American Constitutional Law

Introductory Essays and Selected Cases

Donald Grier Stephenson Jr. , Alpheus Thomas Mason Princeton University

This book is a collection of comprehensive background essays coupled with carefully edited Supreme Court case excerpts designed to explore constitutional law and the role of the Supreme Court in its development and interpretation. Well-grounded in both theory and politics, the book endeavors to heighten students' understanding of this critical part of the American political system.

Dominican American Politics

Immigrants, Activists, and Politicians

Jacqueline Jiménez Polanco Bronx Community College, USA

Series: Routledge Research in American Politics and Governance

In this book, Jacqueline Jiménez Polanco examines the politics of empowerment of Dominican Americans in the United States. Covering the first two decades of the twenty-first century, Jiménez Polanco provides a new perspective on the political development of an ethnic community that has been neglected in the studies of Latinx political development and whose characteristics represent a paradigmatic case that debunks theories about immigrant communities' participation and representation in U.S. electoral politics. Dominican American Politics: Immigrants, Activists, and Politicians serves as a perfect companion for courses on Latinx and Dominican studies, and U.S. ethnic politics.

Pink Tides, Right Turns in Latin America

Edited by Charmain Levy University of Quebec in Outaouais, Canada, Manuel Larrabure Bucknell University, USA

Series: Rethinking Globalizations

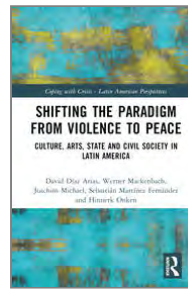

This book presents case studies around issues of national development, right wing populism and use of social media, left wing authoritarianism and popular uprisings as well as reflections on short and long term political and economic cycles in Latin America in the past 10 years. The chapters in this volume approach the topic of Latin American right and Left forces by attempting to determine whether a new and potentially long-term political cycle is unfolding in the region. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Globalizations.

Peace in Latin America

Shifting Paradigms in the Studies of Culture, Society and Politics

David Díaz Arias , Christine Hatzky , Werner Mackenbach , Joachim Michael Bielefeld University, Germany, Sebastián Martínez Fernández , Hinnerk Onken

Series: Coping with Crisis - Latin American Perspectives

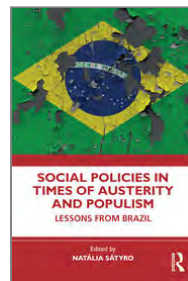

This volume shifts the focus from violence to peace studies in Latin America, and sheds light on how social groups and individuals resist to violence and strive to create peaceful or at least less violent conditions of conviviality. Drawing on social sciences, history, and anthropology, the book examines the responses to the crisis of violence which the state is unable or unwilling to address. Peace Studies in Latin America is written for a wide and diverse audience that includes researchers, professors, specialists, students, civil society activists, and political actors not only from Latin America but from all over the world.

Social Policies in Times of Austerity and Populism

Lessons from Brazil

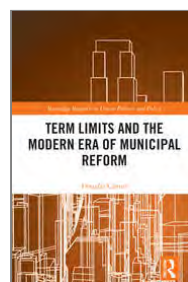

Edited by Natália Sátyro

Featuring the latest research by Brazilian-based scholars previously inaccessible to an English-speaking audience, this book is a timely, authoritative, multidisciplinary overview of social policies in Brazil during the Bolsonaro populist presidency. The breadth of policies studied herein provides clues on the political agenda, preferences, and strategies during this tumultuous period in Brazil's history. Social Policies in Times of Populism and Austerity is unhesitatingly recommended to all those who teach welfare state politics, comparative public policy, development studies, Brazilian politics, and right-wing politics.

Term Limits and the Modern Era of Municipal Reform

Douglas Cantor

Series: Routledge Research in Urban Politics and Policy

In this book, Douglas Cantor exposes the causes of term limits at the local level of government to shed light on how and why the movement to adopt term limits came to exist. Written to a common template and examining each case through the lens of Progressive values, Cantor argues that the institutional lineage of the Progressives, namely council-manager governments, at-large elections, and nonpartisanship are largely responsible for movements to implement term limits somewhere in the United States in almost every election.

The Architects of Toxic Politics in America

Venom and Vitriol

Kenneth T. Walsh

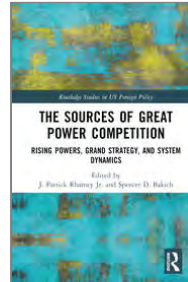

The Architects of Toxic Politics in America: Venom and Vitriol explains the history of poison politics in America by profiling some of the key political "attack dogs" who have shaped the modern landscape. Discussing the Trump and Biden presidencies and administrations of the past, the book demonstrates the toxicity of the current political moment and the forces that have created it. Additionally, the book also focuses quite extensively on "non-presidential" architects of toxic politics: other politicians, campaign strategists, activists, and media figures.

The Sources of Great Power Competition

Rising Powers, Grand Strategy, and System Dynamics

Edited by J. Patrick Rhamey Jr. Virginia Military Institute, USA, Spencer D. Bakich Virginia Military Institute, USA

Series: Routledge Studies in US Foreign Policy

This volume explores the determinants of state power, the strategic options of rising powers, the drivers of conflict in dynamic international systems, and American grand strategy past and present to achieve a more comprehensive understanding of the current era of great power competition. Leveraging insights from international relations, history, economics, and political demography, it offers rich perspectives on the competition among newly rising powers and long-dominant leaders in the international system. The book presents novel theories and innovative empirical investigations into the economic and demographic challenges confronting rising powers.

China in the Mediterranean

An Arena of Strategic Competition?

Edited by Emilie Tran Hong Kong Metropolitan University, Yahia Zoubir KEDGE Business School, Marseille, France
Series: Routledge Studies in Mediterranean Politics

This scholarly book provides a timely examination of China's growing influence in the Mediterranean region. It uses role theory as the theoretical framework throughout, exploring the escalating tensions in the Mediterranean, where a complex triangular relationship seems to have emerged, largely due to China's expanding presence on both the Southern and Northern shores. The volume scrutinizes how the evolving interactions between China and the Mediterranean states elucidate the progression of Sino-Southern Mediterranean relations and Sino-Northern Mediterranean relations. The chapters in this book were initially published as a special issue of Mediterranean Politics.

Issues of Political Marketing

East European Perspective

Edited by Miloš Gregor, Otto Eibl, Bruce I. Newman
DePaul University, USA

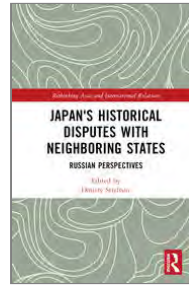

Examining the evolution of political marketing in Central and Eastern Europe, this book delivers a snapshot into both the sophistication of campaign strategies and the triumphs and trials facing democratic progress in this increasingly complex political landscape. It focuses on political campaign professionalization in general and in TV spots, celebrityization, struggles of opposition in authoritarian regime, if Facebook can serve as an effective political marketing tool in an illiberal context, and the communication and campaigning of authoritarian presidents in a hybrid regime. The chapters were originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Political Marketing.

Japan's Historical Disputes with Neighboring States

Russian Perspectives

Edited by Dmitry Streltsov

Series: Rethinking Asia and International Relations

This book examines Japan's relationships with China, Russia, the states of the Korean Peninsula, and Taiwan. Analyzing key points of conflict, their roots, and current relations, it highlights their significance for each country. Avoiding a focus on sensitive issues of the historical past per se, it provides a Russian perspective on their impact in Japan and neighboring states, their place in the domestic political discourse, the image of modern Japan in the eyes of political elites and the public and assesses the prospects for improving unfavorable mutual perceptions.

Routledge Handbook of Chinese and Eurasian International Relations

Edited by Mher Sahakyan China-Eurasia Council for Political and Strategic Research, Armenia

The Routledge Handbook of Chinese and Eurasian International Relations explores China's relations with the Eurasian continent's regions and countries in a multipolar era, providing an equal and in a balanced platform for scholars and practitioners from East, West, North, and South. This diversity enriches the contribution, giving it a dynamic ability to examine sources in different languages and cover a vast geographic region. Divided into ten parts, the book analyses the major powers in a multipolar world order, China's political and economic interests in Post-Soviet Eurasia, Middle East, Europe, Asia-Pacific, Arctic, and its relations with the Eurasian Economic Union and NATO.

Routledge Handbook on Global China

Edited by Maximilian Mayer, Emilian Kavalski Jagiellonian University, Poland, Marina Rudyak, Xin Zhang

This innovative Routledge Handbook sheds light on the complex and transformative nature of Global China, prompting a re-evaluation of existing theories on global and regional dynamics. It encourages theoretical innovation, methodological reflection, and analytical transformation, providing new avenues for critical engagement with China's global interactions. The chapters propose three key commitments for the study of Global China: advocating for diverse viewpoints and non-binary frameworks, employing nuanced analysis to understand Beijing's transnational relations, and utilizing alternative methodological approaches to explore different trajectories for China in international affairs.

Is There Such a Thing as Populism?

3 Provocations and 5 1/2 Proposals

Benjamin Arditì

Series: Conceptualising Comparative Politics

Is There Such a Thing as Populism? calls into question our common understanding of populism. Structured as a set of polemical interventions and theoretical proposals, Arditì addresses key theoretical, methodological, and comparative questions in the study of populism. Five subject experts, Nadia Urbinati, José Luis Villacañas, Carlos de la Torre, Anthoula Malkopoulou, and Anthony Spanakos, react to Arditì's theses in captivating conversations on how to study populism and the way in which populism has been used in contemporary comparative analysis. Refreshing and thought-provoking, this book is the ideal departure for the exploration of this diverse and fascinating political movement.

Pandemic-Era Civil Disorder in Post-Communist EU Member States

Joanna Rak Adam Mickiewicz University, Poland

Series: Routledge Research in Comparative Politics

In this book, Joanna Rak advances a middle-range theory to better explain the sources of civil disorder in one of the pandemic-ridden regions of the European Union, the post-communist states. Supported by systematic empirical evidence of protest policing in the region, Rak delves analytically into conditions of civil disorder in each state to test the hypotheses and offer an explanation. Pandemic-Era Civil Disorder in Post-Communist EU Member States offers a thought-provoking understanding of civil order and democratic struggles in the region and will interest students and researchers of comparative politics, contentious politics, democratic theory, civil society, and post-communism.

The Making of China's Working Class

A World to Lose

Marc Blecher

Series: Conceptualising Comparative Politics

The Making of China's Working Class: A World to Lose asks these three questions: what kind of class is the Chinese working class?; what are the historical forces and processes that have formed it?; and how does the pattern of class formation help explain the working class's reactions historically, presently, and even prospectively? Blecher offers a contribution not just to scholarship on Chinese labor politics, but on the country's politics and the state's hegemony more widely. The Making of China's Working Class is an outstanding resource for educators and students to understand Chinese politics and comparative working-class politics.

British and American Electoral Politics in the Age of Neoliberalism

Parallel Trajectories

Gerald Sussman Portland State University, USA

Series: Routledge Research in Comparative Politics

This book employs a political economic approach in exploring the underlying neoliberal foundations of politics and electioneering in both the USA and United Kingdom that have widened the divide among voters and, over time, led to a deep distrust of state institutions, including electoral politics and system of political representation. It will be of key interest to scholars and students of electoral politics, political parties, political behaviour, British politics, U.S. politics and more broadly to readers interested in political economy and comparative politics.

Democratic Backsliding in Post-Mubarak Egypt

Arshad Indian council of world affairs, India

Arshad examines the phenomenon of 'democratic backsliding' in post-2011 Egypt. Capturing a critical juncture in Egyptian politics, this book explains the failure of Egypt's nascent democratic experiment and its relapse into authoritarianism. Egypt is the crucial playbook to understand the reversal of a country towards an authoritarian regime and what measures state and non-state actors should employ to prevent backsliding. A valuable resource for scholars who are interested in democratization, authoritarian regimes, military leadership, political protests, and political leadership.

From 'Carbon Democracy' to 'Climate Democracy'?

Edited by James Goodman University of Technology Sydney, Australia, Tom Morton Martin Luther University Halle-Wittenberg, Germany

Series: Rethinking Globalizations

Liberal democracies emerged on the back of fossil fuels, creating what Tim Mitchell called 'carbon democracy'. Today we face a very clear democratic question, of whether the fossil fuel sector has the right to determine the planet's future. This book debates the political constituencies, agendas and institutions that are emerging from climate crisis, comparing evidence of emergent themes. New claims are emerging, for 'green deals', 'climate justice', 'energy justice', 'energy democracy' and 'de-growth', reflecting a new intensity of contestation as climate change impacts deepen. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Globalizations.

The Australian Horn of Plenty

How Britain's Australian Colonies Began Democracy

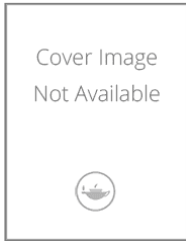

Reg Hamilton Central Queensland University, Australia

Hamilton explores in a short history how all men gained the vote, self-government and the secret ballot in South Australia (1856), Victoria (1857) and New South Wales (1858). Australia permanently democratized without a violent revolution, and at a very early time. This book examines the Legislative Council debates which led to these radical democracies, which include covered voting eligibility, the upper house of parliament, and separation of Church and State. A vital text for scholars of democracy as well as those interested in Australian Studies, Australian History, Political Science, Constitutional Law, and about the building blocks of first world prosperity.

Transversal Democracy Projection in the Mediterranean

A De-Centred Practice Analysis

Edited by Anna Khakee University of Malta, Malta, Sarah Wolff Leiden University, Netherlands

Series: Routledge Studies in Mediterranean Politics

This book expands on the existing literature on the international dimension of democratization by introducing the concept of democracy projection. Democracy projection is defined as the projection of (democratic) norms through the every-day practice of interactions - beyond any donor-recipient relationship - between states and foreign civil society actors on issue areas where both sides have interests to defend. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Mediterranean Politics.

Educating Europe

EU government, knowledge and legitimation

Sotiria Grek University of Edinburgh, UK

Series: Routledge Studies on Government and the European Union

The book will examine the ways in which an education policy field has been constructed in Europe since the early 1970s and will explore how this field has never really been peripheral or 'secondary' as, perhaps its silencing from mainstream EU integration studies and political science has rendered it to be. Rather, it will show the ways that governing education has been integral in the processes of creating a European home market, at the heart of the neo-mercantilist project in the '80s, as well as during the later dominance of the neo-liberal ideology in the '90s-2000s and the efforts to create a competitive supra-state.

Exploring Party Switching in East-Central European Legislatures

Party Drifters, Mavericks, and Chameleons

Andrzej Antoszewski University of Wrocław, Poland, Przemysław Żukiewicz University of Wrocław, Poland

Series: Routledge Studies on Political Parties and Party Systems

This book challenges the approach of relying on election outcomes to analyse party systems, contending that changes can be also identified and documented beyond the scope of parliamentary elections through legislative party switching. It will be of key interest to scholars and students of legislative studies, party politics, Central and East European Politics and more broadly to comparative politics and government.

Intangible Cultural Heritage and Reconciliation in the Western Balkans

An Anthropological Perspective

Miloš Milenković

Series: Southeast European Studies

This book considers the sensitive heritage elements linked to the very issue of the origins of nations. Beliefs, rituals, and traditional knowledge are examples of intangible cultural heritage (ICH), which communities globally regard as the core of their cultural identity. When it is unclear which element of heritage 'belong' to whom, like in the Western Balkans, where majority of heritage elements is shared, ICH disputes exacerbate conflict.

Routledge Handbook on Cooperation, Interdependencies and Security in the Mediterranean

Edited by Elena Calandri Università di Padova, Italy, Karolina Golemo Jagiellonian University in Krakow, Poland, Jesús Ventura-Fernández Universidad de Sevilla, Spain

This Handbook provides an essential overview of the contemporary dynamics of the Mediterranean region. Conceptualising the Mediterranean as both a socio-cultural area and a geopolitical entity, it considers the basin both as a whole and as a set of interacting subregions. Established scholars offer new perspectives and approaches from international history, postcolonial studies, migration studies, geography, private international law and public international law, environmental and tourism studies, to reappraise the long-term trends and ruptures that shape security, interdependence, and cooperation.

Small States of the European Union and Brexit

Edited by Laura C. Ferreira-Pereira University of Minho, Portugal

This book seeks to offer a better understanding of the strategic responses to Brexit from 10 small European Union member states: Croatia, Czech Republic, Estonia, Finland, Ireland, Latvia, Lithuania, Malta, Portugal and Slovakia. Inspired in an intersection of different streams of research, it examines the extent and ways Brexit has impacted these countries, analysing their coping strategies to deal with challenges raised by such a disruptive development, and considering the implications of their reactions to Brexit for patterns of national foreign policy Europeanization. The chapters were originally published as a special issue of Journal of Contemporary European Studies.

Structural Origins of Post-Yugoslav Regimes

Elites, Civil Society and the State

Valentina Petrović University of Zurich, Switzerland

Series: Southeast European Studies

This analysis of the Yugoslav democratization process explains the variation of the regime outcome within a structuralist framework. Focusing on the post-socialist world, it goes beyond ethnicity and elite agency to bring the role of class and the state into discussions of third wave democracies. Offering an in-depth study of four post-Yugoslav cases and relying on extensive field work into how civil society, state structures and the elite agency influence the trajectories of Croatia, North Macedonia, Serbia and Slovenia after end of socialism, the analysis also considers the impact of the European Union on domestic conditions.

'Balkanization' and the Euro-Atlantic Processes of the (Western) Balkans

Back to the Future

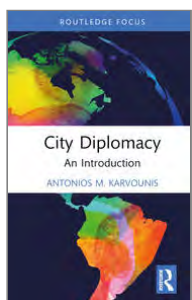

Liridona Veliu Ashiku Dublin City University, Ireland
 Series: Southeast European Studies

This book explores how 'balkanization' as a discourse underpins the policies of the European Union (EU) and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) towards the Western Balkans. It shows how EU and NATO policies have emerged from, and led to, the constant reinvention of the unity of the West through 'balkanizing' the region and illustrates how this dynamic is maintained by and instrumentalized for the political elites.

The Performance of Regionalism in the Global South

A Multi-level Analysis

Edited by Johannes Muntzschick Johannes Gutenberg-University Mainz, Germany, Friedrich Plank Johannes Gutenberg-University Mainz, Germany

Series: New Regionalisms Series

This volume collects and combines research on regional integration projects beyond Europe and in the Global South across a wide range of policy issues. Given the plurality and diversity of regional organisations, there is a growing need to systematically analyse, assess and explain the performance of regionalism. Acknowledging the considerable differences in settings, institutional design, and politico-economic environment of regional organisations, the expert contributors move beyond EU-centric notions to offer a profound overview and propose new dimensions of innovative performance research.

Allende and Popular Unity

The Road to Democratic Socialism

Paula Vidal Molina, Ximena U. Odekerken

Series: Marx and Marxisms

This book is a fascinating collection of carefully handpicked key texts and speeches from Chile's '1,000 Days of Revolution', previously unpublished in English. Twenty-three texts embodying the activity of Unidad Popular and Salvador Allende's government in the early 1970s are structured around five thematic sections which tell the story of the common challenges for progressive political organizations and social movements today. Ideal for student, scholars and general readers, this book introduces an extraordinary period in Chile's history to a new generation of readers interested in the resurgence of democratic socialism around the world.

Diasporas and Transportation of Homeland Conflicts

Inter-group Dynamics and Host Country Responses

Edited by Éliše Féron Tampere University, Finland, Bahar Baser Durham University, UK

Series: Ethnopolitics

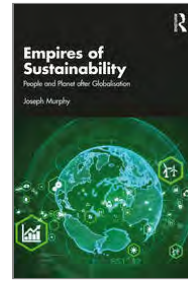

This book explores transformation and reinvention of conflict-generated diaspora groups' politics in countries of residence. Chapters draw our attention to various interconnected temporalities explaining patterns of conflict transportation, such as the temps long of diasporic mobilisation, the here and now of what is happening in both host and home countries, and micro-temporalities and diasporans' life trajectories. The volume calls for nuancing our approach to links between diasporas and conflicts, to avoid falling into essentialisation trap. It was originally published in Ethnopolitics.

2ND EDITION

Global Health Governance

Sophie Harman Queen Mary University of London, UK, Andreas Papamichail Queen Mary University, United Kingdom

Series: Global Institutions

Fully updated for the second edition, this text provides a concise and informative introduction to how global health is governed, exploring the ways in which we understand global health governance, exposing its complex nature, and asking who or what really governs global health, to what outcome, and for whom. Governing outbreaks, emergencies, pandemics, access to medicines, non-communicable diseases, and the financing of fully functioning health systems remain among the biggest challenges national and international policymakers and practitioners face.

Interstate Conflicts and the International Civil Aviation Organization

Depoliticization in Multilateral Diplomacy

Michał M. Kobierecki

Series: Global Institutions

This book investigates the International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO) and politicized debates held there. The author explores how participants have employed depoliticization as a defensive diplomatic technique in a multilateral forum. Analysing cases such as the ICAO membership/statehood of Spain, Taiwan, Cyprus and South Africa; various instances of the Arab-Israeli conflict; shootdowns of the Korean aircraft by the USSR and Iranian aircraft by the US, and the 21st Century tensions between Russia and Western countries, the book focuses on how states under criticism defended themselves and used depoliticization rhetoric to weaken ICAO decisions.

Migration, Cosmopolitanism and Civil Society

Fostering Cultural Pluralism through Citizenship Politics

Feyzi Baban Trent University, Canada, Kim Rygiel Wilfrid Laurier University, Canada

Series: Interventions

This book discusses the ways civil society initiatives open communities to newcomers and why, how, and under what circumstances some are more welcoming than others, exploring the importance of transgressive cosmopolitanism as a basis for creating more inclusive and pluralistic societies. The question of how to live together in increasingly multicultural, multi-ethnic, and multireligious societies is a pressing political and policy issue, particularly as we witness a rise in right-wing populism and anti-immigrant sentiments.

Edited by Anthony Ware, Leanne M. Kelly, Greg Barton

This book surveys the state of knowledge regarding development and humanitarian non-government organisation (NGO) responses to preventing and countering violent extremism (P/CVE). It delineates the nexus and shared objectives between P/CVE and development/humanitarian NGO frameworks and outlines a reframing of the concept of VE into violent and hateful extremism (VHE) as a shift to a more nuanced understanding which addresses inherent complexities and entanglements more deeply. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Conflict, Security & Development.

South American Policy Regionalism

Drivers and Barriers to International Problem Solving

Edited by Leslie Elliott Armijo, Markus Fraundorfer, Sybil D. Rhodes

Contrasting three major schools of thought in international relations, this book introduces the idea of international policy regionalism as a framework for informed debate about international policy-sector interactions in a regional space. An international group of contributors constructs rich narratives of the politics of Latin American policy sector evolution since the Cold War. South American Policy Regionalism equips readers from various academic disciplines and policy to understand the relevance of international relations theory for the analysis of policy sectors that cross national borders, both within Latin America and elsewhere.

The Coloniality of Humanitarian Intervention

Patrick J. Vernon King's College London, UK

Series: Routledge Studies in Gender and Global Politics

This book scrutinises the practice of humanitarian intervention to explore the extent to which racism and heteronormativity, rooted in colonial understandings of time and space, are enacted through the UK's responses, failed responses, and non-responses to atrocity crimes. Taking humanitarian intervention as its central focus, the book uses queer international relations scholarship to draw the ongoing coloniality of the Western state into stark relief.

The Enduring Legacies of the Global Financial Crisis in East Asia

A Quiet Transformation

Iain Pirie University of Warwick, UK

Series: Routledge Advances in International Relations and Global Politics

The Enduring Legacies of the Global Financial Crisis in East Asia challenges the assumption that the global financial crisis had a limited structural impact on East Asian political economies, arguing that the crisis has led to a significant, if uneven, reorganization of major national political economies within the region where, in response to the crisis, states have promoted domestic processes of financialization as a means of stimulating their economies. This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of Political Economy and Asian Studies.

The Far-Right in World Politics

Edited by Alexander Anievas University of Connecticut, USA, Richard Saull University of London, UK

Series: Rethinking Globalizations

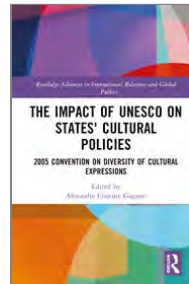

This book addresses the reasons why the contemporary far-right has gained political resonance in a variety of states across both the Global North and South. The rise of far-right forms of politics in recent years throughout a range of geopolitical locales suggests the emergence of a distinct conjuncture in world politics, indicating a common set of enabling conditions and characteristics. It is this unprecedented context in the history of the post-war liberal international order that this edited volume aims to address. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Globalizations and are accompanied by a new epilogue.

Civil Society

Ideas, Interpretations, Transgressions

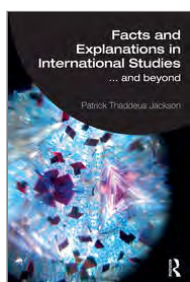

Edyta B. Pietrzak Lodz University of Technology, Poland

Civil Society: Ideas, Interpretations, Transgressions is essential to learning about the place and importance of civil society to creating and maintaining a liberal democracy. Edyta B. Pietrzak takes us on a journey of interpretation, addressing the critical role the idea of a civil society has for our world and how it has evolved over time. She uncovers the meanings of theories, clarifies ways of thinking that are sensitive to peculiarities, intermittences, contrasts, or unique things.

Facts and Explanations in International Studies...and beyond

Patrick Thaddeus Jackson American University, Washington DC, USA

The politicizing of facts and factual claims has led some to abandon all talk of a meaningful distinction between a fact and a strongly held political commitment. This book argues that what we need, instead, are better accounts of facts and their relationship to explanation—ones that take seriously the dependence of facts on communities of practice and on consensus procedures of measurement, but do not abandon the epistemic distinctiveness of facts.

Geopolitics, Military Modernisation and the Future of the Indo-Pacific

Bates Gill, Adam Lockyer, Yves-Heng Lim, Andrew T. H. Tan

Series: Emerging Technologies, Ethics and International Affairs

This book examines to what extent geopolitics explains the current wave of force modernisation in the Indo-Pacific region. Examining the leading Indo-Pacific nations in terms of defence spending: the United States, China, India, Japan, South Korea, Australia, Taiwan, Singapore, Pakistan, Indonesia and Thailand, geopolitical principles are used to create hypotheses that can be tested against the military modernisation programs of the major actors in the Indo-Pacific region. The book represents a bridge between reference works and the literature on international politics in the Indo-Pacific.

Neo-Nazi Terrorism and Countercultural Fascism

The Origins and Afterlife of James Mason's Siege

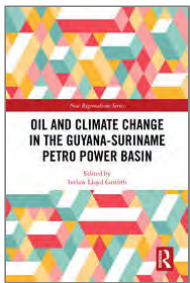

Spencer Sunshine Independent Scholar, USA
Series: Routledge Studies in Fascism and the Far Right

A new wave of aspiring neo-Nazi terrorists has arisen—including the infamous Atomwaffen Division. And they have a bible: James Mason's Siege, which praises terrorism, serial killers, and Charles Manson. Neo-Nazi Terrorism and Countercultural Fascism, based on years of archival work and interviews, documents for the first time the origins of Siege. It is obligatory reading for those interested in contemporary terrorism, postwar countercultures, and the history of the U.S. Far Right and neo-Nazism.

Oil and Climate Change in the Guyana-Suriname Basin

Edited by Ivelaw Lloyd Griffith
Series: New Regionalisms Series

This book is about oil and gas dynamics in the world's newest petro-powers-in-the-making, and the attempts to balance this against the impact of climate change. The known oil reserves in the Guyana-Suriname Basin total some 30 billion barrels equivalent, and the gas reserves exceed 30 trillion cubic feet. This massive offshore discovery amounts to 10 percent of the world's conventional oil, but Guyana and Suriname are also in a wet neighbourhood, where the impact of climate change stands to wreak havoc on the area and undermine some of the oil gains.

Political Ideologies and the Democratic Ideal

Terence Ball, Richard Dagger University of Richmond, Daniel I. O'Neill University of Florida, Jennet Kirkpatrick

Now in its twelfth edition, Political Ideologies and the Democratic Ideal continues the book's tradition of offering a clear, concise and comprehensive introduction to the ideas and ideals that shake and shape our political world. The text outlines a framework defining each ideology in terms of the four functions ideologies performs — explanation, evaluation, orientation, and political program — allowing students to compare, contrast, and analyze the various ideologies, developing their own unique views and critical thinking skills.

Race in the Anthropocene

Coloniality, Disavowal and the Black Horizon

Farai Chipato University of Westminster, United Kingdom,
David Chandler University of Westminster, UK
Series: Interventions

Race in the Anthropocene provides a radical new perspective on the importance of race and coloniality in the Anthropocene. It forwards the Black Horizon as a critical lens which places at its heart the importance of ontological concerns fundamental to problematising the violences and exclusions of the antiblack world. This book is essential reading for students of international relations, particularly those interested in international politics, security, and development. It is also of relevance for those interested in contemporary social, political, and environmental debates and policy practices.

Rethinking Property

Drive Theory, Fanon, and Environmental Philosophy

Elliott Schwebach
Series: Psychoanalytic Political Theory

In this eye-opening study at the intersection of psychoanalytic theory and political organization and thought, Elliott Schwebach explores why property can be understood to be oppressive and how political theory overlooks its unique significance as a pillar of social violence. This unique perspective validates creative expressions of decolonial resistance and offers fruitful alternatives to customary positions in psychoanalytic and environmental political philosophy. The book will be an indispensable resource for scholars of property, Freudian psychology, political ecology, and the visionary thought of Frantz Fanon.

The Magma of War

An Ontology of the Global

Edgar Illas

War defines the most extreme and contradictory expression of the global world. In this fascinating exploration on the history of the thinking of conflict, Edgar Illas departs from military and sociological analyses to propose a theoretical exploration of war as the ontological force that produces political orders. Divided into two parts, Illas' study begins by surveying of some of the most important thinkers of war, moving from classical antiquity to the 20th century. The second part turns to a theorization of the 21st century to claim that conflictive relations between capital, state power, political movements, and social life in globalization culminate.

The New Reformism and the Revival of Karl Kautsky

The Renegade's Revenge

Douglas Greene

Series: Marx and Marxisms

This text offers an authoritative historiography of German socialist theorist Karl Kautsky and the Russian Revolution. Douglas Greene examines the totality of Kautsky's political career and dissects the fundamental opportunism and passive radicalism that defined his Marxism. Greene explores the most substantive Marxist critics of Kautsky, namely Rosa Luxemburg, V. I. Lenin, and Leon Trotsky while offering a critical assessment of the work produced by scholars and activists seeking to revive Kautsky.

Theories of Change in Reality

Strengths, Limitations and Future Directions

Edited by Andrew Koleros , Marie-Hélène Adrien , Tony Tyrrell

Series: Comparative Policy Evaluation

For over fifty years, evaluators have used theories of change to articulate the causal logic underpinning how intervention is intended to bring about change. From its origins, the approach has been adopted more widely from programme design to programme management. As theories of change continue to be used for multiple purposes, it is an opportune moment for the evaluation community – where the approach originated – to provide their perspective on the strengths and limitations of the approach and its future directions. By sharing these diverse perspectives, the book aims to both provide evaluators and emerging programme theorists with critical perspectives to inform future practice.

Responses to 7 October: Antisemitic Discourse

Edited by Rosa Freedman University of Reading, UK, David Hirsh London Centre for the Study of Contemporary Antisemitism, UK

Series: Studies in Contemporary Antisemitism

One of three volumes responding to the 7 October attack, Antisemitic Discourse, focuses on the ideology that motivated it and the antisemitism that shaped many responses to it. It examines the provenance of the Jew-hatred, from English history to Palestinian Islamism; from toxic 19th century 'Jewish Question' rhetoric to the perversion of the Trotskyist tradition that allowed parts of the left to embrace antisemitism. There is discussion from Britain, Germany, Poland and Norway; and a linguistic account of responses. This work will appeal to scholars, students and activists with an interest in antisemitism, Jewish studies and the politics of Israel.

Responses to 7 October: Law and Society

Edited by Rosa Freedman Research Fellow, London
Centre for the Study of Contemporary Antisemitism, UK,
David Hirsh Goldsmiths College, University of London,
UK

Series: Studies in Contemporary Antisemitism

One of three volumes responding to the 7 October attack, Law and Society, begins with a legal, and a genocide studies critique of the claim that Israel is genocidal; another reflects on the absence of an understanding of antisemitism in international legal discourse. Contributions draw on Judaism, feminism and sociology to face what happened and to trace how Israelis were transported back to a quintessentially pre-Israel Jewish experience. This work will appeal to scholars, students and activists with an interest in antisemitism, Jewish studies and the politics of Israel.

Series: Studies in Contemporary Antisemitism

One of three volumes responding to the 7 October attack, Universities, focuses on the heartland of contemporary antisemitic thinking, which is scholarship; and its reflection in student discourse on campus. The feminist movement and 'progressives' more generally come under scrutiny, and there is analysis of antisemitism on campus after 7 October, showing how it is tolerated and protected there. Explaining Support for Populism in Contemporary Latin America

Dinorah Azpuru Wichita State University, USA

Series: Routledge Studies in Latin American Politics

Explaining Support for Populism in Contemporary Latin America investigates the stronghold that populism exerts on citizens in the developing world. More specifically, relying on regional surveys this book explores why many citizens consistently supported eight populist presidents who were elected in contemporary Latin America. Unique to this approach is a strong emphasis on the demand-side of populism and the use of country-specific survey data across the years.

Weaponizing Conspiracy Theories

Eirikur Bergmann Bifrost University, Iceland

Series: Conspiracy Theories

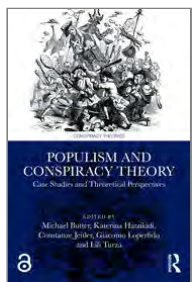

This book analyses the discursive weaponization of conspiracy theories. In an era where truth and fiction converge, nativist populist leaders wield conspiracy theories as political weapons. This text examines the interplay between populism and conspiracism, probing their impact on democratic processes and exploring their broader political implications. The work dissects three predominant conspiracy theories: the Eurabia theory in Europe, the Deep State in the United States, and anti-Western narratives in Russia. It will be of interest to students and scholars of conspiracy theories, populism and contemporary politics.

The Ideational Approach to Populism, Volume II

Consequences and Mitigation

Edited by Angelos Chrysogelos London Metropolitan University, UK, Eliza Tanner Hawkins Brigham Young University, USA, Kirk A. Hawkins Brigham Young University, USA, Levente Littvay HUN-REN Centre for Social Sciences, Hungary, Nina Wiesehomeier IE University, Spain

Series: Routledge Studies in Extremism and Democracy

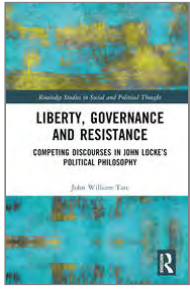

This book provides a series of specific predictions about the distinct impact of populist ideas. In this sequel to the first volume, the ideational approach to populism is extended, providing a robust theoretical framework for understanding populism's consequences and for identifying policies that mitigate its most negative effects. It reaffirms that ideas matter, arguing that an ideational definition of populism leads to more accurate, and sometimes surprising predictions about the impact of populism at multiple levels of analysis. It will be of interest to students and scholars of politics, international relations, social psychology, and political communication.

Liberty, Governance and Resistance

Competing Discourses in John Locke's Political Philosophy

John William Tate The University of Newcastle, Australia
Series: Routledge Studies in Social and Political Thought

John Locke is widely perceived as a foundational figure within the liberal tradition. This book investigates the competing purposes that informed Locke's political philosophy, not all of which resulted in outcomes consistent with what we today understand as "liberal" ideals. Liberty, Governance and Resistance will be of interest to researchers studying Locke, liberalism, and the history of ideas.

Walter Benjamin and Antonio Gramsci

A Missed Encounter

Edited by Dario Gentili, Elettra Stimilli, Gabriele Guerra

Series: Marx and Marxisms

This book marks a missed encounter between two of the most influential Marxists thinkers of our age, Walter Benjamin, and Antonio Gramsci, studied here for the first time side by side. Two Marxists sui generis, they radically changed Marxism's themes and vocabulary, profoundly influencing the most significant analyses and debates. These two philosophers' posthumous fortune depended on the transmission of their thought. Editors, Dario Gentili, Elettra Stimilli, Gabriele Guerra explore with leading voices on Benjamin and Gramsci the most relevant and topical issues today. An indispensable new perspective in Marxism for students and researchers alike.

Theories of Alienation

From Rousseau to the Present

Christoph Henning Erfurt University, Germany

Series: Marx and Marxisms

Henning tracks theories of alienation from three different traditions: a conservative approach from Rousseau to Hartmut Rosa explains alienation with change and is based on nostalgia; a liberal approach from Simmel to Rahel Jaeggi relies on individual autonomy and explains it as a loss of control; and a third, Aristotelian approach from Humboldt to Marx or British idealism, relies on a perfectionist anthropology and critical social theory. Theories of Alienation: From Rousseau to the Present shines important new light on this important field of contemporary social philosophy and is very approachable to the general reader.

Municipal Corruption

From Policies to People

Kimberly L. Nelson University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, USA, Whitney B. Afonso University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, USA

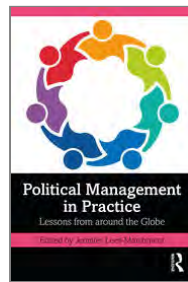

This book represents the most comprehensive exploration of corruption in U.S. municipal governments written to date. It uses both quantitative research and case study analysis to answer the question of why some municipalities fall victim to corrupt acts, while others do not. Municipal Corruption is ideal supplemental reading for courses on ethics, public affairs, local government, and urban affairs, and it will be immeasurably useful to municipalities considering how to better insulate themselves and their constituents from corrupt acts.

4TH EDITION

Public Administration

An Introduction

Marc Holzer Rutgers University-Newark, USA, Richard W. Schwester John Jay College of Criminal Justice - CUNY, USA

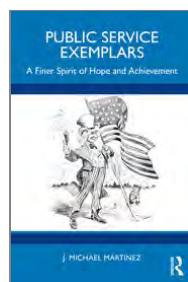

Marc Holzer and Richard W. Schwester have written a fresh and highly engaging textbook for the introductory course in Public Administration. Their coverage includes all of the essential topics (organizational theory, human resource management, leadership, program evaluation and policy analysis, budgeting), but also reflects new realities: new technology, changes in intergovernmental relations, and public performance and accountability initiatives. New to this edition is a chapter on big data and analytics. This is an ideal introduction to the subject for upper-level undergraduate and first-year graduate students enrolled in courses in public administration and public management.

Geopolitics of Global Catholicism

Politics of Religion in Space and Time

Petr Kratochvíl Institute of International Relations, the Czech Republic

Series: Routledge Studies in Religion and Politics

Geopolitics of Global Catholicism uncovers the key trends in today's Catholicism, providing an incisive analysis of its deep entanglement with national, regional, as well as global politics. The book offers an exciting exploration of five versions of local Catholicism(s), and sheds light on the various theo-political constellations that differ widely across these national contexts but that also have global geopolitical consequences. The book is built around a novel theoretical argument showing that Catholic geopolitics contains not only a spatial dimension (as classic geopolitical studies would have it), but also a temporal one.

Israeli National Intelligence Culture

Problem-solving, Exceptionalism, and Pragmatism

Itai Shapira

Series: Studies in Intelligence

The book offers a novel conceptualization of Israeli national intelligence culture, describing the way in which Israelis perceive and practise intelligence. Written by a former senior intelligence officer, this is the first study dedicated to Israeli intelligence culture and the way it reflects Israeli strategic culture. Relying on over 30 elite interviews with acting and former Israeli practitioners, the book highlights the Israeli aversion to intelligence theory and scientific methods, as well as the management of the intelligence system at the national level. This book will interest students of intelligence studies, Israeli politics, strategic studies, and International Relations.

Enemy Images

Emergence, Consequences and Counteraction

Kristian Steiner, Andreas Önnarfors University of Gothenburg, Sweden

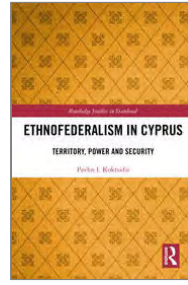

This book offers a detailed understanding of 'enemy images', which are used in political rhetoric to dehumanize adversaries for various purposes, such as to legitimate violent conflicts. Applying theoretical models to a strong catalogue of historical and recent examples, the book identifies how 'enemy images' have led to the development of dominant sociopolitical paradigms by providing justifications for and reinforcements of violent conflicts both within and between societies. In doing so, the work offers an up-to-date, accessible and authoritative overview of how to identify, analyze, and counteract enemy images.

Asia-Pacific Regional Security Assessment 2024

Key developments and trends

Edited by The International Institute for Strategic Studies (IISS)

The Asia-Pacific Regional Security Assessment (APRSA) examines key regional security policies and challenges relevant to the proceedings of the IISS Shangri-La Dialogue, Asia's premier defence summit convened by the International Institute for Strategic Studies (IISS). This eleventh edition comes as the APRSA celebrates its first decade. Three themes materialise across six chapters: the pressure and constraints surrounding great-power competition, the enduring value of alliances and partnerships and the impact of advanced and emerging technology for regional security dynamics.

2ND EDITION

Space Warfare

Strategy, Principles and Policy

John J. Klein

Series: Space Power and Politics

This book examines military space strategy within the context of the land and naval strategies of the past. This second edition has been updated and revised, with several new chapters included. The book examines competition and conflict in the space domain, including the methods used and sound counterstrategies to thwart a competitor's efforts. Contrary to many spacepower pundits, the book explains that the space domain is neither inherently offense-dominant, nor is there a first-mover advantage when incorporating a sound space strategy.

Technology and Governance Beyond the State

The Rule of Non-Law

Edited by Nicole Stremlau, Clara Voyvodic Casabó

Series: Routledge Studies in Conflict, Security and Technology

This book explores how information and communications technologies are adapted, governed, and reinterpreted in areas where the state has limited reach. The book brings together an eclectic collection of cases from around the world – from the favelas in Brazil, to the border regions of Ethiopia and Somalia, to markets in Thailand – to tease out the broader arguments and logics about how diverse enabling environments for technology and innovation may evolve and the wide range of public authorities that may be involved in providing governance and security for such innovation, beyond the state.

The Legacy of 9/11

Transformations of Policing, Intelligence, and Counter-Terrorism

Edited by Ryan Shaffer, Jeffrey Kaplan

This book is a retrospective about how policing, intelligence, and counter-terrorism have changed in the more than twenty years since the September 11, 2001 terrorist attacks. Bringing together scholars and practitioners, it takes an interdisciplinary approach with fields including history, international relations, intelligence studies, law, and political science. It highlights how some challenges in policing, intelligence, and counter-terrorism brought about by the attacks have been resolved, how some persist and how others have been transformed. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Journal of Policing, Intelligence and Counter Terrorism.
