Crime Prevention by Exclusion

Ethical Considerations

Edited by Sebastian Jon Holmen, Thomas Søbirk Petersen Roskilde University, Denmark, Jesper Ryberg

Series: Routledge Frontiers of Criminal Justice

This book addresses the complex ethical challenges related to preventive exclusion that have only been addressed in a limited way in the academic literature. This book is invaluable for scholars with an interest in crime prevention, criminal law, and criminal justice. The practical implications will also appeal to practitioners in the criminal justice system involved in the implementation and administration of preventive exclusion.

Extremism and Radicalization in the Manosphere

Beta Uprising

Deniese Kennedy-Kollar

Series: Routledge Studies in Crime and Society

Extremism and Radicalization in the Manosphere presents an analysis of the male supremacist ideology of the Internet-based subculture known as the manosphere. Through the use of quotes gathered from forums frequented by individuals within the subculture, this book offers an in-depth analysis of the ideology of the manosphere, and the common attitudes, values, and beliefs promoted. It will also present a theoretical perspective on what draws men to these groups and the processes by which they become radicalized to the far right and violent extremism. This book will interest scholars and students in criminology, sociology, and political science.

Gender and Crime

Contemporary Theoretical Perspectives

Edited by Sandra L. Browning, Leah C. Butler, Cheryl Lero Jonson Xavier University

Series: Advances in Criminological Theory

In 1975 Freda Adler published her pathbreaking book, Sisters in Crime: The Rise of the New Female Criminal, and opened up a vibrant new area within criminology: the study of gender and crime. Now nearly a half century later, the field of criminology is replete with women scholars who are making plentiful and important contributions. As a result, this volume explores cutting-edge issues and takes stock of modern perspectives on gender and crime, which will be of great interest to criminologists and students in graduate and upper-level undergraduate courses.

2ND EDITION

Race, Gender, and Deviance in Xbox Live

Theoretical Perspectives from the Virtual Margins—10th Anniversary Edition

Kishonna L. Gray

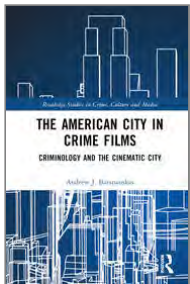

By focusing on the experiences of users, gamers, and audiences inside one of the world's largest gaming communities (Xbox Live), this book provides an overview of the landscape, architecture, and socio-technical structure of console gaming. By bringing together cultural studies, criminology, media studies, game studies, and others, this text offers interdisciplinary approaches to making sense of not only the technology and its impact on users and cultures, but also the impact that (sub)cultures have had on gaming. It is essential reading for scholars and practitioners seeking solutions to some of gaming's biggest challenges such as how to reduce harm in online gaming.

Victimisation in the Digital Age

An Online/Offline Continuum Approach

Edited by Tine Munk Nottingham Trent University, Morag Kennedy Nottingham Trent University

Series: Routledge Studies in Crime and Society

Examining how victimisation can occur across the online-offline continuum while emphasising the need for a holistic approach to understanding and addressing contemporary harms, this book covers various themes of victimisation in the digital age linked to the interconnectedness and blurred boundaries between online and offline experiences. Offering a critical examination of how digital advancements have paved the way for new forms of victimisation, the book underlines the crucial role of criminology in confronting these issues and shaping policy.

Sexual Offending by Strangers

Paul V. Greenall Greater Manchester Mental Health NHS Foundation Trust and Liverpool John Moores University, UK

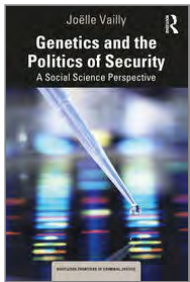

Exploring a specific type of sexual violence committed by a specific type of sexual offender, namely adult male on adult female stranger sexual violence, this book provides readers with an enhanced understanding of both the offences being committed and the offenders who commit them. Although acts of serious stranger sexual violence are rare, they are important as they occur in the context of there being no pre-existing relationship between the offender and victim, meaning they present significant challenges to criminal justice practitioners who are required to investigate, assess and understand such offending.

Genetics and the Politics of Security

A Social Science Perspective

Joëlle Vailly IRIS, France

Series: Routledge Frontiers of Criminal Justice

Presenting a sociological perspective on the contemporary gaze on the body of the suspect, this book considers how definitions of criminality, offenses, individual rights, and the concepts of identity and difference, have been altered by changes in the biological status of the human. Spurred by rapid developments in genetics and information technology, a number of countries, including France, the United States, the United Kingdom, China, and the Netherlands, have considerably expanded their genetic databases used by the police and the criminal justice system.

Psychology and Criminal Justice

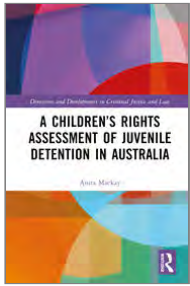

Lesli Blair

Psychology and Criminal Justice covers the ways that psychology intersects with the criminal justice system, from explaining criminal behavior to helping improve the three criminal justice pillars of policing, courts, and corrections. After decades of overreliance on sociology-based theory and research, the field of criminal justice is looking to psychology for explanations and insight. This book is essential reading for upper-level undergraduate and graduate level courses housed in both criminal justice and psychology departments.

Framing Impunity in the Context of State Crime

A Study of Turkish State Criminality Against Kurds (1990- 2000)

Sanya Karakas

Series: Crimes of the Powerful

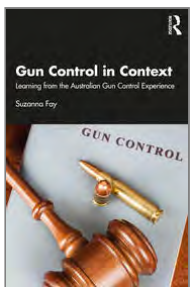

This book introduces a new conceptual framework for impunity within state crime theory and uses Turkish state criminality against Kurds between 1990 and 2000 as a case study. It develops an understanding of impunity that goes beyond viewing the state solely as an actor, facilitator or denier of crime. It argues for an expanded definition of state crime to encompass criminal acts and processes undertaken by states, including impunity. An accessible and compelling read, this book will appeal to law students, scholars, researchers, NGOs, and civil society organisations.

Gun Control in Context

Learning from the Australian Gun Control Experience

Suzanna Fay

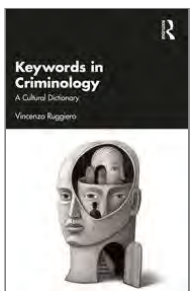

This book approaches the gun control debate by asking what it takes to achieve acceptance of, and compliance with, gun control regulations in a community thought to be opposed and resistant. It does this by centering this question on the experience of gun dealers who occupy a dual role in the compliance process - subject to its regulations, yet central to the application of all regulatory processes. Gun Control in Context is essential reading for all those engaged across the broad spectrum of the gun control debate and offers a grounded and reasoned approach to the challenges of public policy.

Policing Rape

The Way Forward

Katrin Hohl, Elizabeth A. Stanko

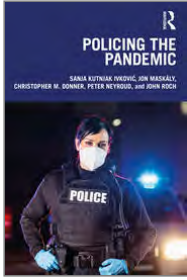

Series: Routledge Frontiers of Criminal Justice

The policing of rape is in permacrisis. This book addresses the question of why police investigations continue to fail most rape victim-survivors and puts forward a framework for what policing can do to change this. Low conviction rates and poor victim-survivor experiences are the hallmarks of the rape justice gap. Policing Rape sets out a practice-oriented theoretical framework for radically and sustainably transforming rape investigations, rape prevention, and the quality of officer engagement with victim-survivors. This book is essential reading for all those looking to understand and improve the policing of rape.

Jon Maskály University of North Dakota, U.S.A.,
Christopher M. Donner Loyola University Chicago, U.S.A., Peter Neyroud University of Cambridge, U.K., John Roch University of Cambridge, U.K.

Policing the Pandemic explores how police agencies in United Kingdom and the United States have adjusted to their changing environments, both during the peak of the COVID-19 pandemic and later, when the restrictions have been relaxed and the societies have begun to develop their new normal. This book is an essential reading for scholars, policymakers, and police administrators tackling issues such as procedural justice, organizational change, and police officer well-being, as well as those more widely engaged with societal and legal consequences of the pandemic, be it the COVID-19 pandemic or any future pandemics.

Recovering Police Legitimacy

A Radical Framework

Rafe McGregor Edge Hill University, UK

Transatlantic policing is experiencing an unprecedented crisis of legitimacy, epitomised by public responses to the murders of George Floyd and Sarah Everard during the COVID-19 pandemic. Legitimacy is lost when the police either fail to protect the public or rely on coercion rather than consent to achieve that protection. Recovering Police Legitimacy challenges conventional criminological, political, and public solutions to the problem by approaching it from the bottom up. Written for students, police officers, policymakers, scholars, and anyone with an interest in police legitimacy.

Statistical Analyses for Criminal Justice and Criminology

A Conceptual Introduction

Michael J. DeValve

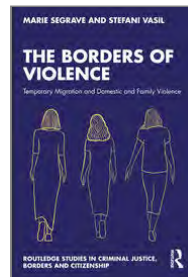

This book is a how-to guide for statistical analyses designed for undergraduates and others new to the subject. Written in an easy-going and clear style, the book uses policing data to illustrate concepts and includes a short narrative at the beginning of each chapter to engage readers. Easily identified Main Take-Aways and Key Terms features aid student understanding. Designed to combat the fear of mathematics and statistics often held by students in the social sciences, plain verbiage, multiple examples, and clear demonstrations combine to achieve the actualization and proper contextualized use of univariate and bivariate statistics.

The Borders of Violence

Temporary Migration and Domestic and Family Violence

Marie Segrave Monash University, Australia, Stefani Vasil

Series: Routledge Studies in Criminal Justice, Borders and Citizenship

The Borders of Violence advances contemporary research on domestic and family violence (DFV) by considering the role of the state and the migration system. It bridges different fields of scholarship to interrogate our knowledge about DFV and its impacts and improve our critical accounts of gender, structural violence and borders. This book will appeal to students and scholars of border criminology, criminology, sociology, politics, sociology, law and social policy. It offers key insights for professionals, policy makers, stakeholders and advocates working broadly to support temporary non-citizens and/or to address and eliminate violence against women.

The Politics of Crime, Punishment and Justice

Exploring the Lived Reality and Enduring Legacies of the 1980's Radical Right

Stephen Farrall , Emily Gray

This book explores the impact of right-wing political ideology on crime, the criminal justice system, and attitudes towards punishment in Britain. Grounded in a rigorous analysis of repeated cross-sectional surveys such as the British Social Attitudes Survey and the British Crime Survey, as well as individual-level cohort data such as the National Child Development Study 1958 and the British Cohort Study 1970, it examines changes in long-term crime rates, criminal justice policies and their integration with social and economic policies in Britain over three decades. It is essential reading for criminologists, political philosophers, and social theorists alike.

The United Nations Programme on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice

Matti Joutsen

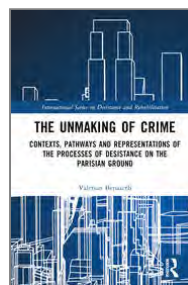

This book documents the evolution of the UN Crime Programme and its changing priorities, from the early focus on juvenile delinquency and correctional treatment, to the present preoccupation with transnational organized crime. It analyses what factors have contributed to this evolution, and to the shift from the original work on "soft law" resolutions and international standards, to "hard law" conventions, and to the expansion of technical assistance. It also examines the changing structure and working methods of the Programme, such as the UN Crime Commission and the UN Secretariat unit responsible for the Programme, the UN Crime Congresses, and the Programme Network Institutes.

The Unmaking of Crime

Contexts, Pathways and Representations of the Processes of Desistance on the Parisian Ground

Valerian Benazeth

Series: International Series on Desistance and Rehabilitation

The Unmaking of Crime documents the pathways of offenders reforming their journey and desisting from crime, and assesses the opportunities and limitations of the criminal justice system in aiding this process. Building on original qualitative research in Paris, the book considers a range of factors in the process of desistance, such as spheres of socialization, the role of stigma and the opportunities offered or denied after a time in a criminal lifestyle, and the relationship between those seeking to desist from crime and key institutions and resources.

True Crime and Women

Writers, Readers, and Representations

Edited by Lili Pâquet University of New England, Rosemary Williamson University of New England

Series: Routledge Studies in Crime, Culture and Media

Bringing new research from true crime writers, scholars, and media practitioners around the world, this book offers fresh perspectives on how women read, write, and are portrayed in true crime stories across different platforms, including documentaries, podcasts, and TikToks. The genre of true crime is flourishing, and it is overwhelmingly consumed by women. Despite this, there is much we do not know about how women consume true crime and are represented in true crime stories of various kinds.

Victims and Memory After Terrorism

Ana Milošević

Series: Victims, Culture and Society

This book contributes to the study of collective memory and the sociology of terrorism by analysing the role of memorialization in relation to terrorism, its victims, and the broader society. While various social scientists have extensively theorized and analysed how trauma and memory interact, grow apart, and reinforce each other, this book puts the rights and needs of the victims centre-stage. An accessible and compelling read, this book will appeal to students and scholars of victimology, criminology, sociology, politics and those interested in the relationship between collective memory and terrorism.

Researching Social Media with Children

#DigitalEthnography #Storytelling

Antonio Silva Esquinas Universidad Europea de Madrid, Jorge Ramiro Pérez Suárez Universidad Europea de Madrid, Raquel Rebeca Cordero Verdugo Universidad Europea de Madrid, Julio Díaz Galán Universidad Europea de Madrid

Reflecting upon the methodological issues involved in researching digital spaces with children, this book shares good practices and delves into the ethics of such research. Social media has completely redefined how children and young people relate to each other, express themselves and present their identities and sexualities. Yet researching social media can be a difficult and daunting task given the ephemerality of the content, its contextual hyperspecificity, the complex power relationships between users, celebrity culture, digital capitalism, and the ethical issues that arise from the reimagining of the public/private space.

Human Rights in Probation

Theory, Practice and Balance

Kyros Hadjisergis

Series: Routledge Frontiers of Criminal Justice

Exploring the application, theory, implications and socio-legal underpinnings of human rights in probation and associated offender management, this book examines the organisation and re-organization of the National Probation Service, from the introduction of the Human Rights Act (HRA) to the end of the Transforming Rehabilitation era. Outlining how the duties of probation officers are interpreted in light of the HRA, this book evaluates applicable case law as a means to exemplify and clarify the direct operation of human rights law in instances of potential human rights violations.

Neoliberalism and Punishment

Ignacio González-Sánchez The University of Girona

Series: Routledge Studies in Crime and Society

Exploring the expansion of the penal system in Spain during the first forty years of democracy, this book puts forward the importance of studying punishment from a sociological perspective and examines the neoliberal penalty thesis. Today, Spain has more police officers and more people in prison than fifty years ago, and a tougher penal code than that which existed at Franco's death; however, crime has not increased for three decades, while most of the hardening of the penal system has occurred after its stabilization.

University of Louisville, Kentucky, USA

This innovative text adapts the strategic management process to the police organizational environment, illustrating how to tailor responses to the unique problems and issues that professionals are likely to face in the field of law enforcement. Providing a foundation with which to adapt to an ever-changing criminal justice climate, this book trains leaders to search for solutions, rather than relying on old formulas and scientific management principles. It is an essential resource for forward-thinking police leadership courses in colleges and professional training programs.

Transformation During Incarceration

Breaking the System

Deanna Evans

Series: Innovations in Corrections

Transformation During Incarceration: Breaking the System moves beyond rehabilitative strategies in corrections to engage a more holistic understanding of the communal experiences behind prison walls. Using an indigenous research methodology analyzing memoirs of formerly incarcerated people, the book contextualizes and identifies the role of community and shared emotional connection among incarcerated people. This book is essential for scholars, practitioners, and students concerned with the transformative journey among the incarcerated population and for anyone engaged in higher education in prison or interested in constructive change of the prison system.

Dispute Resolution and Social Governance in Digital China

Jieren Hu

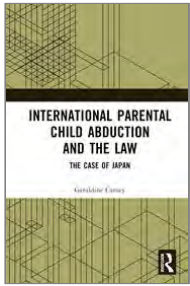

Based on in-depth field research conducted in China between 2019 and 2023, this book raises a concept of "rightful control" and demonstrates a new means of dispute resolution used by the Chinese Communist Party (CCP) through digital technology and its impact on state-society relations. The study provides a new dimension to state-society relations in China from the perspective of digital governance under Xi Jinping's rule. It will attract students and researchers studying law, political science and sociology, and government personnel who focus on the digital governance in authoritarian countries.

International Parental Child Abduction and the Law

The Case of Japan

Geraldine Carney

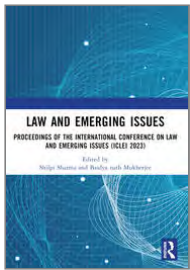

This book examines why Japan has faced scrutiny for failing to properly address international parental child abduction involving its citizens, its response, and how it might manage these disputes in the future. Through case studies, it explores how Japan engages with international legal frameworks to manage international parental child abduction and what this means for Japanese people. It considers how the Hague Convention of 25 October 1980 on the Civil Aspects of International Child Abduction has fared since its 2014 introduction in Japan. It will be a useful resource for students of Japanese Studies, Sociolegal Studies, Comparative Law and International Law.

Commercial and Arbitration Law of the Digital Economy

A Comparison of Asian, European and North American Jurisdictions

Robert Walters Victoria University, Australia

This book discusses the importance of the digital economy and its most pressing challenge: the onset of quantum and critical technology. It looks at how its implementation, either on its own or coupled with artificial intelligence, impacts commercial and arbitration law. Walters argues that it is necessary to establish a principles-based approach to governing the development and use of these technologies. A useful reference for governments, regulators, legal, technologists and policy experts. Also of interest to scholars looking at personal and commercial data in relation to intellectual property, contracts and international commercial arbitration law.

Digital Currencies and Public Law

History, Constitutionalism and the Revolutionary Nature of Money

Andrew Dahdal Qatar University, Qatar

This book supports the deeper engagement of public lawyers in digital currency developments which threaten dramatic changes in the relationship between individuals and government authorities. The volume proceeds from the proposition that 'money' is best conceived as a constitutional phenomenon. When seen as such, it becomes clear that changes in the nature of money represent changes in political and constitutional arrangements. Explaining how, and in what ways, those changes will take place is the primary focus of this book. It will be of interest to students, academics and practitioners with an interest in the law of digital currencies, constitutional law and politics.

Medical Malpractice Legislation

Reforms in Civil Law Systems

Carlo Maria Masieri

Series: Young Feltrinelli Prize in the Moral Sciences

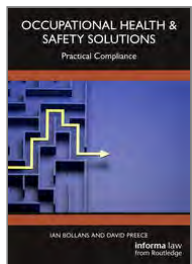

This book aims to analyse the legal tools that the legislatures of France, Germany and Italy adopted in order to regulate medical malpractice. In the mid-1970s, a reform movement started in the United States, where there was concern about then ongoing medical malpractice crises. Since the start of the 20th century, France, Germany and Italy have passed statutes that aim to reform medical liability rules. Thus, it is interesting to assess whether any medical malpractice crises have been identified in these systems and how these have been faced through the passing of new statutes on the Continent. This work may interest legal scholars, healthcare providers, insurers and policymakers.

Platform Neutrality Rights

AI Censors and the Future of Freedom

Hannibal Travis Florida International University, USA

Series: Routledge Research in Information Technology and E-Commerce Law

This book analyses questions of platform bias, algorithmic filtering and ranking of Internet speech, and declining perceptions of online freedom. Arguing that the problem of platform neutrality is similar to the net neutrality problem, it discusses the assault on freedom of speech that emerges from public-private partnerships. Discussing artificial intelligence (AI) regulation, the book also explores overlaps between European and U.S. efforts to limit algorithmic censorship or "shadow-banning". This volume will be of interest to students and scholars in the field of cyberlaw, the law of emerging technologies and artificial intelligence.

Routledge Handbook of Consumer Protection and Behaviour in Energy Markets

Edited by Tina Soliman Hunter, Marcin Kraśniewski, Jurgita Malinauskaitė, Marzena Czarnecka

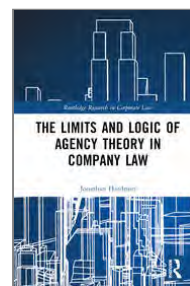

Series: Routledge Handbooks in Law

The Routledge Handbook of Consumer Protection and Behaviour in Energy Markets provides a comprehensive study of consumer protection and consumer behaviour in selected jurisdictions worldwide. Each chapter is written by experts and provides a contemporary overview of national consumer protection and policy developments in the energy sector. Given that the energy market has a specific, technical nature, the book analyses the energy market within the scope of free market principles, with a focus on the protection of the weaker party to the contract: the consumer. The book will be an essential reference for students, academics and policy makers.

The Limits and Logic of Agency Theory in Company Law

Jonathan Hardman

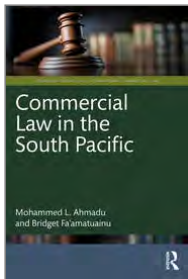

Series: Routledge Research in Corporate Law

Agency theory is ubiquitous in company law. This book explores (a) the limits of such deployment, and (b) the logic of how to deploy it. The volume argues that agency theory has become so broad that it can be used to analyse most human relationships and that we need to differentiate more specific concepts with clearer legal implications. It then moves on to argue that we need to factor in the company, only apply agency theory to voluntary interactions, and foreground our value judgments when identifying agency relations to do it properly. This book will be of interest to academics, students and researchers of corporate and company law.

Global Contract Law in the Middle East and North Africa

Public Law Constraints

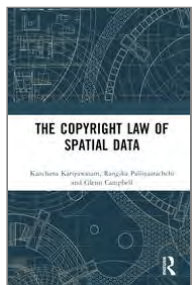

Mohamed Ismail

This book comprehensively covers the interplay between cultural and legal globalization and the impact this has on contract law, with a particular focus on state contracts within the MENA region. The book discusses the roles assumed by Supreme Courts in Egypt and MENA countries in creating unified principles of international contract law in states' contracts which are consistent with international commercial contracts' principles. It makes a powerful argument for further harmonisation of contract law in the area. The volume will be of interest to students and scholars in the field of international contract law, public law and international law in Egypt and MENA countries.

Defamation and the Right to Freedom of Speech

The UK in Comparative Perspective

Mariette Jones

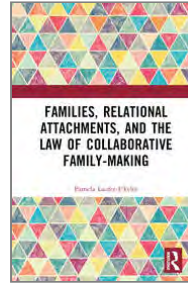

Series: Routledge Research in Human Rights Law

Through a comparative analysis of relevant law in the United States of America, Germany and the European Court of Human Rights, this book evaluates the success of the attempt by the UK Parliament to fundamentally transform English libel law through the Defamation Act 2013. It examines why it was deemed necessary to reform the common law of defamation in England and Wales, the changes wrought by the act, and the case law it has engendered. The book also takes a broad comparative look at the way in which other relevant jurisdictions attempt to balance reputational protection and free speech. It will be essential reading for those working in the areas of Human Rights Law and Media Law.

Families, Relational Attachments, and the Law of Collaborative Family-Making

Pamela Laufer-Ukeles

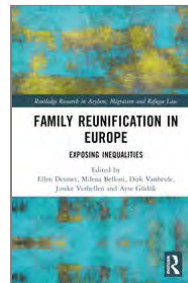

Pointing to a range of legal dilemmas and ethical concerns, this book sets forth a crisis at the heart of modern family law's treatment of collaborative family-making: gamete contributions, surrogate motherhood, adoption, functional parenthood, foster care, and kin caregiving. It challenges the law to account for relational realities that fail to conform to neat legal categories. It introduces a bold new legal framework of interconnection and guides the reader in implementing practical legal and contractual changes. The volume provides accessible insight into families and family law for legal practitioners, academics, students and laypersons interested in family-making collaboration.

Minority Rights and Social Change

Norms, Actors and Strategies

Edited by Kyriaki Topidi, Eugenia Relaño Pastor

Series: Routledge Advances in Minority Studies

This book problematizes how collective identities are not structurally guaranteed but rather constructed in dialectically interrelated positions and identity layers. It shows the impact these processes can, or fail to, have on minority norms, actors and strategies. It reflects Global North and Global South perspectives and examines the role of race and ethnicity, culture or religion in social mobilization toward social change. It offers global insight on actor and strategy attempts to foster social change through the use and interpretation of minority rights as norms. It will be of interest to those researching minority rights within Law, Anthropology, Sociology and Political Science.

A European Perspective

Edited by Jelle Creemers Research Assistant at the Evangelische Theologische Faculteit, Leuven, Belgium.,
Tatiana Kopaleishvili

Series: ICLARS Series on Law and Religion

The impact of the COVID-19 pandemic will be a topic for academic research for years to come. This collection brings together international scholars from various disciplines to analyse the impact of the pandemic on both religious freedom and on religious community life in Europe. In sum, the volume probes and challenges scholars and students of law, religion, politics and sociology to go beyond the typical oppositions in considering Freedom of Religious Belief in the current secular European context. The work will be a valuable resource for academics, researchers and policy-makers working in the areas of Law and Religion, Human Rights Law, Sociology and Political Science.

Surveillance Law, Data Retention and Human Rights

A Risk to Democracy

Matthew White

Series: Routledge Research in Human Rights Law

This book analyses the compatibility of data retention in the UK with the European Convention on Human Rights (ECHR). The work provides an account of democracy and why secret surveillance poses a threat to it. It assesses the seriousness that data retention poses to fundamental rights, the collection of rights affected by data retention, the implications of who can be obligated to retain (and what to retain), the idea that data retention is a form of surveillance and, ultimately, whether this is compatible with the ECHR. The work will be an invaluable resource for students, academics, researchers and policy-makers working in the areas of privacy, human rights law and surveillance.

The Incoherence of Human Rights in International Law

Absence, Emergence and Limitations

Edited by Louisa Ashley, Nicolette Butler

Series: Human Rights and International Law

Incoherence is a term that is all too often associated with the public international law regime. To a great extent, its incoherence is arguably a natural consequence of the fragmented nature of both the development and overall scope of the discipline. This book explores this incoherent approach to human rights, including specific challenges that arise as a result of the creation and regulation of legal relationships between parties (state and non-state) that sit outside of the human rights framework, with a view to considering how it may be remedied.

Digitization, Copyright and the Law

Copyleft and the Future of Intellectual Property

Ettore M. Lombardi

Series: Routledge Research in Intellectual Property

This book discusses copyleft and its impact on the traditional way to conceive of property. It is specifically focused on the European and International juridical framework. Analysing the impact of digitalization on copyright and the potential effect of copyleft in the European market and within a European and International juridical framework, this volume explores the complex evolutionary framework which charts the reduction of physical property and the progressive expansion of intangible assets. The book will be of interest to students, academics and practitioners with an interest in Contract Law, Property Law and Intellectual Property Law.

Intentional Destruction of Cultural Heritage and the Law

A Research Companion

Edited by Alberta Fabbriotti

Series: Routledge Studies in Cultural Heritage and International Law

The widespread dissemination of videos of the destruction of world cultural heritage sites over the past two decades, such as the Buddhas of Bamiyan and the ancient Syrian city of Palmyra, have shocked the world. These acts are perhaps the clearest and most glaring examples of what is meant by the 'Intentional Destruction of the Cultural Heritage of Humankind' (IDCHH). The book explores in detail the remedies against IDCHH available under international law. This book is essential reading for students, academics and practitioners exploring international law and the destruction of cultural heritage.

International Sanctions in Practice

An Interdisciplinary Perspective

Edited by Antonio Bultrini, Francesco Giumelli, Clara Portela, Mirko Sossai

Series: Routledge-Giappichelli Studies in Law

This book assembles contributions from various fields to address key aspects in the use of international sanctions, providing readers with an interdisciplinary perspective. Each part of the book is devoted to three main themes: legality and legitimacy; extraterritorial implications; and effectiveness. It explores the legal basis of sanctions and how this impacts their legitimacy. It considers the complex implications of the extraterritorial effects that sanctions often produce, and how effective they are in relation to different underlying aims. The work invites scholars, experts and decision-makers to adopt an interdisciplinary approach that can no longer be eluded.

Science, Technology, Policy and International Law

Edited by Justo Corti Varela, Paolo Davide Farah

Series: Transnational Law and Governance

This book presents innovative insights into the intersections between science, technology and society, and their regulation by the law. Departing from the idea that law and science have similar methods and objectives, the book deals with problems and solutions that source from these interactions. Building on a functionalist and comparatist approach, it explores how best to integrate law, science and technology in policy-making. It reviews the current attempts made at transnational and international levels. Case studies complement a solid theoretical framework, providing readers with tools for thinking critically around the relationships among science, technology, society and law.

The Evolution of International Criminal Procedure

From Nuremberg and Tokyo to the International Criminal Court

Giovanni Chiarini

Series: Routledge Studies in Law, Rights and Justice

This book examines the evolution of international criminal procedure from the 1945–1946 Nuremberg and Tokyo trials to the present period. It shows the possibility of classifying “International Criminal Procedure” as an autonomous concept and field of study, which is constantly evolving due to the interaction of different legal cultures that characterize this subject matter and is derived from the varied procedures as established in both statutory law and jurisprudence. The book will be of interest to academics, scholars and researchers in International Criminal Law, Comparative Law, Criminal Procedure and Legal History, as well as judges and international legal professionals.

Arbitration Clauses in Maritime Contracts

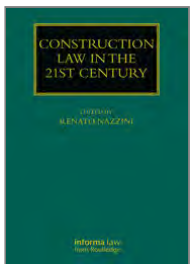

Eleni Magklasi

Arbitration clauses are sacrosanct in maritime contracts. Standard forms of charterparties and bills of lading reflect a desire to trade over the trusted dispute resolution choice of arbitration. However, when incorporating arbitration clauses, disputes and interpretational complexities continue to arise evidencing that the law is not settled yet. This book introduces a holistic evaluation of the commercial reasons and the legal principles that permeate the incorporation of arbitration clauses in modern maritime contracts, contrasting arbitration with exclusive jurisdiction clauses, where appropriate.

3RD EDITION

The Law of Ship Mortgages

David Osborne, Charles Buss, Joanne Champkins

Series: Lloyd's Shipping Law Library

This fully updated and comprehensive 3rd edition of The Law of Ship Mortgages provides readers with a practical, commercially based and definitive guide to the English law of ship mortgages. Written primarily with practitioners in mind, The Law of Ship Mortgages will continue to be extremely useful to legal professionals, especially in common law jurisdictions, involved in international ship finance or ship mortgage enforcement. It will also be a valuable resource for postgraduate students and academics, especially those with an interest in shipping law or the law of personal property more generally.

Act and Omission in Criminal Law

Autonomy, Morality and Applications to Euthanasia

Roni Rosenberg

Series: Routledge Research in Legal Philosophy

The significance of this book is threefold: First, it offers a comprehensive, coherent, and systematic discussion of the intersections between the philosophical-moral and the legal-criminal aspects of this fundamental topic. Second, it offers a novel rationale for the distinction between acts and omissions, based on the principle of autonomy. Finally, it demonstrates the influences of the theoretical discussion, on the most significant practical questions. This book will be of interest to researchers, academics and policy-makers working in the areas of Criminal Law, Moral Philosophy and Bioethics.

Culture, Secularization, and Democracy

Lessons from Alexis de Tocqueville

Edited by Sophie van Bijsterveld, Hans-Martien ten Napel

Series: ICLARS Series on Law and Religion

Following the approach developed by Alexis de Tocqueville, this volume views democracy as a cultural phenomenon. It starts from the assumption that if we are to adequately address concerns about the current state and future of modern Western democracies, we need first to tackle the cultural preconditions necessary for the functioning of a democracy. The book will be of interest to academics and researchers working in the areas of Law and Religion, Constitutional Law, Political Science, History and Philosophy.

Human Dignity, Religion and the Law

Pluralism and Reasonable Accommodation of Religious Practices

Edited by Mark Hill KC, María-José Valero-Estarellas

Series: ICLARS Series on Law and Religion

This work addresses the shift from the monolithic influence of major world religions in the past towards religious pluralism and the increased secularism of society. It explores how the deployment of a nuanced understanding of human dignity can maximise religious liberty within liberal democracies. It offers fresh insights and analysis contributing to a picture of governments in liberal democracies being encouraged and enabled to foster laws and practices whereby pluralism is encouraged and human dignity can flourish. It will be of interest to academics, researchers and policy-makers in the areas of Law and Religion, Human Rights Law, Constitutional Law and International Relations.

Leading Works in Law and Anthropology

Edited by Alice Margaria Max Planck Institute for Social Anthropology, Germany, Larissa Vettters Max Planck Institute for Social Anthropology, Germany

Series: Analysing Leading Works in Law

This collection offers a unique, multi-perspectival reconsideration of the intellectual history of the disciplines of law and sociocultural anthropology. Established and emerging scholars discuss and reflect upon what they consider to be a 'leading work' in the field. They shed light on the changing nature of cross-disciplinary research and collaboration, trace how disciplinary understandings of normativity have cross-fertilized each other, and reflect on choices taken within research on law and anthropology through theoretical reflection, critique, engagement and practical application. The book will make fascinating reading for researchers and academics in both law and anthropology.

Populism, Artificial Intelligence and Law

A New Understanding of the Dynamics of the Present

David Grant

This book argues that the current analysis of anti-Constitutional populism is focused too narrowly and that, due to an obscured complex of dynamics that has shaped the history of the West since its inception and which remains active today, we do not understand the present. This complex explains current disruptions across contemporary religion, politics, economics and emerging artificial intelligence. With a forensic examination of the root causes of these disruptions, the work provides a toolbox of ideas to confront these challenges. The book will be fascinating for academics and researchers in Socio-legal Studies, Legal Philosophy, Political Science, Theology, AI and Neuroscience.

Total Lawfare

New Defense and Lessons from China's Unrestricted Lawfare Program

Patrick S. Nash, Deniz Guzel

This book advocates for a novel doctrine of 'total lawfare' as part of a comprehensive approach to modern hybrid warfare. It provides a comparative case study and strategic threat assessment of the Chinese concept of 'unrestricted lawfare'. Against this, the book grounds an ethical doctrine of 'total lawfare' within the Western jurisprudential tradition and translates this into practice as a key pillar of modern defense strategy under the rule of law. This volume will be of interest to academics, policy-makers and students working in the field of lawfare, jurisprudence and military law.

Law and Cognitive Linguistics

A Prototype Theory Approach to Legal Categorisation

Mateusz Zeifert

Series: Law, Language and Communication

Bridging cognitive linguistics and legal theory, this book argues that categorisation is a crucial cognitive operation for the application of law and that theories of categorisation are relevant to legal theory. It makes the case that the prototype approach is better suited than more formal approaches usually utilised in jurisprudence to explaining many familiar linguistic problems found in law, such as vagueness, polysemy, the flexibility of meaning, the generality of language, context-dependence of meaning, and linguistic indeterminacy. It will be a valuable resource for academics and researchers in the areas of Law and Language, Legal Theory, Legal Philosophy and Legal Linguistics.

Economic Sanctions under International Law

Trade Continuity with Special Purpose Vehicles

Edited by P. Sean Morris University of Helsinki, Finland

The effects of US secondary sanctions are broad and often designed to cripple the target country's economy. Some states have sought to avoid these sanctions by setting up a special purpose vehicle to facilitate trade with the sanctioned country on humanitarian grounds. This volume identifies and examines the legal issues that a special purpose vehicle generates. The collection brings together legal academics, sanctions practitioners and policy experts to provide an assessment of the special purpose vehicle in the context of secondary sanctions in international law. It will be of interest to researchers and academics in International law, Security law, Economic law and Comparative law.

Human Dignity, Judicial Reasoning, and the Law

Comparative Perspectives on a Key Constitutional Concept

Edited by Brett G. Scharffs, Andrea Pin University of Padua, Italy, Dmytro Vovk

Series: Routledge Research in Legal Philosophy

This book tracks the use of the concept of human dignity in national and international courts. It identifies how human-dignity-based arguments have expanded to cover broader cases, from the right to life or to integrity or anti-discrimination, where judges understand, interpret, and apply human dignity differently. The book will appeal to philosophers of law, constitutional theorists and lawyers, legal comparativists, and internal law specialists. Touching on many aspects of judiciary, it will also appeal to researchers in legal reasoning, interpretation and application of the law and courts, social philosophers, political scientists, and sociologists of law, politics, and religion.

Leading Works in Public Law

Edited by Patrick O'Brien, Ben Yong

Series: Analysing Leading Works in Law

Over thirteen chapters, a group of leading public law experts each examine one leading work from the UK public law canon. Each chapter critically reflects on the context of a work in public law, taking into account not just the work and its context, but also how it shapes and contributes to the broader discipline. The final chapter offers an international overview of the chapters themselves, reflecting critically on the scholarly canon of UK public law from the perspective of American constitutional scholarship. The book will be of interest to scholars and students of constitutional law.

Private Law and Competition Regulation

A Comparative Study

Alberto Brown

Series: Routledge Research in Competition Law

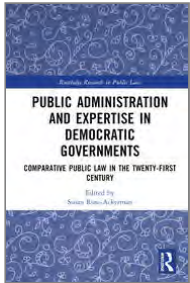

This book explores the distinction between private and public aspects in competition law and focuses on how the concept of competition is incorporated into the legal framework. Distinguishing between antitrust regulations and competition-related legal rules in private law, such as unfair competition and contract laws, the book also differentiates between the utilitarian and deontological principles that underpin competition regulation. This historical and philosophical approach is used to compare two influential jurisdictions: England and Spain. The book will be of interest to students and scholars in the field of competition law, tort law and legal history.

Public Administration and Expertise in Democratic Governments

Comparative Public Law in the Twenty-First Century

Edited by Susan Rose-Ackerman

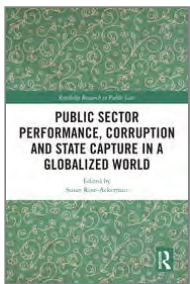

Series: Routledge Research in Public Law

This work explores challenges confronting public law and public administration in twenty-first century democracies across the world. It emphasizes the importance of justifying executive policymaking to citizens and of drawing on bureaucratic expertise and professional competence. It examines the role of courts and argues for new forms of public participation that incorporate democratic values into executive-branch policymaking. The book compares the US with other leading democracies like Germany, France, the EU, Canada and Latin America. Supermajority Voting in Constitutional Courts

The Problem of Majority Rule for Democracy and Legislation

Cristóbal Cavedes

Series: Comparative Constitutional Change

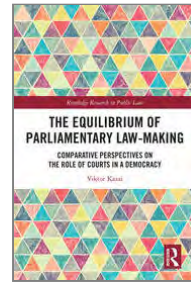

This book argues that majority rule is unjustified in constitutional review. This means that, in constitutional review, considering majority rule's traits, there are no decisive reasons for using this voting rule over other voting rules. Additionally, the book argues that, when checking the constitutionality of legislation, constitutional courts should replace majority rule with supermajority rules. Thus, for declaring statutes unconstitutional, it is argued that more than 50% of the judges present plus one judge present should be needed. This book will be of interest to academics, researchers, and policy-makers working in the areas of Constitutional Law and Politics.

The Equilibrium of Parliamentary Law-making

Comparative Perspectives on the Role of Courts in a Democracy

Viktor Kazai Institute for European Studies, Université libre de Bruxelles

Series: Routledge Research in Public Law

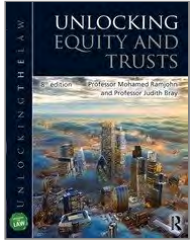

This work investigates the constitutional significance of the irregularities of parliamentary law-making and explores the role that courts play in the remedy of these flaws. It places the judicial review of the regulation and the practice of parliamentary law-making at its centre and discusses the relevant legal concepts, institutions and doctrines. It combines theoretical analysis with case-law-centered comparative research covering a large number of decisions by apex courts in various jurisdictions. The book contributes to scholarly discourse and provides useful information to lawyers and policy makers working in the areas of Constitutional Law and Politics and Comparative Law.

Edited by Marie-Claire Foblets, Maria Sapignoli, Brian Donahoe

Series: Law and Anthropology

This book draws on cases of collaboration between anthropologists and legal practitioners to critically assess the use of anthropological expertise in a variety of legal contexts from the point of view of the anthropologist as well as of the legal practitioner. Designed to bridge the gap between theory and practice, the book will appeal to scholars and researchers engaged in anthropology, legal anthropology, socio-legal studies, and asylum and migration law. It will also be of interest to legal practitioners and applied social scientists, who can glean valuable lessons regarding the challenges and rewards of genuine collaboration between legal practitioners and social scientists.

Legal Education for Wellbeing

Design, Delivery and Evaluation

Edited by Emma Jones University of Sheffield, Caroline Stevens

This book aims to assist legal educators and law schools in integrating wellbeing within the design and delivery of the legal curriculum. The contributions to this volume each focus upon different aspects of wellbeing and the curriculum, including the applications of vulnerability and social identity theory, the role of transitions and inductions, the implementation and evaluation of law school wellbeing initiatives, reflections on both the Socratic method and assessment, the results of a longitudinal student study and a consideration of the legal profession's perspective. This book was originally published as a special issue of The Law Teacher.

Sharia as Informal Law

Lived Experiences of Young Muslims in Western Societies

Ihsan Yilmaz

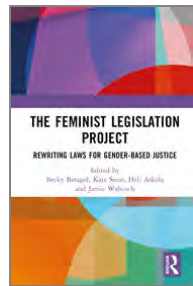

This book investigates how Sharia influences and manifests in the everyday lives of Muslims, unraveling the meaning and relevance of Sharia-driven laws and practices in English-speaking Western societies. It draws on interviews with 122 young Muslim individuals from Australia, the United States, and the United Kingdom, showing a diversity of opinions, interpretations, and practices. The book also explores how young Muslims seek and access knowledge in the present day, considering the impact on religious practices and beliefs. It will be fascinating reading for academics, researchers and policy-makers in Law, Political Science, Minority Studies, Religious Studies and Islamic Studies.

The Routledge Handbook of Cultural Legal Studies

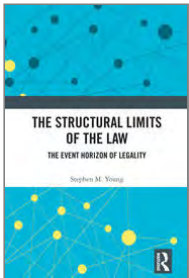

Edited by Karen Crawley, Thomas Giddens St Mary's University College, Twickenham, UK, Timothy D. Peters University of the Sunshine Coast, Australia.

This handbook provides a comprehensive introduction to the cutting-edge field of cultural legal studies. Establishing the significance of the cultural for understanding law, as well as its importance as a potential site for justice, community, and sociality in the world today, this handbook is a key reference point both for those working in the cultural legal context – in legal theory, law and literature, law and film/television, law and aesthetics, cultural studies, and the humanities generally – as well as others interested in the interactions between authority, culture, and meaning.

The Structural Limits of the Law

The Event Horizon of Legality

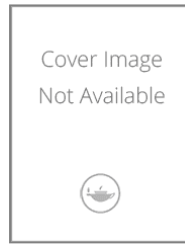

Stephen M. Young

This book examines how, in response to crises, law tends to construct singular 'events' that obscure the underlying structural causes that any adequate response needs to acknowledge and to address. This original analysis of the operation of law will appeal to sociolegal scholars and legal theorists, as well as others working in relevant areas in critical and social theory.

Vulnerability and the Organisation of Academic Labour

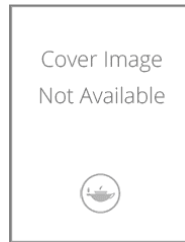

Edited by Graham Ferris, Martha Albertson Fineman

Vulnerability theory identifies structural and institutional factors that build or undermine the resilience of individuals and organisations. This volume uses vulnerability theory to explore how the organisation of the teaching and research activities of universities impact the resilience of academics and also how these activities themselves are impacted by contemporary developments in universities and educational policy. This book was originally published as a special issue of The Law Teacher.

Women Judges

Appointments, Career Chances and Barriers

Edited by Ulrike Schultz, Masengu Tabeth, Avrom Sherr University of London, UK

This book delves into the different aspects of women at work in the judicial environment, focusing on judicial appointments, promotions, the glass ceiling and representation in high positions of the judiciary across international settings such as Nigeria, South Africa, Philippines, Turkey, Spain, and Northern Ireland. The book offers valuable insights by questioning and criticising the status quo, paving the way to a gender equal future in the judiciary. A significant new contribution to international scholarship in the field, this book was originally published as a special issue of the International Journal of the Legal Profession.
