Anthropology of Ascendant China

Histories, Attainments, and Tribulations

Edited by Mayfair Yang

Series: Anthropology of Now

This volume represents the latest research in cultural anthropology on an ascendant and globalizing China, covering the many different dimensions of China's ascendancy both within China itself and beyond. It focuses not only on the real and perceived successes of China in the past four decades, but also on the difficulties, tensions, and dangers that have emerged as a result of rapid economic development. Suitable for students and scholars in Anthropology, Sociology, History, Political Science, and East Asian Studies, as well as those working on contemporary Chinese society and culture more broadly.

Beyond Liminality

Ontologies of Abundant Betweenness

Jack David Eller Community College of Denver, USA

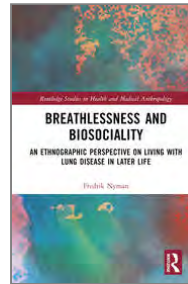

Beyond Liminality: Ontologies of Abundant Betweenness examines the concept of liminality in the social sciences, humanities, and practical fields like management and medicine. It exposes the binary ontology underlying the concept and advocates an alternative ontology of instability, flux, compositeness, emergence, and diversity in abundance. It is key reading for scholars and students across the social sciences, humanities, and applied disciplines interested in ritual, performance, change, ontology, and epistemology.

Decolonizing Design in Africa

Towards New Theories, Methods, and Practices

Yaw Oforu-Asare

Decolonising Design in Africa offers a groundbreaking exploration of design education in Africa through a decolonial lens. By examining the colonial legacies that have shaped design education in Africa, it foregrounds the problematic ways that current pedagogical approaches primarily reflect western values and priorities. It makes a compelling case for reimagining design education in a more inclusive, contextually relevant and socially conscious way. The book's ultimate aim is to cultivate a new generation of designers equipped to address the complex challenges of a decolonising world.

Developing the Hall of Human Origins

Adaptive Resilience

Shelley L. Smith

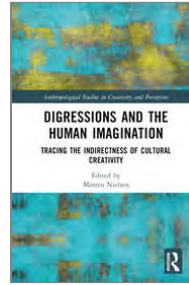

Series: Routledge Studies in Anthropology and Museums

This book focuses on the development of the National Museum of Natural History's David H. Koch Hall of Human Origins, exploring the origins of the exhibit, its changes over time, and the associated educational and public outreach activities of members of the Smithsonian's Human Origins Program. The author uses the term 'adaptive resilience' to describe a central theme of the exhibit, our species' adaptation to changing environments as a key feature of our success, and to refer to the resilience of Richard B. Potts in creating his vision for the hall. Suitable for scholars of anthropology and museum studies as well as the history of science and science communication.

Eggonomics

The Global Market in Human Eggs and the Donors Who Supply Them

Diane M. Tober

Series: Social Science Perspectives on Childbirth and Reproduction

What happens when people are reduced to products? By pulling back the clinical curtain on the multi-billion dollar per year global egg industry, that is the central question Eggonomics seeks to address. Drawing upon international anthropological fieldwork, Eggonomics reveals the clinical spaces where egg donor's bodies are tested, prodded, and poked for ever-increasing sums of profit, eugenic forces drive donor selection, and the unrelenting pressures of global capitalism threaten medicine's prime directive of 'do no harm.' Eggonomics is a crucial read for researchers, medical professionals, policymakers, and anyone considering becoming or using an egg donor.

3RD EDITION

Engaging Anthropological Theory

A Social and Political History

Mark Moberg University of South Alabama, USA

The updated third edition of this book scrutinizes anew the history of anthropological theory. Covering key concepts and theorists in a lively style, Engaging Anthropological Theory examines the historical context of anthropological ideas and the contested nature of anthropology itself. Students and instructors will also appreciate the open-ended review questions for each chapter that stimulate critical thought and discussion. Extensively Illustrated throughout, this engaging text moves away from the dry recitation of past viewpoints in anthropology and shows their continued relevance to modern life.

Ethnographic Constructions of Indigenous Others

Indigeneity, Climate Change, and the Limits of Western Epistemology

George Byrne

This book examines the ways in which indigeneity interacts with climate change politics at multiple levels, and at the same time offers a self-critical reflection on the role of ethnographic research (and researchers) in this process. It encourages students and researchers in anthropology, international development, and other related fields to engage in more meaningful reflection on the epistemic shortcomings of 'the West', including in our own research, and to acknowledge the ongoing role of power, coloniality, extractivism, and Whiteness in Climate Change discourses.

Exploring Political Ecology

Issues, Problems, and Solutions to the Climate Change Crisis

Alexander M. Ervin

This book explores some of the conditions and underlying causes of the multiple environmental crises facing humanity. Rooted in anthropology, but multidisciplinary in scope, it surveys the many socio-cultural and socio-economic errors, foibles, and follies that brought us to these circumstances. Crucially and uniquely, it outlines an array of viable and practical solutions, some of which are radically different from the current status quo and cultural expectations. This book is key reading for researchers and students interested in climate change across the social and physical sciences and humanities.

Gender and Violence in Romani and Traveller Lives

Methods, Ethics and Dilemmas

Edited by Paloma Gay Blasco, Iliana Sarafian, Raluca Roman

This is the first interdisciplinary collection to analyse the place of Romanies and Travellers within contemporary Europe through the lens of gender and violence. It contributes to the theorising of gendered violence in the social sciences by assessing dominant models and perspectives in the light of overlooked Romani and Traveller experiences, and is particularly relevant to scholars from anthropology, gender studies, sociology, and social work.

Innovation in the Anthropological Perspective

Insights and Consequences for the Theory, Practice, and Design of Innovating

Julia C. Gluesing, Christine Miller, Helga Wild

The chapters explore the intersection of virtual, local, global dynamics and deepen our understanding of aspects and dimensions of innovation that challenge common perceptions, particularly in business and organizational environments. The approach aims to situate innovation in an integrated view of human and non-human ecologies, and to create common ground for a new form of research and practice.

Multimodal Methods in Anthropology

Samuel Gerald Collins Towson University, US, Matthew S. Durington Towson University, US

Multimodal Methods in Anthropology develops several goals simultaneously. The book takes both students and practitioners through historical and contemporary sites of multimodality and introduces the methodological and theoretical challenges of multimodal anthropology in a digital world. Like multimodality itself, readers will come away with new ideas and new perspectives on old ideas, together with the tools to make them part of their anthropology. It is an ideal text for a variety of methods-based courses in anthropology and qualitative research at both the undergraduate and the graduate level.

Museum Temporalities

Time, History and the Future of the Ethnographic Museum

Edited by Wayne Modest, Peter Pels

Series: Routledge Studies in Anthropology and Museums

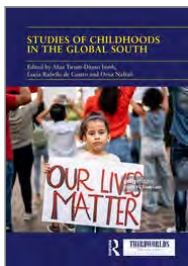

This volume is the first of its kind in focusing on the temporalities of museum work. Wayne Modest, Peter Pels and contributors analyze concerns around the function of museums in relation to time, inquiring whether museums can ever be successful in arresting time or setting themselves outside of time.

Studies of Childhoods in the Global South

Towards an Epistemic Turn in Transnational Childhood Research?

Edited by Afua Twum-Danso Imoh, Lucia Rabello de Castro, Orna Naftali

Series: ThirdWorlds

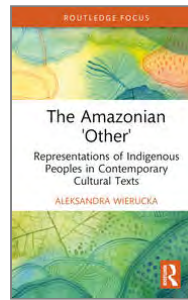

What would a body of literature, focusing on Southern childhoods, look like when epistemologically driven by the demands (social, cultural, economic, political) of the localities in which they are shaped and produced? To answer this question, this book explores locally driven perspectives of childhoods in diverse contexts in the Global South to produce knowledge of Southern childhoods determined, not by Northern priorities and frameworks, but by local needs and contexts. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Third World Thematics.

5TH EDITION

The Anthropology of Religion, Magic, and Witchcraft

Rebecca L. Stein, Philip L. Stein Pierce College, USA, Benjamin R. Kracht, Marjorie M. Snipes

This concise and accessible textbook introduces students to the anthropological study of religion. It examines religious expression from a cross-cultural perspective and exposes students to the complexities of religion in small-scale and complex societies. The chapters incorporate key theoretical concepts and a wide range of ethnographic material. Including new case study material with examples drawn from around the globe, and further resources via a comprehensive companion website, this remains an essential guide for students encountering anthropology of religion for the first time and also those with ongoing interest in this fascinating field.

The Creative Ethnographer's Notebook

Edited by Melisa Cahnmann-Taylor, Kristina Jacobsen

The Creative Ethnographer's Notebook offers exercises to spark creativity to increase the impact and beauty of ethnographic study. This resource can be used to teach students how to engage with creative approaches as well as how to do better public and engaged anthropology. Artists and arts faculty will also benefit from using this book to inspire culturally attuned art making that engages in research-based art. Readers learn how creative ethnography draws on aspects of the literary, visual, sonic and/or performing arts. Information is provided about how scholars and artists, or scholar-artists, document culture in ways that serve more diverse, public and academic audiences.

The Lowland South American World

Edited by Casey High University of Edinburgh, UK, Luiz Costa Universidade Federal do Rio de Janeiro, Brazil

Series: Routledge Worlds

The Lowland South American World showcases research on the anthropology of Lowland South America, providing both an in-depth knowledge of Lowland South American life ways and engaging readers in urgent social, environmental and political issues in the contemporary world. Covering the vast expanse of a region that includes all of South America except for the Andes, its forty chapters engage with questions of what 'Lowland South America' means as a geographical designation, both in studies of indigenous Amazonian peoples and other lowland areas of the continent. It is a valuable resource for scholars and students of anthropology, Latin American studies and indigenous studies.

The Trouble With Art

An Anthropology Beyond Philistinism

Edited by Roger Sansi, Jonas Tinius

Series: Routledge Studies in Anthropology

Art troubles anthropology. Anthropologists have often taken a philistine, sceptical position of distance towards art and aesthetics as a predominantly Western bourgeois institution. This volume proposes an anthropology that moves beyond philistinism and the contradictions between critical anthropologies of art and collaborative and experimental anthropologies with art.

Visual Anthropology of Indian Films

Religious Communities and Cultural Traditions in Bollywood and Beyond

Edited by Pankaj Jain University of North Texas, USA

This book provides a unique insider's look at the world's largest film industry, now globally known as 'Bollywood' and challenges existing notions about Indian films. Some chapters in this edited volume take a fresh view of various hidden gems by maestros such as Raj Kapoor, Bimal Roy, V Shantaram, Satyajit Ray, Ritwik Ghatak, Mrinal Sen, Shakti Samant, Rishikesh Mukherjee, and others. Other chapters provide a pioneering review and analysis of the portrayal of Indian religious communities. Many chapters focus on Hindi films, but others bring insights from films made in other parts of India and its neighbouring countries.

Weak Utopianism in Education

From Political Theory to Pedagogical Practice

Michael P. A. Murphy

Series: Rethinking Education

In light of the structural dangers of revolutionary change highlighted in the political theory of Giorgio Agamben, this book joins a lively debate in philosophy of education on weak utopianism as an approach that foregrounds and respects the educational potentiality of teachers and students. The book creates a common conceptual meeting ground for philosophers and practitioners in education.

Bolivia and the Making of the Global Indigenous Movement

Anthropology, Development and Transnationalism

Juanita Roca-Sánchez

Series: Routledge Studies in Indigenous Peoples and Policy

This book investigates how western anthropological trends, development discourse and transnational activism came to create and define the global indigenous movement. Using Bolivia as a case study, the author demonstrates through a historical research, how international ideas of what it means and does not mean to be indigenous have played out at the national level. This will be of interest to researchers from across the fields of global studies, political anthropology, history of anthropology, international development, socio-legal studies, Latin American history, and indigenous studies.

Children, Youth, and Participatory Arts for Peacebuilding

Lessons from Kyrgyzstan, Rwanda, Indonesia, and Nepal

Edited by Ananda Breed, Helena-Ulrike Marambio, Kirrily Pells, Rajib Timalsina

Series: Routledge Studies in Development and Society

This book demonstrates how participatory arts-based approaches can help children and youth contribute to peacebuilding within post-conflict contexts and to their communities. Cultural forms of storytelling through visual arts, drama, music, and dance can help to enhance post-conflict community wellbeing, social cohesion, and conflict prevention. However, in the planning and implementation of these arts-based projects, children and youth are often marginalised in decision making processes. Practitioners and policy makers would also benefit from the book's recommendations for the implementation of successful arts-based research projects and interventions.

Series: Earthscan Studies in Water Resource Management

This book considers what is needed for water, sanitation, and hygiene services (WASH) in the Middle East to adapt to the growing challenges of climate change. Looking across the region's humanitarian and development sectors, the authors advocate for a transformative approach towards more innovative, integrated, and localized programming. Emphasizing the urgent need for a Humanitarian-Development-Peace nexus approach, it is perfect for WASH practitioners looking for examples of best practice, as well as for researchers and students across international development and humanitarian studies courses as they discuss the future of the WASH field.

Collective Empowerment in Latin America

Indigenous Peasant Movements and Political Transformation

Gerardo Otero, Efe Can Gürcan Istinye University, Turkey

Series: Routledge Critical Development Studies

This book develops a theory of collective empowerment that looks for change both from the bottom up, in civil society, and from the top down, from state interventions responding to such pressure. It outlines a path for progressive social action in which bottom-up pressure by social movements can help progressive parties to gain state power, and considers how indigenous and peasant movements in Latin America have tried to reshape crucial structures of society. It will be important resource for social movement activists, and for researchers working in political sociology, sociological theory, political studies, development studies, social movements, and Latin American Studies.

Corruption, Ethics, and Governance in South Africa

Issues, Cases, and Interventions

Edited by Modimowabarwa Kanyane

Series: Routledge Corruption and Anti-Corruption Studies

This book assesses landmark empirical studies and court cases of state capture, corruption, and fraud in South Africa's public sector. Bringing together some of the best minds in the subject, the book pushes critical thinking to interrogate interventions that could stamp out and stop the rot of corruption in society. Combining original empirical studies, case law examination, and desk research, it will be of interest to researchers and policymakers working on governance, corruption, law, public administration and ethics.

Deconstructing Corruption in Africa

Edited by Ina Kubbe Tel Aviv University, Israel, Emmanuel Saffa Abdulai, Michael Johnston

Series: Routledge Corruption and Anti-Corruption Studies

This book investigates corruption and anti-corruption efforts in Africa, emphasising the regional and thematic differences across the continent, whilst also exploring key patterns and trends. Combatting the ethnocentrism of Western corruption research, this book highlights the importance of a home-generated and contextualised approach to understanding corruption in Africa. As such, the book will be useful for scholars, politicians, public officials, and civil society organizations, as well as for students and researchers across the fields of political science, public administration, economy and corruption studies.

Depoliticising Humanitarian Action

Paradigms, Dilemmas, Resistance

Edited by Isabelle Desportes , Alice Corbet , Ayesha Siddiqi

Series: Routledge Humanitarian Studies

Is it ever possible to separate humanitarian action from politics? Drawing on the expertise of both practitioners and researchers, this book is an essential guide to the thorny interplay between what are too often considered as separate worlds. Balancing theoretical insights with empirical grounding, field examples and recommendations for policy and practice, this book is perfect for researchers and students in humanitarian studies, political science, international relations, human rights, development studies, disaster studies and peace and conflict studies, as well as humanitarian practitioners and policy makers.

Faith in Foreign Aid

Religious Organizations' Engagement with USAID

Susan Turner Haynes

Series: Routledge Research in Religion and Development

The United States contributes more foreign aid than any other state in the world, and it is often recognized as a leader in engaging religious organizations in aid delivery. Faith in Foreign Aid is the first book to closely examine how the relationship between religious organizations and USAID plays out in practice. Faith in Foreign Aid dives into twenty years of data to trace faith-based funding patterns in US foreign aid from 2001-2021. The book will be of interest to researchers across public policy, development, religion, and political science, as well as to practitioners at USAID and development organizations.

Migration Landing Spaces

Processes and Infrastructures in Italy

Martina Bovo

Series: Routledge Studies in Development, Mobilities and Migration

This book looks at migrant landing spaces, exploring the processes and infrastructures which people encounter as they navigate urban spaces along the central Mediterranean route. The book argues that there remains a theoretical and practical difficulty in grasping the complexity of migrant arrivals. Migrants are often unsure whether they will stay or leave, their mobility is uncertain. Combining an ethnographic gaze with insights from urban planning, architecture, geography, social sciences, and migration studies, this book invites us to look closer at the interactions between people, practices, and places as migrants land in Europe.

Rethinking Gender in Development Practice

Lessons from the Field

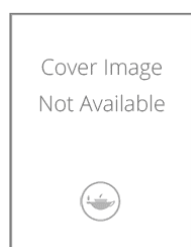

Edited by Emily Finlay Monash University, Australia,
Patrick Kilby Australian National University, Australia,
Rochelle Spencer, Joyce Wu UNSW, Australia

This book is about the ways in which issues of gender—including violence against women and girls, entrenched gender roles and expectations, the exclusion of non-binary genders, and the participation of disempowered genders—affect and are affected by development practice. This volume, which pulls together papers from Development in Practice, provides accounts from researchers and practitioners working with women in countries from Africa to the Pacific. It offers a global perspective, but with the inclusion of local voices, on the way gender can impact daily living in the Global South, and includes groundbreaking articles by some of development studies' most well-known scholars.

Routledge Handbook of Arts and Global Development

Edited by Vicki-Ann Ware, Kirsten Sadeghi-Yekta, Tim Prentki University of Winchester, UK, Wasim Al Kurdi, Patrick Kabanda

Series: Routledge International Handbooks

This book brings together a leading team of international experts in arts and global development to showcase effective practice, and to explore how this vibrant interdisciplinary field has developed, and what the latest research can teach us. Although arts play a central role in human development, and in the health and wellbeing of individuals and communities, few have attempted to comprehensively explore arts practice as global development. This book will be an essential resource for any researcher, student or practitioner wishing to understand the role of the arts in global development, and in the global south more generally.

Social Justice Innovation in Africa

Edited by Viljam Engström, Maija Mustaniemi-Laakso, Laura Stark

Series: Routledge Studies in African Development

Adopting a multidisciplinary approach, this book discusses the potential of social innovation in the pursuit of social justice in Africa. In the twenty-first century, social innovation and entrepreneurship has attracted renewed attention as a way of promoting social justice and addressing challenges of poverty and inequality. Arguing that social justice innovation can only be understood through a contextual and cross-disciplinary approach, the book will be of interest for researchers and policy makers across the fields of human rights, economics, business, development studies, anthropology, and African studies.

The Capability Approach and the Sustainable Development Goals

Inter, Multi, and Trans Disciplinary Perspectives

Edited by Brian Vincent Ikejiaku

Series: The Routledge Human Development and Capability Debates

This book demonstrates how the capability approach to human development can contribute to the realisation of the 2015 United Nations Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). The capability approach dictates that success should not be measured by economic indicators, but by people leading meaningful, free, fulfilled, happy or satisfied lives. Drawing on insights from a range of disciplines, this book will be of interest to researchers and practitioners from law, politics, international relations, criminology, international development, sociology, public policy, area studies and others.

A Queer Reading of Nawabi Architecture and the Colonial Archive

Lucknow Queerscapes

Sonal Mithal, Arul Paul

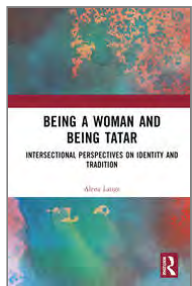

A Queer Reading of Nawabi Architecture and the Colonial Archive provides readers a unique queer postcolonial architectural history of Lucknow from 1775–1857, exploring the architectural production of nawabs Asaf-ud-daula and Wajid Ali Shah, and revealing the colonial bias against queer expression. It highlights the nawabs' non-normative expressions which offered not just a fierce resistance to the colonial enterprise, but also was instrumental in furthering Lucknow as a cultural center. It is intended for scholars and students of queer studies, postcolonial studies, architectural history and the global south.

Being a Woman and Being Tatar

Intersectional Perspectives on Identity and Tradition

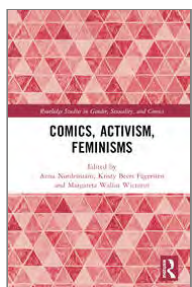

Alena Lange

Being a Woman and Being Tatar uses ethnographic research to explore the multifaceted and complex identities of Tatar women in Siberia and Estonia. It unfolds women's stories about what it means to be a woman and to be a Tatar in a post-Soviet situation through narrations of their aspirations, their sexuality, their relationships, and the dynamics of power they feel themselves within. It will demonstrate to those studying gender studies and cultural anthropology the intricacies of Tatar women's identities, and invites readers to better understand the Tatar women's diversity across Eastern Europe and Russia.

Germaine Greer, Celebrity Feminism and the Archive

Edited by Anthea Taylor University of Sydney, Australia,

Germaine Greer, Celebrity Feminism and the Archive focuses on one of the world's most famous feminists, using previously unexplored archival material to demonstrate the impact of Greer's celebrity. This examination of Greer's archived letters, from fans, anti-fans, and those in-between, reveals much about the social and political function of celebrity over time. Through a detailed analysis of this vast archived correspondence, this volume shows how and why viewers and readers have come to affectively invest – or disinvest – in this iconoclastic feminist. This is an important resource to scholars in Feminist Studies, Gender Studies, Philosophy, and Sociology.

Intersectional Feminist Research Methodologies

Applications in the Social Sciences and Humanities

Edited by Jennifer Cooke, Line Nyhagen

Feminist Intersectional Research Methodologies: Applications in the Social Sciences and Humanities is a multi-disciplinary volume in which scholars present new feminist research methods and re-evaluates existing approaches. Each chapter provides a case study of a methodology they have adopted, developed, or adapted within their field – including sociology, criminology, history, literature, and performance studies. The contributors demonstrate the pervasiveness of intersectional thinking and practice in feminist scholarship today. This collection is of value to both undergraduate and graduate students conducting research, as well as active feminist researchers.

Questioning Gender Politics

Contextualising Educational Disparities in Uncertain Times

Edited by Jessie A. Bustillos Morales London South Bank University (LSBU), UK

Series: Teaching with Gender

Questioning Gender Politics: Contextualising Educational Disparities in Uncertain Times showcases contemporary thinking on pressing aspects of gender equalities, such as patriarchal culture, sexual harassment, trans rights, queer pedagogies and sex education in various educational settings and international contexts. This book outlines how gender issues and sexist power cultures have in many cases changed from plain to more insidious inequalities, and expands the notion of education to include a broader understanding of how gender issues impinge education. It is of great value to undergraduate and postgraduate students of Gender and Education, as well as seasoned educators.

Sally Hemings

Given Her Time

Leigh Fought

Series: Lives of American Women

Sally Hemings: Given Her Time is an exciting, concise biography which tells the extraordinary tale of Sally Hemings, mother of Thomas Jefferson's enslaved children. Placing Hemings within the history of American women and slavery, the book acts as an introduction to race, gender, slavery, and freedom in the first fifty years of the American republic. This textbook includes study questions for students to consider, and documents to encourage students to engage with primary source materials. It is an accessible and lively read for students in Women and Gender Studies, Women's History and African American Studies.

The Captive Wife

Hannah Gavron

Series: Routledge Classics

In 1965 the young sociologist Hannah Gavron took her own life. A year later, the book based on the research she carried out for her thesis was published as The Captive Wife. Based on first-hand accounts of the lives of working and middle-class working women in London, it was one of the earliest works of British, sociological feminism and has since become a feminist classic. Written in simple prose and fair-minded in its approach, it became an inspirational book for many mothers, feminists and activists seeking equality for women and remains a vital book today. This Routledge Classics edition includes a new Foreword by Ann Oakley.

The Gender Binary and the Invention of Race

Sally Markowitz

The Gender Binary and the Invention of Race explores a fundamental and often overlooked connection between modern European classifications of sex/gender and those of race. Starting in the eighteenth century, these classifications have been co-constructed through a White, sex/gender-binary ideal for the male-female couple; an ideal that so-called "inferior races" were thought not to meet. This is an accessibly written book that will be of interest both to undergraduate and graduate students of Gender Studies, as well as to a general audience wishing to learn more about the relationship between the categories of race, gender, and sexuality.

Women in Eastern European Post-Socialist Countries

Social, Scientific, and Political Lives

Edited by Agnieszka Kasińska-Metryka Jan Kochanowski University, Poland, Karolina Pałka-Suchojad Jan Kochanowski University, Poland

Women in Eastern European Post-Socialist Countries: Social, Scientific, and Political Lives explores the role of women in Central and Eastern Europe in bringing about social change, and the obstacles they face in fighting for equality. Through chapters authored by academics with specialities across the social sciences, the book addresses the fundamental areas in which women's determination is already initiating changes, namely politics and diplomacy, science, reproductive rights, customs resulting from religion. It is of interest to scholars of gender studies, political and social sciences, and contemporary central and eastern European history.

Women in Work in Mid-Life

Value, Identity and Perceptions

Belinda Steffan

Women in Work in Mid-Life explores the specific challenges that women in the UK workforce face, including women's health, pay inequality, gender bias, and the struggle to balance work and family life. Through interviews with women in work, as well as an examination of policies and initiatives that can help support women's career development and encourage workplace retention, it points to a future for this demographic in employment. This is an invaluable resource for professionals and policy makers seeking to promote a more inclusive workplace culture in the UK, as well as undergraduate and graduate students in psychology and the social sciences.

Women, Travel, and Writing in the Interwar Era

Changing Times, Changing Spaces

Ann Catherine Hoag

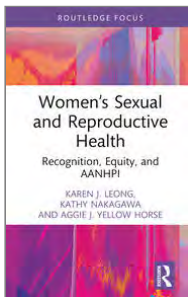

Women, Travel, and Writing in the Interwar Era offers fresh examinations of interwar era accounts by women about travel and movement, and considers the use and limitations of time as a subversive force in their texts. Each chapter offers a unique theoretical framework and examines how experiences of time impact perceptions of women's bodies and identities, their engagement with history and discourse, and the problematic influence on colonialism. It is essential reading to students and researchers of women's travel writing, as well as scholars of gender studies, war and interwar history, and cultural heritage.

Ageism and Person-Centred Care

Rehabilitating Bias for Age-Friendly Practice

Stephen Buetow University of Auckland, New Zealand

Series: Routledge Advances in the Medical Humanities

This thought-provoking book exposes the values, judgements, and hierarchies that underlie ageism in care settings. Destabilizing the assumption that biases like ageism are always bad, Buetow suggests that ageism is normatively neutral and that truly person-centred care requires situated acknowledgement of and responsiveness to its negative and positive aspects. Looking at how age-sensitive judgments combined with a person first approach can inform research, policy, and practice, this book will interest students and researchers from fields like health and social care, and disciplines, such as sociology, psychology, politics, and philosophy.

Decentralization and Health Policy in South Asia

A Comparative Approach

Nisha Bellinger

Series: Routledge Global Health Series

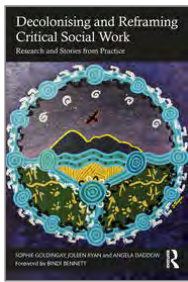

This ambitious and insightful book provides a unique regional perspective on health policy across South Asia, focussing on how the decentralization of policy and governance leads to differing health outcomes across different countries in the region. Comparing the contexts and outcomes in Sri Lanka, Pakistan, India, Nepal and Bangladesh, the book asks how power sharing arrangements between central and subnational layers of government nevertheless result in varying levels of success across issues such as infant and under-five mortality rates. The book will interest students and scholars of South Asia politics, Global Health and health policy more generally.

Decolonising and Reframing Critical Social Work

Research and Stories from Practice

Sophie Goldingay , Joleen Ryan , Angela Daddow

This book problematises and then reshapes critical social work to bring a range of perspectives to what constitutes truly effective and ethical social work practice, moving beyond binary oppositions (where two states or concepts that are defined as opposite to each other) to create new words and concepts to be inclusive of a range of identities, practice contexts, and groups or communities of service users. It will be of interest to researchers, practitioners and students who are keen to engage with the latest in the field of critical social work and consider implications of this for the development of their own identity.

Metacognition, Metahumanities, and Medical Education

Thinking Without the Box

Alan Bleakley , Quentin Eichbaum , Rachel Ellaway

Series: Routledge Advances in the Medical Humanities

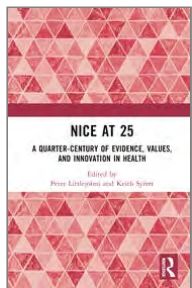

This persuasive volume develops a novel approach to medical education and the medical humanities, making a case for the integration of the two to explore the ways in which 'warm' humanism and 'cold' technologies can come together to design humane posthumanist futures in medicine. This book is an important contribution to debates around the medical humanities and its role in medical education. It is an essential read for scholars with an interest in these areas, as well as those working in science and technology studies and the sociology of health and illness.

Showing Social Solidarity with Future Generations

Marianne Takle

Series: Routledge Advances in Health and Social Policy

Today's generations can affect the future ecosystem more than any previous generations and aggravate the welfare of future people. People who have not yet been born are excluded from political decisions important to their lives. Due to the future generations' lack of influence, current generations have a responsibility to act. This book examines when commitments to future generations are followed up in practice and in what situations they are not.

Social Welfare Programs and Social Work Education at a Crossroads

New Approaches for a Post-Pandemic Society

Edited by Antonio López Peláez UNED, Spain, Annaline Keet, Chung Moon Sung

Series: Routledge Advances in Social Work

This book explores a key phenomenon that has been accelerated by the COVID-19 crisis, namely, the crossroads at which social welfare professionals find themselves. This is a crossroads where, on the one hand, there is an accelerated digitalization process and a reorganization of social programs, while on the other hand, we are confronted by the basic challenge of designing social policies and their methods of evaluation, that is, the generation of robust data that will allow better evaluation of social projects and programs. It will be of interest to all academics, students and practitioners working in the fields of social work, social welfare and social development.

2ND EDITION

Viral Pandemics

From Smallpox to COVID-19 & Mpox

Edited by Rae-Ellen Kavey , Allison Kavey

The new edition of Viral Pandemics illuminates how the increasing emergence of novel viruses has combined with intensifying global interconnectedness to create an escalating spiral of viral disease. It includes an introduction to the key characteristics of viral pathogens that make them so dangerous followed by a comprehensive survey of epidemic viral disease from 1900 to the present. This book is ideal reading for students of public health and its history, the history of medicine and medical anthropology, as well as general readers keen to understand how viral pandemics have shaped, and continue to shape, millions of lives.

Women's Health and Corporate Marketing

Our Bodies, Their Business

Edited by Mary Hunter

This compelling collection of essays examines how historically significant marketing schemes have profoundly impacted women's health and healthcare across the world. Written by scholars and activists from a range of disciplines, including law, sociology and the health sciences, the book spotlights a range of products that have had a damaging impact on women's health, unpicking the values and assumption engrained within the marketing campaigns which promoted them. A powerful critique of the unethical and paternalistic approach of some corporations, this book will find readers among students in Public Health, Allied Health, Gender Studies, Sociology and beyond.

A Political Sociology of Twenty-First Century Revolutions and Resistances

From the Arab World and Iran to Africa, Ukraine and France

Kevin Anderson

Kevin B. Anderson critically examines the revolutions, uprisings, and national resistance that have arisen across the Middle East and North Africa, Sudan, South Africa, Ukraine, and France in the past fifteen years, providing a snapshot of geopolitical events. The book represents an effort to analyze world events, especially revolutions and radical movements, in a dialectical manner, combining contemporary analysis of the class, gender, and ethnic dimensions of these upheavals with theoretical and historical reflection that engages Hegel, Marx, Lenin, Rosa Luxemburg, CLR James, Raya Dunayevskaya, and other thinkers in the Marxian tradition.

A Sociological Approach to Commodification

The Case of Transforming the Post-Socialist Society in Poland

Marek Ziółkowski, Rafał Drozdowski, Mariusz Baranowski

Series: Routledge Advances in Sociology

This book analyses the processes of commodification and de-commodification which have wrought changes in Polish society since 1945. Examining the case of Poland, this book also explores comparisons to other countries in the Eastern European region. It is the first book to capture long-term social change from the perspective of commodification and de-commodification processes. This book will appeal to sociologists, economists, historians, anthropologists and political scientists, especially to students and scholars interested in theoretical economics and economic sociology as well as Central and Eastern Europe.

A Sociological Perspective on Blood Plasma Donation During the Pandemic

Convalescent Gifts and Liminality

Jae-Mahn Shim, Seung-Hyun Baek

Series: Routledge Advances in Sociology

Shim and Baek examine the evolving existential meanings of gift-making by interviewing donors of convalescent blood plasma during the Covid-19 pandemic. The book reveals what plasma donation means for their efforts to reassemble their lives from being liminal moments to livable experiences, through interviews with convalescent donors in South Korea. A vital read for scholars, students of sociology, anthropology, and public health and those interested in how subjects reconstitute their agency amid uncertainty inside and outside the pandemic, so that we appreciate the voices of donors and learn from the lived experiences of those in this book.

A Weberian Perspective on Home, Nature and Sport

Disenchantment and Salvation

Michael Symonds

Series: Classical and Contemporary Social Theory

This book extends Max Weber's theory of the value-spheres of modernity into wholly new areas, showing that the addition of home, nature and sport to Weber's own list of five spheres (economic, scientific/intellectual, political/legal, erotic and aesthetic) yields original insights into these aspects of modernity and modernity itself.

Abortion in the Age of Unreason

A Doctor's Account of Caring for Women Before and After Roe v. Wade

Warren M. Hern

A nationally prominent doctor reports the daily challenges of offering and receiving abortion services in a volatile political atmosphere. In stories from the front lines—from protecting patients and staff from protesters' attacks to the dangers to women of restricted access to abortion services, Hern's book exposes the needs of women and the U. S. national interest. Hern—an abortion specialist, researcher, scholar, and public advocate—shows how abortion saves women's lives given the many risks that arise during pregnancy. He points to political and national solutions to reverse a reawakened crisis that now threatens democracy.

Academia versus the World Outside

Institutionalized Knowledge and Its Discontents

Bruce Fleming US Naval Academy, USA

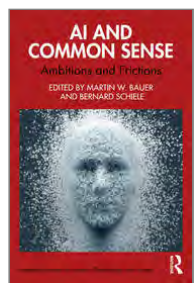

The book explains the givens of the knowledge industry within the ivory tower, colleges and universities. It then moves outside academia to consider this restricted world the way most people see it. The contrast between these two views of academia explains and is at the basis of a major portion of the left-right animosity of our day. Most academics are so immersed in their projects that they are unaware of and unsympathetic to the fact that people outside live very different lives. Most non-academics, for their part, find academia strange for very good reason. Academia versus the World Outside makes this contrast and conflict clear from both directions.

Aníbal Quijano

Dissidences and Crossroads of Latin American Critical Theory

Edited by Deni Alfaro Rubbo State University of Mato Grosso do Sul, Brazil

Series: Classic and Contemporary Latin American Social Theory

One of the prominent thinkers in the Social Sciences, Aníbal Quijano (1930-2018), has a fundamental work for the compression of contemporary dilemmas since his main theoretical and political concerns have always been linked to the mutations of world capitalism and its reverse paths. This book aims to contribute with analyses of his voluminous and diversified production distributed practically over sixty years of intellectual trajectory. It is addressed to those interested in knowing not only the history of social sciences in Latin America but mainly in understanding the historical roots and the political dilemmas of peripheral capitalist societies.

Belief, Behavior, and Health

Religion as a Social Determinant of Health

Sandra D. Lane

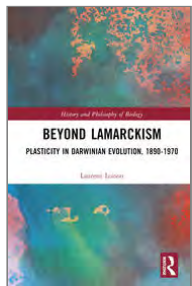

This book uniquely examines, across cultures, the health benefits and detriments of religious beliefs, with important implications for individual well-being and human survival. Lane's detailed studies of beliefs about Judaism, Christianity, and Islam led to the author's deep observations on how religious belief and practice, as well as discrimination due to religious prejudice, can be a major influence on health, both positively and negatively. In this book Lane shows how religious precepts, and cultural influences on religious behavior, function as social determinants of health.

Beyond Lamarckism

Plasticity in Darwinian Evolution, 1890-1970

Laurent Loison CNRS, France

Series: History and Philosophy of Biology

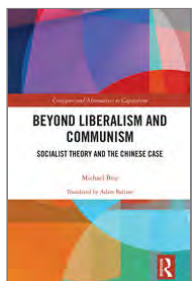

The question of how the plasticity of organisms could play a causal role in Darwinian evolution was raised on two separate occasions: around 1900 with the emergence of the theory of organic selection, and during the formation of the Modern Synthesis itself, in the mid-20th century. Out of these reflections emerged organic selection, stabilizing selection, genetic assimilation, Baldwin effect, etc. This book looks at the reasons why these conceptions have been downplayed in the standard understanding of adaptive evolution. Showing the extraordinary complexity of this history, the book is aimed at readers interested in evolutionary theory, whether philosophers, biologists or historians.

BrAsian Family Practices and Reflexivity

Behind the Boxing Ropes

Izram Chaudry University of Bradford, UK

Series: Routledge Advances in Sociology

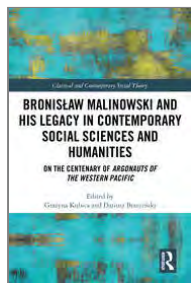

Through an analysis of several case studies involving men and women amateur and professional boxers, BrAsian Family Practices and Reflexivity: Behind the Boxing Ropes challenges stereotypical depictions of BrAsian parental practices. Offering an alternative perspective, this book considers how BrAsian parents engage in reflexive deliberation as opposed to passively adhering to religious edicts or cultural diktats prior to promoting or preventing their child's personal projects. In the process Chaudry unearths how family relationship dynamics reflect their religious, cultured, gendered and classed beliefs.

Change and Disruption

Sociology of the Future

Roberta Garner DePaul University, USA, Black Hawk Hancock DePaul University, USA

Change and Disruption: Sociology of the Future draws on classical and modern sociological theory to identify recent and emerging trends in the global system. The book probes the rise of authoritarian states, rifts in the relation between humans and the rest of nature, the coming impact of artificial intelligence, and changes in work, cities, science, and the quality of life. These dynamics are explored through the animating question: will the positive potential of the modern world be realized or will the human condition spiral downward?

China on the Rise

The Transformation of Structural Power in the Era of Multipolarity

Efe Can Gürcan Istinye University, Turkey, Can Donduran Istinye University, Turkey

Series: Capitalism, Power and the Imperial State

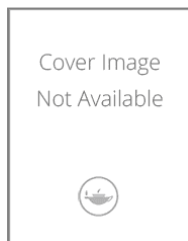

This book analyses China's multidimensional rise in the context of the international political economy, drawing on Susan Strange's concept of 'structural power.' Examining the sources of Chinese power along with its geopolitical, economic, and cultural reflections, the authors consider how China's rise is linked with the incremental process of multipolarization in world politics. Providing a systematic, analytical, and empirically rich account of China's surge in the international political economy, this study will appeal to scholars, policy-makers, and students with interests in China studies, international political economy, and international relations.

Communicative Reason

A Sociological Restatement

Patrick O'Mahony University College Cork, Ireland

Series: Routledge Studies in Social and Political Thought

The book examines philosophical and sociological approaches within critical theory and more widely from the vantage point of communicative reason. It seeks to revitalize the sociological dimension of critical theory by advancing a critical sociology of reason. It does so fully in the knowledge that reason is a contentious concept in sociology and other disciplines. Nonetheless, building on Habermas's original insight, it argues that an extensively modified version of communicative reason is indispensable.

Darcy Ribeiro, Civilisation and Nation

Social Theory from Latin America

Edited by Adelia Miglievich-Ribeiro Universidade Federal do Espírito Santo, Brazil

Series: Classic and Contemporary Latin American Social Theory

This book introduces the life and work of Darcy Ribeiro (1922–1997), one of the foremost exponents of Brazilian/Latin American social thought in the twentieth century. It examines Ribeiro's work in conversation with other great names of Latin American critical thought, and introduces the contemporary epistemological movement he inspired, 'Modernity-Coloniality-Decoloniality'. It will appeal to all those interested in studying global asymmetries, social inequalities, and obstacles to development in Latin America. Scholars and students of sociology, social theory, anthropology, Latin American studies, political history, and education will find it useful.

Dark Emotions

Difficult Emotional Experiences in Social and Everyday Life

Edited by Michael Hviid Jacobsen Aalborg University, Denmark

Series: Classical and Contemporary Social Theory

Each chapter in the book is devoted to introducing different 'dark emotions' such as disappointment, betrayal, worry, regret, resentment and alienation and seeks to show – through conceptual, theoretical and empirical examples – how these emotions influence peoples' lives and their relations to self, others and society. The book thus provides an overview of some dark emotions that are recognizable in our everyday lives and culture. It contains accessible introductions and relevant theoretical and empirical research on 12 different kinds of 'dark emotions'.

Death and the Afterlife

Multidisciplinary Perspectives from a Global City

Edited by Kit Ying Lye Singapore University of Social Sciences, Singapore, Terence Heng University of Liverpool, UK

Series: Routledge Advances in Sociology

This edited collection offers a multidisciplinary perspective of how individuals and collectives "do" death and interact with the dead. It moves beyond "Western" sites of knowledge by offering a series of multidisciplinary perspectives on death practices, drawn from research with individuals, groups and organisations that identify themselves as Singaporean Chinese, and the spaces and places often related to as 'Chinese Singapore'. The key target audiences would include, but are not limited to those interested in Asia, particularly Chinese studies and Chinese migrant/diasporic communities, and scholars in Sociology, History, Anthropology and Social/Cultural Geography.

Eco-Thoughts

Conversations with a Polluted Mind

Anna Lisa Tota University Roma Tre, Italy

This book offers "eco-words" and "eco-thoughts" as it sheds light on the traps that our minds construct for ourselves, that we so often fall into whether we mean to or not. It examines the erroneous paths that we sometimes meander down while we are thinking in our everyday lives, in order to help us to identify and avoid them. An original and thought-provoking examination of how are own internal lives can become toxic, and how to prevent this, that will be of particular value to students and scholars of sociology, philosophy, communication studies, memory studies, and social psychology.

Fertility and Childcare in East Asia

Gender Dynamics and Intergenerational Support

Edited by Xiaogang Wu NYU Shanghai, China, Muzhi Zhou Hong Kong University of Science and Technology, China, Man-Yee Kan University of Oxford, UK

This textbook explores recent research on the topics of gender inequalities, intergenerational support, and family in select East Asian societies, including China, Hong Kong, Taiwan, and Japan. The chapters in this book uncover dynamic and evolving couple and intergenerational relationships within families in East Asia, together with the persistent impact on time use, housework and childcare. This insightful collection is a rare and valuable resource to study gender and family relations in East Asia, a rapidly developing region with a shared Confucian culture. The chapters in this book were originally published in Chinese Sociological Review.

Fearless Change and Social Action in Difficult Times

Exploring Sociological Insights for Social Transformation

Paula Donnelly Roark

Our divided politics, unable to solve the challenges we face concerning society's hierarchies of injustice, poverty, endless war, and climate change, are now backtracking to even more division. But the reality goes far deeper than the simple politics of left and right. For true change we need something more profound: a culture shift, a collective change of consciousness. Offering significant contributions to sociology and social theory, this book promotes an understanding that societal change is rooted in social power and cultural shifts.

Fifty Key Scholars in Black Social Thought

Edited by Marie-Claude Jigmeup-Akhtar Howard University, USA, Nazneen M. Khan Randolph-Macon College, USA

Series: Routledge Key Guides

This volume is a collaborative volume that uplifts and explores the intellectual activism and scholarly contributions of Black social thinkers. It implores readers to integrate the research of Black scholars into their teaching and research, and fundamentally, to rethink the dominant epistemological claims and philosophical underpinnings of the Western social sciences. It offers an accessible starting point for exploring the work of Black scholars past and present and their contributions to sociology and the social sciences more broadly. It is useful to students, academics, practitioners, and the lay public who are curious about Black social thought.

Feeling Climate Change

How Emotions Govern Our Responses to the Climate Emergency

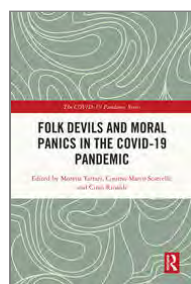

Debra J. Davidson

Examining the social response to the mounting impacts of climate change, Feeling Climate Change illuminates what the pathways from emotions to social change look like – and how they work – so we can recognize and inform our collective attempts to avert further climate catastrophe. Providing a crucial understanding of our emotionality and its role in individual behavior, collective action, and ultimately in social change, this book offers researchers, policymakers and citizens essential insights to our personal and collective responses to the climate emergency.

Folk Devils and Moral Panics in the COVID-19 Pandemic

Edited by Morena Tartari, Cosimo Marco Scarcelli University of Padova, Italy, Cirus Rinaldi

Series: The COVID-19 Pandemic Series

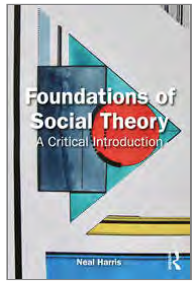

In this volume, moral panic scholars from various disciplines examine case studies of moral panics related to the COVID-19 pandemic. These analyses consider the different social, political, economic, organizational, and cultural contexts within which such moral panics emerged and assess how the concept of moral panic can be deployed to offer novel insights into sociocultural responses to the outbreak. By utilizing both classical approaches to moral panic analysis and more recent trends, chapters discuss the utility of the concept of moral panic that is, for the first time, applied to a global-scale event like the COVID-19 pandemic.

Gender Fields

The Social Organisation of Gender Identity

Sofia Aboim, Pedro Vasconcelos

Series: Routledge Research in Gender and Society

Exploring gender through the lens of field theory, Gender Fields proposes a new framework for understanding the social organisation of gender identity. In conversation with Pierre Bourdieu's field theory, the book conceptualises under-theorised situated dimensions of gender, bridging the gap between macro and micro theories of gender. Drawing on extensive fieldwork, the authors situate gender as a critical site of autonomous socio-political struggle and highlight the centrality of the transgender experience in redefining gendered personhood and freedom. It will appeal to scholars across the social sciences with an interest in issues of gender, social theory and identity.

Human Rights Praxis and the Struggle for Survival

William T. Armaline, Davita Silfen Glasberg

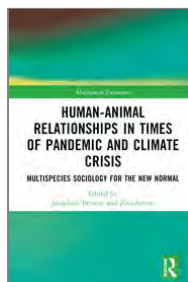

Asserting a critical sociological perspective, Human Rights Praxis and the Struggle for Survival reveals the contested historical processes through which fundamental human needs are constructed as "rights" under international law, and how those rights are confronted by the ruling relations and crises inherent to contemporary global capitalism and the waning American hegemonic world order. Human Rights Praxis and the Struggle for Survival offers critical analysis of contemporary politics and options for students, scholars, organizers, and stakeholders to grapple with some of the most pressing social problems of human history.

Human-Animal Relationships in Times of Pandemic and Climate Crisis

Multispecies Sociology for the New Normal

Edited by Josephine Browne Griffith University, Australia,
Zoi Sutton Flinders University, Australia

Series: Multispecies Encounters

This book situates sociological research as a vital tool for understanding, and responding to, the multispecies entanglements that cause, inform and arise from states of crisis involving the environment, climate and zoonotic disease transmission. Considering the consequences of a range of multispecies engagements that challenge the perceived distinction between the social worlds of humans and other animals, it explores the themes of crisis through a range of studies, including ecological disturbance, consumer culture, intensive farming and interspecies relations in urban life.

Immigration Detention and Social Harm

The Collateral Impacts of Migrant Incarceration

Edited by Michelle Peterie University of Sydney, Australia

Immigration detention has significant negative impacts on detainees' physical, emotional and social health. Though these harms are well documented, as are the conditions and practices that contribute to them, the collateral harms that immigration detention regimes impose have received comparatively little attention. These radiating impacts are the focus of this book. Applying a gender and race lens to immigration detention, Immigration Detention and Social Harm argues that calls for detention reform must be replaced by bolder demands for detention abolition – positing that harm is so embedded in immigration detention systems that reform is no longer possible.

3RD EDITION

Individual and Society

Sociological Social Psychology

Edited by Lizbeth A. Crawford, Katherine B. Novak

Unlike other texts for undergraduate sociological social psychology courses, Individual and Society covers each of the three research traditions in sociological social psychology—symbolic interactionism, social structure and personality, and group processes and structures. With this approach, the authors make clear the link between sociological social psychology, theory, and methodology. Students will gain a better understanding of how and why social psychologists trained in sociology ask particular kinds of questions; the types of research they are involved in; and how their findings have been, or can be, applied to contemporary societal patterns and problems.

Intersectional (Feminist) Activisms

Global Practices and Experiences

Edited by Serena D'Agostino Vrije Universiteit Brussel, Belgium, Nadia E. Brown Georgetown University, USA

The edited volume tackles two main questions: first, what are the main claims, struggles, and possibilities of contemporary intersectional feminisms; and second, how shall we, as scholars, address intersectional (feminist) activisms in our research – theoretically, methodologically, and empirically. It goes beyond the Western hegemony in intersectionality-related research, bringing in practices, experiences, and critical perspectives of feminist scholars and activists who are not necessarily located in the most privileged social, political, and financial milieus. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Journal of Women, Politics, and Policy.

Introduction to Sociology Through Comedy

Julie Morris

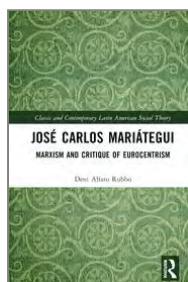

Introduction to Sociology Through Comedy teaches foundational sociological concepts using comedy, first considering the history of sociology before employing examples from comedians – including standalone comedy bits, sketches, characters, and scenes – to illustrate a specific theory, concept, or social phenomenon. The profession of comedy is then used as a case study for the application of sociological concepts, such as impression management, social stratification, racial segregation, deviance, and stigma, allowing readers to learn gain familiarity with the concept while simultaneously practicing its application.

Legacies of Injustice

The African Slave Trade, Colonialism, and Today's Human Rights

Steve Carlton-Ford

This book examines the impact of the African slave trade and colonialism on political, civil, economic, social, and environmental human rights. Using multiple combined data sets, the book demonstrates that many contemporary human rights issues stem from the impact of the African slave trade and subsequent colonialism as well as the disruption of economic and political development in colonies. This important book will be of interest to students studying in courses covering human rights, Africa and Africana studies and history, comparative ethnic studies, historical sociology, and global studies of the African slave trade.

Mad Studies Reader

Interdisciplinary Innovations in Mental Health

Edited by Bradley Lewis, Alisha Ali, Jazmine Russell

With particular focus on accounts of lived experience and readings that cover issues of epistemic and social injustice in mental health discourse, the Mad Studies Reader brings together voices that advance anti-sanist approaches to scholarship, practice, art, and activism in this realm. This collection will be of interest to mental health clinicians; students and scholars of the arts, humanities and social sciences; and anyone who has been affected by mental difference, directly or indirectly, who is curious to explore new perspectives.

Magic, Science and Society

Alex Dennis

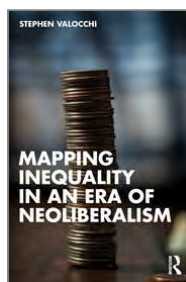

Series: Routledge Advances in Sociology

Magic, Science and Society investigates the way the 'rationality debate' has developed over the last century, from E.E. Evans-Pritchard's study of Azande magic, through Peter Winch's argument that there can be no such thing as a social science, across the arguments about the proper status of science in the 1970s and 1980s, to the 'epistemological' and 'ontological' turns of the early 21st century.

Mapping Inequality in an Era of Neoliberalism

Stephen Valocchi

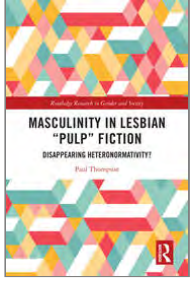

Mapping Inequality in an Era of Neoliberalism foregrounds capitalism as the major source of the power relations in the United States, as a class system that serves the dominant vector of inequality and sets the parameters of social mobility. The book starts with "racialized" capitalist power and shows how this power is constituted in structures of opportunity and constraint, using ethnographic accounts to "flip the script" to show how individuals in the class structure construct identities.

Masculinity in Lesbian "Pulp" Fiction

Disappearing Heteronormativity?

Paul Thompson University of St Andrews, UK

Series: Routledge Research in Gender and Society

This book looks specifically and in depth, for the first time, at masculinity in cheap, lesbian-themed paperbacks of the two decades after WW2. It challenges established critical assumptions about the readership, and sets the masculinity imagined in these novels against the "masculinity crisis" of the era in which they were written. A valuable read for sociologists studying gender roles, and social historians of the cold war period in the United States. It is suitable for readers of all academic levels, from undergraduate, through postgraduate, to scholars and researchers, but also for a general readership.

2ND EDITION

My Father's Wars

Migration, Memory, and the Violence of a Century

Alisse Waterston CUNY John Jay, USA

Series: Innovative Ethnographies

"My father was born into war," begins this remarkable saga in Alisse Waterston's intimate ethnography. An anthropologist's vivid account of her father's journey across continents, countries, cultures, languages, generations—and wars. A daughter's moving portrait of a charming, funny, wounded, and difficult man, his relationships with those he loved, and his most sacred of beliefs. And a scholar's reflection on the dramatic forces of history, the experience of exile and immigration, the legacies of culture, and the enduring power of memory. This book is for Anthropology and Sociology courses in qualitative methods, ethnography, violence, migration, and ethnicity.

Populism as Governmental Practice

Spatial, Operational and Temporal Dynamics

Toygar Sinan Baykan Kırklareli University, Turkey

Series: Routledge Studies in Social and Political Thought

This book illustrates how populism functions as a phenomenon of power and draws attention to the brighter and darker consequences of populist rule for ordinary people across the world via bottom-up analyses of populist experiences of government in remarkably different national contexts including Turkey, Venezuela, Greece, India, Philippines, Egypt and the US. Through an interpretive perspective focusing on the bounded rationalities and moral economies embedded in the populist rule and popular obedience to it, the text would appeal to researchers and students of politics and its sub-disciplines as well as to the general audience curious about micro dynamics of populist rule.

Predicted Humans

Emerging Technologies and the Burden of Sensemaking

Simona Chiodo Politecnico di Milano, Italy

Series: Media, Culture and Critique: Future Imperfect

This book reflects on seminal texts in western culture to argue that predicting our future renders much of our existence the automated effect of various causes, which, in turn, helps to alleviate the existential burden of autonomously making sense of our lives in a more competitive, demanding, accelerated society. An exploration of our tendency in a technological era to engineer and so rid ourselves of that which has hitherto been our primary reason for being - making life plans for a successful future - Predicted Humans will appeal to scholars of philosophy and social theory with interests in moral responsibility in an increasingly technological world.

Progressing Critical Posthuman Perspectives in Health Sociology

Edited by Kim McLeod University of Tasmania, Australia, and Simone Fullagar

This book shows the potential of posthuman thinking for rethinking health care, experiences, subjects and interventions. It explores a range of posthuman dilemmas across diverse health issues as contributors grapple with the ethical, ontological and epistemological relations of knowing and doing health. It problematizes the rational, agentic individual as the key driver of health-related action and experience. This book was originally published as a special issue of Health Sociology Review.

Radical Ecology in the Face of the Anthropocene Extinction

A New and Urgent Philosophy for Complexity in the Social Sciences

Edited by John A. Smith University of Greenwich, UK, and Anna Wilson University of Glasgow, UK

Series: Routledge Advances in Sociology

This book has two interlocking ambitions. The first is to steer what we purposefully call the idioms of critical philosophy towards a more ecologically-informed paradigm. The second is to recognise that what has rightly come to be called The Anthropocene Extinction is not and cannot be treated as simply a scientific fact but is rather a socio-political and ecological dispute of immense complexity. This book will interest social scientists interested in not only describing and critiquing but also understanding and responding to the complex problems facing humanity and social science scholars wanting to make sense of social phenomena.

Reframing Suicide

The Development of Critical Suicide Studies

Edited by Katrina Jaworski, Ian Marsh Canterbury Christ Church University, Kent, United Kingdom

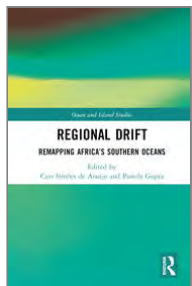

This book focuses on understanding and researching suicide and suicide prevention from historical, political, cultural, social, and philosophical perspectives, all of which are located in particular contexts of research and practice. The collected works in this book offer interventions into the way suicide and suicide prevention have been understood in different contexts, be it in relation to the history of knowledge production and its approaches, practices of suicide prevention, and more recent examples of how suicide is represented, both publicly and personally. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Social Epistemology.

Regional Drift

Remapping Africa's Southern Oceans

Edited by Pamela Gupta University of Witswatersrand, South Africa, Caio Simões de Araújo University of the Western Cape, South Africa

Series: Ocean and Island Studies

This book examines the Southern Indian Ocean corridor as a geographic, geological, and atmospheric space, taking a critical oceanic humanities approach while never losing sight of the land and water interface. With a diverse set of case studies, they explore a variety of conceptual framings and methodologies, including science-technology-society studies, tourism and heritage studies, history, and international relations – among others. A fresh approach to thinking about Atlantic and Indian Ocean coastlines in a relational and scalar manner for scholars across a range of disciplines focussed on Southern Africa.

Religious Satire in the Era of New Atheism

Do You 'Seriously Believe That' After 9/11

Jerry C. Jaffe Lake Erie College, USA

Series: The Cultural Politics of Media and Popular Culture

Religious Satire in the Era of New Atheism presents a contemporary account of religious satire as evidenced by the modern art of stand-up comedy. With attention to the demonstrable rise in religious satire following the events of September 11th, 2001, the author considers the clear link between this increase and the New Atheist movement, exploring shared themes and presence at specific events, such that stand-up comedy represents the Avant Garde of the New Atheists.

Sex, Gender, Ethics and the Darwinian Evolution of Mankind

150 years of Darwin's 'Descent of Man'

Edited by Michel Veuille Université Paris Sciences Lettres (PSL), France

Series: History and Philosophy of Biology

Sex, Gender, Ethics, and the Darwinian Evolution of Humanity examines the impact of Darwin's 'Descent of Man' on contemporary biology and the humanities. Several fields influenced by Darwinian anthropology developed in recent decades, including evolutionary ethics, the evolution of sociality and sexual communication in animal and plant species. Sociobiology and evolutionary psychology are topics that draw heavily on Darwin's 'Descent of Man'. The book combines a historical perspective on Darwin's achievement and his legacy. It will be of interest to students and scholars in a variety of fields, from experimental biology to the social and historical sciences.

Society and the Environment

Pragmatic Solutions to Ecological Issues

Michael S Carolan

The fourth edition of Society and the Environment centers its discussion on realistic solutions to the problems that persist and examines current controversies within a socio-organizational context, shifting focus away from simply explaining what is wrong with the world around us. Introducing this "pragmatic environmentalism," Carolan discusses the complex pressures and variables that exist where ecology and society collide with further attention given to the social phenomena and structural dynamics driving today's environmental problems, the book concludes with an important reflection on truly sustainable solutions and what constitutes meaningful social change.

States of Surveillance

Ethnographies of New Technologies in Policing and Justice

Edited by Maya Avis Max Planck Institute for Social Anthropology, Germany, Daniel Marciniak University of Hull, UK, Maria Sapignoli University of Milan, Italy

Series: Routledge Studies in Surveillance

Drawing on ethnographic research in contexts from across the globe, the contributions to this volume engage with technology's promises of transformation, scrutinise established ways of thinking that become embedded through technologies, critically consider the dynamics that shape the political economy driving the expansion of security technologies, and examine how those at the margins navigate experiences of surveillance. The book is intended for an interdisciplinary academic audience interested in ethnographic approaches to the study of surveillance technologies in policing and justice.

Telling Stories of Pain and Hope

Museums in South Africa and Ireland

Edited by Mary Elizabeth Lange, Ruth Teer-Tomaselli

Series: Routledge/UNISA Press Series

Recognising that museums of the 21st century have the potential to contribute to catharsis and mutual understanding, this book reflects on selected museums in South Africa and Ireland that commemorate the pain of the past and the hope for the future. The primary focus of the book is the way in which museum guides, curators and managers share their stories and the stories of their ancestors, and the stories of other people's ancestors who were caught up in the conflict while interweaving the stories of the authors as well. Print edition not for sale in Sub Saharan Africa.

Ten Essays for a 21st Century Socialism

Tony Andréani University of Paris 8, France

Series: Critiques and Alternatives to Capitalism

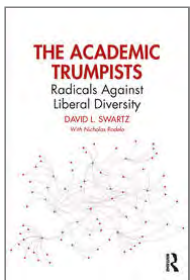

This book explores possible and realistic alternatives to a capitalism that is no longer sustainable, whether economically, socially, or for a habitable planet. Arguing that these alternatives can only be of socialist orientation, the author moves from a discussion of works that attempted to explain the failure of the socialisms of the 20th century, to a consideration of models for a new socialism.

The Academic Trumpists

Radicals Against Liberal Diversity

David L. Swartz

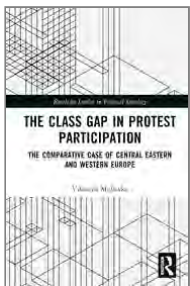

There has been an outpouring of research on populist conservatism since the advent of the Trump presidency and extreme right movements in Europe. Much less studied, however, is the growing political conservatism in the American academy and how it relates to populist sentiment. The Academic Trumpists addresses a gap in the research literature by looking at the impact of Trumpism on conservative faculty and will appeal to readers interested in the politics of higher education, the sociology of intellectuals, political sociology, and research on conservative and right-wing populism politics in America today.

The Making of Council Democracy

State Transformation and Radical Possibilities

Babak Amini York University, Toronto, Canada

Series: Critiques and Alternatives to Capitalism

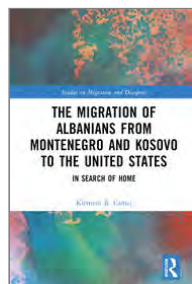

"Council democracy" is a particular form of democratic socialism that strives towards democratic self-governance on the basis of active, free, and associated individuals working cooperatively within a federated council system. Both in political practice and social theory, "council democracy" has resurfaced periodically in the past, most notably in the interwar period, in the "long 1960s", and since the turn of the 21st century. This book offers a novel theoretical and methodological approach to the study of "council democracy".

The Politics of Transdisciplinarity

Collaboration and Control at the Interface of Science, Policy and Society

Edited by Jeremias Herberg, Ulli Vilsmaier

This book discusses collaborative research as both a product of social and epistemic control, and as a process of dealing with it. It offers fresh multi-disciplinary perspectives on old questions that are gaining new urgency with the rise of participatory, transdisciplinary and transformative research. The volume addresses the complexity of collaborative research at the interface of science, policy and society and sheds light on a common dilemma: researchers and their collaborators tackling issues that require political and knowledge-based control. It was originally published as a special issue of Social Epistemology.

The Pragmatics of Governmental Discourse

Resilience, Sustainability and Wellbeing

Ayan-Yue Gupta University of Bristol, UK
Series: Routledge Advances in Sociology

This book presents a novel methodological framework for analysing governmental discourse that combines pragmatist perspectives on language with computational sociolinguistics and large language models. Drawing upon pragmatist views on meaning, the book critiques these critical traditions, arguing that understanding how discourse grounds social structures and power relations must begin with a systematic understanding of how meaning is contextually fixed. A pragmatist reading of Foucault's arguments about governmentality that incorporates David Lewis' scorekeeping framework and relevance theory is advocated for as a framework for discourse analysis.

The Riddle of Organismal Agency

New Historical and Philosophical Reflections

Edited by Alejandro Fábregas-Tejeda, Jan Baedke Ruhr University Bochum, Germany, Guido I. Prieto, Gregory Radick

Series: History and Philosophy of Biology

The Riddle of Organismal Agency brings together historians, philosophers and scientists for an interdisciplinary re-assessment of one of the long-standing problems in the scientific understanding of life. Marshalling insights from diverse sciences including physiology, comparative psychology, developmental biology, and evolutionary biology, the book provides an up-to-date survey of approaches to non-human organisms as agents, capable of performing activities serving their own goals such as surviving or reproducing, and whose doings in the world are thus to be explained teleologically.

The Routledge International Handbook of Valuation and Society

Edited by Anne Krüger Berlin-Brandenburg Academy of Sciences and Humanities, Germany, Thorsten Peetz University of Bremen, Germany, Hilmar Schaefer Humboldt-Universität zu Berlin, Germany

Series: Routledge International Handbooks

This International handbook builds on the growing research interest in practices of valuation throughout contemporary society, providing an up-to-date overview of the different facets of research in the sociology of valuation. It is divided into five major sections: Part I: Theoretical perspectives; Part II: Central valuation practices in societal spheres; Part III: Cross-cutting valuation practices; Part IV: Valuation and societal change; Part V: Reflections. It will appeal to scholars across the social sciences with interest in the ubiquity of the valuation practices and its effects on social life.

The Sociology of Cardi B

A Trap Feminist Approach

Aaryn L. Green, Maretta Darnell McDonald, Veronica A. Newton, Candice C. Robinson, Shantee Rosado

This powerfully written and co-authored book creatively engages with the topics of Black and Latinx femininity, motherhood, sexuality, racial and ethnic identity, and political engagement through the life and artistic work of hip hop artist Cardi B. By centering the lived experiences and social positions of the Black women Cardi represents, the authors expand Black feminist discourse and entrust Black women to define themselves for themselves. This book is an important contribution to scholarship for students, scholars, and readers interested in sociology, hip hop, pop culture, and women's studies.

Trafficking and the Conscience of Humanity

A Social and Legal Examination of Child Trafficking

Larry May

Human trafficking has become the scourge of the 21st century, with child trafficking arguably its worst form. As vulnerable children are lured into prostitution, pornography and other forms of exploitation, there is only a patchwork legal regime trying to deal with child trafficking. Trafficking and the Conscience of Humanity assesses this legal regime, arguing that a more coordinated and international response is needed.

Turkish Muslim Women in Berlin

Navigating Boundaries in the City

Ceren Kukul

Series: Routledge Research in Race and Ethnicity

Kukul presents her ethnographic work with Turkish Muslim women in Berlin as evidence that community is not an entity, but is produced by instrumentalizing specific forms of identification and boundary-making. In examining the role of community in the case of her participants, Kukul finds that religion and culture are important not for the values they perpetuate, but for their role in forming and sustaining the community. She looks at the importance of boundaries and especially their reciprocity. A valuable read for scholars of migration and culture, which will especially interest scholars focussed on Europe.

Understanding Society through a Systems Approach

Interdisciplinary Perspectives from the Social Sciences

Kim Dong-Hwan

Kim offers an accessible, interdisciplinary textbook using systems theory as a framework to stimulate discussion about how the social sciences develop understanding of society and its evolution. It promotes an integrated view of the social sciences by proposing politics, economics, administration, and community as the core areas of society, and explains their characteristics, how they are moved by what kind of systems, and how they have evolved through their interrelationships. It is designed for a wide range of students in sociology, politics and economics, encouraging interdisciplinary thinking and understanding.

Urban Preppers and the Pandemic in New York City

Class, Resilience and Sheltering in Place

Anna Maria Bounds Check never cashed and unable to obtain bank details from author.

Series: Routledge Studies in Urban Sociology

Drawing on urban and community resilience literature, Urban Preppers and the Pandemic in New York City: Class, Resilience and Sheltering in Place offers a detailed qualitative analysis of the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic on New York City and on the philosophy and practices of the city's urban prepper subculture. At its core, this book is about understanding New York City's pandemic experience and how self-reliance evolves into community resilience outside of institutions. It is vital reading scholars and students of sociology, anthropology, geography and urban studies with interests in subcultures, ethnography and the sociology of disasters.

Voices of Intimate Partner Homicide

An Exploration of Coercive Control and Lethality

Donna J. King

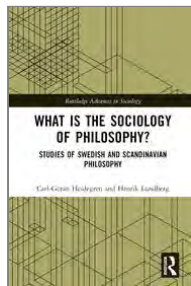

In the United States, and most parts of the world, law, policy, policing, and prevention work addressing domestic and intimate partner violence is created and enacted based on a violence model. Voices of Intimate Partner Homicide takes a critical look at these misconceived notions and sheds light on multiple non-violent forms of controlling behavior that precipitate intimate partner homicide. Practitioners, advocates, researchers, and students will find this text valuable in their research and understanding of Intimate Partner Violence and Homicide.

Women and the Sikh Diaspora in California

Singing the Seven Seas

Nicole Ranganath University of California Davis, USA

Series: Ocean and Island Studies

This book charts the transoceanic history of South Asian women in California through their speech and songs across the twentieth century. Based on six years of fieldwork in rural northern California, it explores song as a window into the interior lives of Sikh women through their performance of diverse genres: gadar anti-colonial songs, folk music, sacred hymns, and autobiographical songs. This book will interest scholars of migration, South Asia and South Asian American studies, oceanic humanities, Sikh studies, music, and women's studies. It is also essential reading for anyone who is curious about global music and migration, as well as Sikh history.
