, Vesselin Popovski

Series: Adelphi series

This book argues that the UN is peacekeeping in places where there is no peace to keep. This book is a policy guide for UN missions. It contemplates the challenging nature of non-permissive UN mission environments and offers a challenge to the UN to think afresh about the way it undertakes missions in these settings.

Terrorist Diversion

A Guide to Prevention and Detection for NGOs

Oliver May, Paul Curwell

Terrorist Diversion: A guide to prevention and detection for NGOs is an accessible, pragmatic guide for international NGOs of all shapes and sizes. Clearly explaining the nature of the challenge, and setting out a programme to meet it, it explores how it is possible for NGOs to manage these risks more effectively through their missions – not in spite of them.

The Anthropology of Peace and Reconciliation

Pax Humana

Nigel Eltringham

Series: Critical Topics in Contemporary Anthropology

This book offers a uniquely comparative, case-study perspective on the anthropology of peace and reconciliation. In the contemporary world, the end of violent conflict often gives way to one, or a combination, of five interventions designed to strengthen 'peace' and facilitate 'reconciliation'. Exploring the five interventions through detailed ethnographic accounts from around the world, this book is essential reading for scholars of peace studies, conflict resolution studies, and those taking an anthropological approach to conflict, violence, human rights and law.

Cash Transfers for Poverty Reduction

An International Operational Guide

Francisco V. Ayala, David Lawson

Series: Routledge Textbooks in Development Economics

Over the last 20 years, more than 100 countries have implemented social safety nets, targeted at the poorest and most vulnerable. Impact evaluations have shown the effectiveness of these, and policy makers have explored different methods of delivery, including cash transfers. This book offers the first systematic discussion of the design and implementation of poverty reduction schemes, and cash transfer programmes in particular. The authors also draw on their own practical experience and present global case studies in order to show the effects that these decisions have on operations and outcomes.

2ND EDITION

Development Economics

Theory and Practice

Alain de Janvry, Elisabeth Sadoulet

This second edition of Development Economics: Theory and Practice continues to provide students and practitioners with the perspectives and tools they need to think analytically and critically about the current major economic development issues in the world. Alain de Janvry and Elisabeth Sadoulet identify seven key dimensions of development: growth, poverty, vulnerability, inequality, basic needs, sustainability, and quality of life, and use them to structure the contents of the text. The authors demonstrate how diagnostics, design of programs and policies, and impact evaluation can be used to seek new solutions to the suffering and violence caused by development failures.

Development Economics

A Critical Introduction

Shahrukh Rafi Khan

Series: Routledge Textbooks in Development Economics

Following the 2007-2009 financial and economic crises, there has been an unprecedented demand among economics students for an alternative approach, which offers a historical, institutional and multidisciplinary treatment of the discipline. This book presents all the core material needed to teach development economics in a one semester course, whilst also addressing the need for a new economics and offering flexibility to instructors. The book allows students to see different perspectives on key development questions, and therefore to understand more fully the contested nature of many key areas of development economics.

Financializations of Development

Global Games and Local Experiments

Edited by Ève Chiapello, Anita Engels, Eduardo Gonçalves Gresse

Series: Routledge Explorations in Development Studies

This book brings together cutting-edge perspectives on socio-political, socio-historical and institutional analyses of the evolving multiple and intertwined financialization processes of developmental institutions, programs and policies. Drawing on case studies conducted in Africa, Asia, Europe and Latin America, this book examines the ways in which these private finance actors are enrolled and associated with the conception and implementation of development policies. It assembles empirical research on development programs and demonstrates the social consequences of the financializations of development to the people on the ground.

Globalization, Planning and Local Economic Development

Andrew Beer, Terry L. Clower

This textbook is concerned with economic development at the local, community or regional scale. Its aim is to provide students with a comprehensive introduction to contemporary thinking about locally-based economic development, how growth can be planned and how that development can be realised. In addition to a wealth of case studies and pedagogical features, the book is also complemented by a comprehensive range of online resources. In offering a full toolkit of economic development knowledge, techniques and strategies, this text will thoroughly prepare students for a career in urban planning, transport planning, human geography and applied economic analysis.

Social Entrepreneurship and Sustainable Development

Edited by Archana Singh, Edakkandi Meethal Reji

Series: Towards Sustainable Futures

This volume discusses the interface between social entrepreneurship and sustainable development along with their inter-linkages. It traces the role of social entrepreneurship and innovations in societal transformation in creating sustainable societies, especially in developing nations, and for socially disadvantaged groups (the poor, women and young people), as they address environmental and ecological issues apart from wealth creation. It will be useful to those in development studies, social entrepreneurship, sustainable development, environmental studies, public policy, political sociology, non-profit, corporate, and public sectors, development practitioners, and international bodies.

Southern-Led Development Finance

Solutions from the Global South

Edited by Diana Barrowclough, Kevin P. Gallagher, Richard Kozul-Wright

Series: Rethinking Development

This book examines some of the innovative new south-south financial arrangements and institutions that have emerged in recent years, as countries from the Global South seek new ways to transform their economies and to shield themselves from global economic turbulence. At a time when governments and businesses frustrated by the traditional North-dominated mechanisms and international financial system are seeking new approaches to investment, trade and finance, this book is a timely contribution to the debate. With insights from both theory and practice, it will be of interest to practitioners, policy makers, researchers and students working on development finance.

Adventures in the Aid Trade

Forty Years Practising Development in Forty Countries

Richard Holloway

Adventures in the Aid Trade takes us on a fascinating journey through 40 years of work at the coal face of international development. Drawing on his experiences from long periods in the field, the author reflects on what has worked, what has not and why, and considers how these experiences relate to students and practitioners today. Whether you are a current development practitioner, or a student just starting out in your understanding of the development and humanitarian sectors, this book provides an invaluable snapshot of the world of civil society organisations, governance, the voluntary sector, and the lived lives of ordinary people in extraordinary times.

Postdevelopment in Practice

Alternatives, Economies, Ontologies

Edited by Elise Klein, Carlos Eduardo Morreo

Series: Routledge Critical Development Studies

In recent years advocates of postdevelopment and critical development studies have exposed areas where development institutions and practices have in fact served to make the lives of the poor worse. Postdevelopment in Practice looks at how postdevelopment principles actually work in practice, by revealing how actors in and out of development already follow postdevelopment practices, and suggesting alternative future pathways. Students, scholars and practitioners in critical development and postdevelopment studies will find this book an important guide to applying theory to practice.

David de Ferranti

Series: Rethinking Development

This book brings to life the remarkable stories of five exceptional international development leaders and influencers: Ngozi Okonjo-Iweala, Domingo Cavallo, Ela Bhatt, Dzingai Mutumbuka, and Adolfo Figueroa. Together, their experiences and accomplishments challenge us to rethink conventional notions of leadership and international development and to reflect on how others from Africa, Asia, and Latin America will change the world in decades ahead. While many books have been written on what should be done to help rising nations thrive, this one takes readers inside the human story of who brings about change and how.

Researching Development NGOs

Global and Grassroots Perspectives

Edited by Susannah Pickering-Saqqa

Series: Rethinking Development

This book offers a critical insight into how the study of NGOs can be more theoretically grounded and methodologically creative. Rather than evaluating the impact of NGO work, this is a book about how researchers and practitioners can better understand what NGOs do and how they operate. Bringing together work from a range of NGO researchers working across diverse disciplines and at varied stages of their academic careers, the collection is supported by recent case studies in the field as well as 'dilemma boxes' and discussion questions in every chapter.

Using Evidence in Policy and Practice

Lessons from Africa

Edited by Ian Goldman, Mine Pabari

Series: Rethinking Development

This book asks how governments in Africa can use evidence to improve their policies and programmes, and ultimately, to achieve positive change for their citizens. Looking at different evidence sources across a range of contexts, the book brings policy makers and researchers together to uncover what does and doesn't work and why. This book will be perfect for policy-makers, practitioners in government and civil society, and researchers and academics with an interest in how evidence can be used to support policy making in Africa.

Aid Power and Politics

Edited by Iliana Olivé, Aitor Pérez

Series: Rethinking Development

Why is it that countries spend so much money on aid for the well-being of non-citizens outside their borders? Aid Power and Politics delves into the political roots of aid policy, demonstrating how and why governments across the world use aid for global influence. Bringing together insight from international relations and development studies, the book argues that individual countries both have the capacity to shape global trends, and are at the same time shaped by global norms. This book will be an important read for international development students, researchers, practitioners and policy makers.

Geopolitics and Development

Marcus Power

This textbook examines the historical emergence of development as a form of governmentality, from the end of empire to the Cold War and the War on Terror. It illustrates the various ways in which the meanings and relations of development as a discourse, an apparatus and an aspiration, have been geopolitically imagined and enframed. Primarily intended for scholars and post-graduate students in Development Studies, Human Geography, African studies and International Relations, this book provides an engaging, invaluable and up-to-date resource for making sense of the complex entanglement between geopolitics and development in the past and present.

South-North Dialogues on Democracy, Development and Sustainability

Edited by Cristina Fróes de Borja Reis, Tatiana Berringer

Series: Rethinking Development

This book shows how bringing together experts from the Global South and the Global North can help us to understand and combat global economic, political, and social inequalities. For too long, the world's problems have been viewed through the narrow conceptual lenses of the Global North. This book lays the groundwork for a new approach- a truly global approach to political economy. The book will be of great interest to students, researchers, and experts in international relations, global development, and international political economy, and to anyone looking for new perspectives on pernicious problems.

A New World-System

From Chaos to Sustainability

Donald G. Reid

Series: Routledge Studies in Sustainable Development

This book examines the present crisis in the social and ecological environment that is producing profound, potentially catastrophic challenges to the planet and humanity, and outlines a process for moving forward to address these critical issues. Part 1 surveys the five major threats facing humanity today: climate change, inequality and poverty, new technologies, migration and globalization. It approaches the challenge of integrating these phenomena into a global picture from a systems perspective. Part 2 moves to solving these problems with chapters examining the ability of the present world-system to address these issues and outlining a process for action.

Rural Development in Practice

Evolving Challenges and Opportunities

Willem van Eekelen

Series: Rethinking Development

Rural Development in Practice focuses on the evolving nature of rural development in the Global South. It outlines how we got to where we are today, checks what we can learn from history, and explores the development drivers, facilitators and obstacles most likely to shape the years ahead. Real-life examples, exercises, role-plays, textboxes, anecdotes and illustrative artwork are used to bring concepts and theories to life. It is essential reading for students at all levels, and will be of benefit to programme and policy staff in rural-focused government departments, multilateral agencies and non-government organisations.

Development with Dignity

Self-determination, Localization, and the End to Poverty

Tom G. Palmer, Matt Warner

Series: Rethinking Development

At a time when the global development industry is under more pressure than ever before, this book argues that an end to poverty can only be achieved by prioritising human dignity. Offering a wide range of interdisciplinary perspectives and specific examples from the field showing these ideas in action, this book provides NGOs, multilateral institutions and donor countries with practical guidelines for implementing "dignity-first" development. Compelling and engaging, with a wide range of recommendations for reforming development practice and supporting liberal democracy, this book will be an essential read for students and practitioners of international development.

Global Ethics

An Introduction

Heather Widdows

Global ethics addresses some of the most pressing ethical concerns today, including rogue states, torture, poverty, migration, consumption, global trade, medical tourism, and humanitarian intervention. How we resolve (or fail to resolve) the dilemmas of global ethics shapes how we understand ourselves, our relationships with each other and the social and political frameworks of governance now and into the future. This book, suitable for course use, introduces students to the theory and practice of global ethics, ranging over issues in global governance and citizenship, poverty and development, war and terrorism, bioethics, environmental and climate ethics and gender justice.

Empowering Adolescent Girls in Developing Countries

Gender Justice and Norm Change

Edited by Caroline Harper, Nicola Jones, Anita Ghimire, Rachel Marcus, Grace Kyomuhendo Bantebya

At a time when adolescent girls' wellbeing and development is an increasing focus for funding and research, Empowering Adolescent Girls in Developing Countries explores the harmful impact of discriminatory gender norms on all aspects of adolescent girls' lives and across very different contexts. Grounded in four years of in-depth research across Ethiopia, Nepal, Uganda and Viet Nam, this book shows how more egalitarian gender norms can help disadvantaged adolescent girls to realise their potential.

Prevention of Violence Against Women and Girls

Mainstreaming in Development Programmes

Tamsin Bradley, Janet Gruber

Series: Rethinking Development

This book argues that women and girls are vulnerable across all areas of society, and that a commitment to end violence against women and girls needs to be embedded into all development programmes. It presents an innovative framework for sensitisation and action across development programmes, based on emerging best practices and lessons learnt, and illustrated through a number of country contexts and a range of programmes. Drawing on nearly three decades of experience working on gender, health and violence against women programmes as both practitioners, and academics, the authors present key lessons which can be used by both students, researchers and practitioners alike.

Engendering Development

Capitalism and Inequality in the Global Economy

Amy Trauger, Jennifer L. Fluri

Engendering Development demonstrates how gender is a form of inequality that is used to generate global capitalist development. It charts the histories of gender, race, class, sexuality and nationality as categories of inequality under imperialism, which continue to support the accumulation of capital in the global economy today. The book will prove to be useful to advanced undergraduate and graduate students enrolled in courses on development.

Aid and Development

John Overton, Warwick E. Murray

Series: Routledge Perspectives on Development

This book provides an overview of what aid is, how it has changed over time, and how it is practiced, as well as debates about whether aid works, for whom, and what its future might be. It is an important resource for students, development workers and policy makers seeking an understanding of how aid works. The text shows how 'aid' is a contested and fluid concept that involves a wide and changing variety of policies, actors and impacts. Each chapter includes case studies, chapter summaries, discussions, weblinks and further reading, to help strengthen the reader's understanding.

Global Development

The Basics

Daniel Hammett

Series: The Basics

How do we try to make the world a better place, when the challenges of poverty, disease, war, conflict, and climate change continue to impact millions of lives? Global Development: The Basics is a lively and engaging introduction to the shifting landscape of global development, right from its origins, to present-day problems, and on to what the future for global development might look like. It investigates whose voices are included or silenced in dominant approaches to development. Covering key topics in the field, from economics and politics, through to gender and climate change, this book is perfect for readers starting out in their understanding of global development.

The Future of Aid

Global Public Investment

Jonathan Glennie

What went wrong with foreign aid? Despite many positive changes, poverty is not history, and the very idea of foreign aid is now under sustained attack by administrations around the world. The Future of Aid calls for a wholesale restructuring of the aid project, a totally new approach fit for the challenges of the 21st century: Global Public Investment. Engagingly written by a well-known expert in the field, this book sets out a powerful roadmap for an evolution in the way that we think about aid, global cooperation, and the need to back up our ambitious global objectives with public money.

Migration in Africa

Shifting Patterns of Mobility from the 19th to the 21st Century

Edited by Michiel de Haas, Ewout Frankema

This book introduces readers to the age of intra-African migration, a period from the mid-19th century onwards in which the centre of gravity of African migration moved decisively inwards. Most books tend to zoom in on Africa's external migration during the earlier intercontinental slave trade and the more recent outmigration to the global north, but this book argues that migration within the continent has been far more central to the lives of Africans over the course of the last two centuries. By taking a broad historical and continent-wide perspective, this book explores the distinctions between the more immediate drivers of migration and deeper patterns of change over time.

Migration Theory

Talking across Disciplines

Edited by Caroline B. Brettell, James F. Hollifield

The revised fourth edition of Migration Theory continues to offer a one-stop synthesis of contemporary thought on migration. Editors Caroline B. Brettell and James F. Hollifield remain committed to include coverage that is comparative and global in scope while enhancing similarities and differences between academic fields. Designed for undergraduate and graduate courses in migration studies, a primary goal of the text is to assist instructors in guiding students who may have little background on migration to, understand important issues and debates. This makes the book a valuable guide not only to the perspectives of one's own discipline but to those of cognate fields.

Refugee Voices

Performativity and the Struggle for Recognition

Rob Sharp

This book explores how participatory creative production can allow refugees to be recognized in emotional, legal and social ways. It also explains how decisions around participation in these forms of creative production can equally exclude refugee voices from the public sphere, inhibit recognition, and in fact lead to refugee misrecognition. Building on the concept of 'performative refugeeeness', it considers how refugee voices are ambivalently enacted in alternative forms of media. It will be of great interest to scholars and researchers of migration and refugee studies, media and culture studies, performance studies and communication studies.

The Ethics of Migration

An Introduction

Adam Hosein

Series: The Ethics of...

This book systematically and comprehensively examines the ethical issues surrounding immigration, addressing key questions such as: Can states control their borders and if so to what extent? Is detention a justifiable means of border enforcement? Who should be considered a refugee? When are amnesties for unauthorized migrants appropriate? Featuring case studies throughout, this textbook provides a philosophical introduction to an incredibly topical issue studied by students within the fields of political philosophy, applied ethics, politics, law, sociology and public policy.

The International Organization for Migration

Challenges, Commitments, Complexities

Megan Bradley

Series: Global Institutions

This book provides an accessible, incisive introduction to the International Organization for Migration (IOM), an important but under-examined agency and argues that understanding IOM's involvement in humanitarian action and its involvement with displaced persons is pivotal to understanding the organization's evolution and significance. Bradley's rigorous analysis of the organization's evolution, practices, and contemporary challenges is essential reading for students and scholars of international relations, migration and international organizations.

COVID-19 and Foreign Aid

Nationalism and Global Development in a New World Order

Edited by Viktor Jakupec, Max Kelly, Michael de Percy
Series: Rethinking Development

This book provides a timely, critical, and thought-provoking analysis of the implications of the disruption of COVID-19 to the foreign aid and development system, and the extent to which the system is retaining a level of relevance, legitimacy or coherence. The response is specifically focused on the interrelated themes of political analysis and soft power, the legitimization crisis, poverty, inequality, foreign aid, and the disruption and re-making of the world order. The book argues that complex and multidirectional linkages between politics, economics, society, and the environment are driving changes in the extant development aid system.

Geographies of Health and Development

Edited by Rachel Bezner Kerr, Isaac Luginaah
Series: Geographies of Health Series

The geographies of health and development is an emerging sub-discipline, tying in with many of the conceptual, theoretical and practical components of other disciplines working in health, health care, economics, and international development. Spatially and theoretically grounded in geography, this collection offers a fresh perspective on the dialectic relationships between health and development. Health problems in a developing context take on much higher rates of prevalence as a result of the varied cultural, structural and economic vulnerabilities of the people they impact. This book begins by exploring some of the circumstances surrounding the distinctive health inequities currently facing many developing countries, including malaria, maternal mortality and HIV/AIDS. This is followed by a discussion of how matters of physical access and human resource issues and, perhaps most importantly, the challenges of financing, together shape the access and utilization of health care. Adolescents in Humanitarian Crisis

Displacement, Gender and Social Inequalities

Edited by Nicola Jones, Kate Pincock, Bassam Abu Hamad

Series: Routledge Humanitarian Studies

This book investigates the experiences and vulnerabilities faced by adolescents displaced by humanitarian crisis. It explores the experiences of adolescent refugees, adolescent internally displaced persons and stateless adolescents from across Lebanon, Jordan, Bangladesh, Ethiopia, Palestine and Rwanda. Drawing on innovative mixed-methods research, the book investigates education; health and nutrition; freedom from violence and bodily integrity; psychosocial wellbeing; voice and agency; and economic empowerment. It will be a vital guide for humanitarian students and researchers, and for practitioners seeking to build effective, evidence-based policy.

Authoritarian Practices and Humanitarian Negotiations

Edited by Andrew J Cunningham

Series: Routledge Humanitarian Studies

This book examines authoritarian practices in relation to humanitarian negotiations. Chapters provide insights at the macro, meso, and micro levels, through case studies on the international and domestic legal and political framing of humanitarian contexts (Xinjiang, Afghanistan, Venezuela, Russia, and Syria), as well as the actual practice of negotiating with authoritarian regimes (Ethiopia). This book is useful for those studying international politics and humanitarian studies, as well as for practitioners seeking to better systematise their humanitarian negotiations.

Child Rights in Humanitarian Crisis

Improving Action and Response

Edited by Rigmor Argren, Jessica Jonsson

Series: Routledge Humanitarian Studies

This book demonstrates how a focus on children's rights can help practitioners to safeguard children during humanitarian crisis. The volume presents the reader with a clear focus on children from a range of backgrounds, including those most marginalised, such as children with disabilities. Drawing on expertise from the field as well as academia, this book is a treasure trove of advice from some of the humanitarian and development sector's most experienced professionals. Combining insights from both research and practice, this book will be an essential read for humanitarian students and practitioners.

International Order and the Politics of Disaster

Scott D. Watson

In this indispensable and comprehensive text, Scott D. Watson critically examines the current understanding of international order that underpins international disaster management and disaster diplomacy. Based on empirical analysis of the three international 'disaster management regimes' (disaster relief, disaster risk reduction, and disaster migration) and case studies of disaster diplomacy in the United States, Egypt and China, Watson argues that international disaster management and disaster diplomacy are not simply efforts to reduce the impact of disasters or to manage bilateral relations, but to reinforce key beliefs about the larger international order.

The Humanitarian Machine

Reflections from Practice

Edited by Diego Fernandez Otegui, Daryl Yoder-Botrager

Series: Routledge Humanitarian Studies

In The Humanitarian Machine aid workers reflect on their own experiences of working in crisis. As they write about their work and the ways in which they each approach the challenges of helping people, they comment on some of the most vexing issues facing the humanitarian sector. Each speaks from their own perspective, asking tough questions, sharing thoughtful reflections about their ongoing work and unpacking what it really means to be a humanitarian worker. The stories they tell, whether recounting a specific experience or reflecting on years of practice, reveal the dilemmas they face and demystify the overly romanticized aura that sometimes surrounds humanitarian practice.

The Humanitarian Parent

Balancing Work and Family in the Aid Sector

Merit Hietanen

For a long time, the aid worker was typified by the lone white male, flying from place to place, and seeing his family during the holidays. But now, as the world changes and the sector diversifies, how can family life be reconciled with the challenges and travel commitments of this particularly difficult career? It doesn't need to be this way. The book points a way for organisations to adopt policies that support mothers and fathers. As well as being a useful guide for aid professionals who are themselves navigating these issues, the book will be perfect for organisations looking to reform, and for students wishing to understand the realities of a career in aid.

Understanding the Humanitarian World

Daniel Maxwell, Kirsten Gelsdorf

Conflict and disaster have been part of human history for as long as it has been recorded. Today a large and complex 'global humanitarian response system' made up of a multitude of local, national, and international actors carries out a wide variety of responses. Understanding this intricate system, and the forces that shape it are the core focus of this book. This book serves as a valuable introductory text to the way humanitarian action operates in the 21st century. It will be essential reading for students and practitioners or anyone with an interest in humanitarian action, international humanitarian and human rights law, disaster management and international relations.

Africapitalism

Sustainable Business and Development in Africa

Edited by Uwafiokun Idemudia, Kenneth Amaeshi

Using theory, empirical research and case studies, this book explores the changing nature of business in Africa and how businesses can actively contribute to the development of Africa. It uses (and critically analyses) the concept of Africapitalism – a management idea and movement which seeks to blend the best of African values and Western management theories as a basis for sustainable development in Africa – to understand the subtle factors that underpin business decisions in Africa.

Latin American Economic Development

Javier A. Reyes, W. Charles Sawyer

Latin America is one of the most intriguing parts of the world. The region's illustrious history, culture, and geography are famous internationally, but in terms of economics, Latin America has been generally associated with problems. For many, the combination of a resource-rich region and poor economic conditions has been a puzzle. This extensively revised and updated second edition of Latin American Economic Development continues to provide the most up-to-date exploration of why the continent can be considered to have underperformed, how the various Latin American economies function, and the future prospects for the region.

The Political Economy of Latin America

Reflections on Neoliberalism and Development after the Commodity Boom

Peter Kingstone

This brief text offers an unbiased reflection on debates about neoliberalism and its alternatives in Latin America with an emphasis on the institutional puzzle that underlies the region's difficulties with democratization and development. In addition to providing an overview of this key element of the Latin American political economy, Peter Kingstone also advances the argument that both state-led and market-led solutions depend on effective institutions, but little is known about how and why they emerge. Kingstone offers a unique contribution by mapping out the problem of how to understand institutions, why they are created, and why Latin American ones limit democratic development.

Challenges and Solutions in Ethnographic Research

Ethnography with a Twist

Edited by Tuuli Lähdesmäki, Eerika Koskinen-Koivisto, Viktorija L.A. Čėginskas, Aino-Kaisa Koistinen

This interdisciplinary book rethinks ethnography 'outside the box' of established traditions. It develops new ethnographic tools and critically discusses core principles of ethnography, such as ethics, subjectivity, the role of the researcher, and ethnographic knowledge production. 'Ethnography with a twist' means both an intentional aim to conduct ethnographic research with novel approaches and methodological tools, and sensitivity to recognize as well as creativity to utilize different kinds of 'twist moments' that research may create. Suitable for postgraduate students in sociology, anthropology and qualitative research.

Theory and Methods for Engaged Inquiry

Edited by Jacques M. Chevalier, Daniel J. Buckles

Revised and updated, Participatory Action Research 2ed, guides readers on new pathways to collective reasoning and evidence-based learning for social change, addressing the widespread difficulties all disciplines face when trying to contribute to change in complex social settings characterized by uncertainty and the unknown. Grounded in real-life it provides coherent, comprehensive and critical treatment of a wide range of themes in the social sciences, including stakeholder theory, systems thinking, problem analysis, risk assessment and priority setting. It is suitable for a wide range of undergraduate and postgraduate courses, as well as working professionals.

Anthropology for Development

From Theory to Practice

Robyn Eversole

This text introduces development studies students to a set of core ideas from the anthropology of development, and then showing how these insights from anthropology can be applied in practice to solve real-world development dilemmas. Written for advanced undergraduate and postgraduate students who are professionals-in-training in development studies programs around the world. This volume clearly explains key insights from the anthropology of development and draws them into a framework for addressing some of the challenges facing development policy and practice: poverty, participation, sustainability, and innovation.

2ND EDITION

Disability and International Development

A Guide for Students and Practitioners

David Cobley

Series: Rethinking Development

This book provides a comprehensive overview of the key themes in the field of disability and development, including issues around identity, poverty, disability rights, education, health, livelihoods, disaster recovery and approaches to researching disability. Drawing on a range of examples taken from around the world, the book introduces key topics and theories surrounding disability and development. The second edition of this popular textbook includes increased coverage of environmental accessibility, intersectionality, and reflections on the disproportionate impact of the Covid-19 pandemic on disabled people and the prospects for change in a post-pandemic environment.

Inequality in a Context of Climate Crisis after COVID

A Complex Realist Approach

David Byrne

Series: Complexity in Social Science

Inequality in a Context of Climate Crisis after COVID uses a complex realist approach to examine the crisis of three interconnected problems: economic inequality, climate change, and the COVID-19 pandemic. Contributing to our thinking about dynamic social systems, this text deploys complex realism to understand our trajectory towards increasing inequality. This book will be of interest to students and scholars across the social sciences, in particular to those studying social inequality, climate change, heterodox economics, complex systems, and Master's students in programmes with an applied focus.

Participatory Arts in International Development

Edited by Paul Cooke, Inés Soria-Donlan

Series: Rethinking Development

This book explores the practical delivery of participatory arts projects for international development. Bringing together an interdisciplinary group of academics, international development professionals and arts practitioners, the book engages honestly with the competing challenges faced by the different groups of people involved. Written to appeal both to academics and practitioners, this book would also be suitable for teaching on courses related to participatory development, community arts, and culture and development.

Religions and Development

Emma Tomalin

Series: Routledge Perspectives on Development

The text will present, explain and critically evaluate different sorts of literature from a range of disciplines that are relevant to thinking about the relationships between religions and development. It provides insight into a comprehensive range of approaches to guide readers through current debates about the role that religions play in development – from positive contributions to more complicated and contested notions of impact, for instance, in terms of religiously inspired violence or gender inequality.

Scaling Impact

Innovation for the Public Good

Robert McLean, John Gargani

Scaling Impact introduces a new and practical approach to scaling the positive impacts of research and innovation. Inspired by leading scientific and entrepreneurial innovators from across Africa, Asia, the Caribbean, Latin America, and the Middle East, this book presents a synthesis of unrivalled diversity and grounded ingenuity. To encourage uptake and co-development, the authors present actionable principles that can help organizations and innovators design, manage, and evaluate scaling strategies. Scaling Impact is essential reading for development and innovation practitioners and professionals, but also for researchers, students, evaluators, and policymakers with a de

Tourism and Development in the Developing World

David J. Telfer, Richard Sharpley

Series: Routledge Perspectives on Development

Tourism is widely considered to be an important factor in socio-economic development, particularly in less developed countries - but despite almost universal recognition of tourism's development potential, the extent to which economic and social progress is linked to the growth of a country's tourism sector remains a topic of intense debate. This book offers a thorough overview of the tourism-development relationship. Focusing specifically on the less developed world and drawing on contemporary case studies, the updated second edition questions widely-held assumptions on the role of tourism in development and seeks to highlight the challenges faced in tourism-based development.

4TH EDITION

Tourism and Sustainability

Development, globalisation and new tourism in the Third World

Martin Mowforth, Ian Munt

'If unequal opportunities are large within many countries they are truly staggering on a global scale', concludes the World Bank's 2006 World Development Report. It is a global unevenness within which the barriers to immigration of Third World migrants to wealthy First World nations go ever higher, whilst the barriers to travel in the reverse direction are all but extinct. How can tourism help narrow this glaring inequality between rich and poor? Tourism and Sustainability critically explores and challenges what have emerged as the most significant universal geopolitical norms. The fourth edition has been extensively updated and includes a new chapter on climate change and sustainable tourism.

Inequality Studies from the Global South

Edited by David Francis, Imraan Valodia, Edward Webster

Series: Routledge Inequality Studies

This book offers an innovative, interdisciplinary approach to thinking about inequality, and to understanding how inequality is produced and reproduced in the global South. This exciting interdisciplinary collection brings together scholars from across the global South, and indeed the North, to address broad thematic areas and concludes by suggesting alternatives for addressing inequality in the global South and around the world. The innovative ideas and theories put forward by this volume make it an essential read for students and researchers of global inequality across the fields of sociology, economics, law, politics, global studies, and development studies.

2ND EDITION

Postcolonialism, Decoloniality and Development

Cheryl McEwan

Series: Routledge Perspectives on Development

Postcolonialism, Decoloniality and Development, 2e explains, reviews and critically evaluates recent debates about postcolonial and decolonial approaches and their implications for development studies. It unpacks the difficult, complex and important aspects of the relationships between postcolonial theory, decoloniality and development studies. It includes a new chapter on postcolonial theory, development and the Anthropocene that considers the challenges posed by the current global environmental crisis to both postcolonial theory and ideas of development.

Researching South-South Development Cooperation

The Politics of Knowledge Production

Edited by Emma Mawdsley, Elsie Fourie, Wiebe Nauta

Series: Rethinking Development

Over the last two decades the expanding role of Southern countries as development partners has led to tectonic shifts in global development ideas, practices, norms and actors. This book examines this rapidly growing and complex phenomenon, asking to what extent existing assumptions, conceptual frameworks and definitions of 'development' need to be reframed in the context of researching this new landscape. This book will be of interest to anyone conducting research on development in the Global South, whether they are a practitioner or policy maker, or a student or researcher in politics, international development, area studies, or international relations.

South-South Development

Peter Kragelund

Series: Routledge Perspectives on Development

The book examines the historical background for the current situation: why it suddenly took off again approximately a decade ago; the various vectors of engagement and their interrelatedness; the actors involved; the affect of revitalisation of South-South development to cooperation 'as it was'; and how it affects the rest of the Global South. It offers a unique combination of in-depth insights and secondary data on South-South development, presenting a 'state-of-the-art' account aimed at students as well as practitioners in disciplines such as International Development Studies, International Relations, Geography, Anthropology, Global Studies and International Political Economy.
